Russia Invites Security Parley Of 25 Nations

MOSCOW, Nov. 13—UP—Russia Saturday invited 23 European nations, the United States and Communist China to meet Nov. 29 on "collective security" in Europe in an attempt to head off German rearmament.

The Soviet Union warned that rearming Germany "greatly increases the threat of a destructive atomic war in Europe." The Russians added that bringing a remilitarized Germany into military blocs sets European states against one another and leads "finally to war."

The Soviets in almost identical notes to the United States, Britain, France and 21 other Communist and non-Communist European nations proposed the meetings be held in Moscow or Paris. The Russians said they "hoped" that Communist China would attend as an "observer."

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov made the first of a series of Soviet formal proposals for an all-European security conference and pact at the Berlin conference, Feb. 10. The West rejected the plan.

Previous Russian suggestions for a European security conference have been made only to the western Big Three. Saturday the Soviets sent notes to the 23 nations and the United States.

Western observers and diplomats in London, Paris, Bonn and Washington predicted that the latest Soviet conference proposal would be turned down flatly. Washington said it was a "bald undisguised" effort to kill the new Paris agreements on rearming a sovereign west Germany.

The nations invited were: Austria, Albania, Bulgaria, East Germany, The Netherlands, Greece, Iceland, Norway, Romania, Turkey, Switzerland, Yugoslavia, France, Great Britain, Belgium, Sweden, Finland, Denmark, Italy, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Luxembourg and the United States.

Omitted were such countries as West Germany, Spain and Portugal, which have no relations with Russia. However, the Soviets offered to let the western Big Three invite "European nations with which the Soviet Union has no diplomatic relations."

The Soviet note said that the Paris agreements on rearming and freeing West Germany signed Oct. 23 were a violation of existing international agreements on Germany.

Police Bolster State's Case In Sheppard Trial

CLEVELAND, Nov. 13—UP—The state will call on veteran police investigators next week in its effort to prove that only Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard could have murdered his wife.

Testimony until now has come from friends of the 30-year-old osteopath-surgeon and a young police officer, Bay Village Patrolman Fred Drenkhan.

Assistant County Prosecutor John J. Mahon admitted the state's case rested heavily on testimony from the professional investigators. "We hope to prove beyond a shadow of a doubt that Dr. Sheppard did it," he said. "These witnesses will be our 'big artillery.' We have some surprises for the defense."

Sheppard has said his pregnant wife, Marilyn, 31, was killed by a pre-drawn intruder last July 4. He said her screams for help awoke him as he lay on a living room couch. He was attacked by the intruder as he reached the head of the stairs to her bedroom, he said, and later knocked unconscious again when he grappled with the "bushy-haired" man on the Lake Erie beach behind their suburban home.

The state contends Sheppard committed the murder after he argued with his wife over attentions to other women.

President Bags 8-Bird Limit In Two-Day Hunt

TOLEDO, Ohio, Nov. 13—UP—President Eisenhower ended a two-day vacation Saturday in which he bagged the eight-bird limit in his first duck hunting in 20 years.

The President got the limit on both days spent in the reed-covered marshes of a private hunting preserve on the shore of Lake Erie near here.

He bagged the four-bird limit within 30 minutes the first day out, but it took him two hours and 25 minutes to come back with two mallards, a teal and a black Saturday morning.

Mr. Eisenhower also did well on land, bagging five pheasants from the club's privately stocked fields and woodlands Friday and two Saturday in a very short period before leaving for the airport.

The President had some game fowl dressed to take with him, but didn't say how many pheasants and ducks were prepared.

The President's host, Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey, accompanied him hunting both days and also came back with the limit.

Mr. Eisenhower took time out Saturday to thank a 12-year-old Toledo girl for mailing him a good luck medal. Patricia Gilbert said she got the medal from Hopalong Cassidy about a year ago and wanted the President to have it.

Demos Split On Tax Cuts Slated For Next Year

Fight Brewing On Scheduled Slashes In Excise Levies

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 (AP)—Democrats on the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee today indicated substantial support for some cuts in excise or sales taxes next year.

They will face the issue shortly after Democrats take control of the new Congress in January. Under present law, taxes will drop automatically April 1 on automobiles, gasoline, liquor, cigarettes, beer and wine, and trucks and buses.

These reductions — amounting to about one billion dollars in revenue per year — were first scheduled to take place last April 1 but were postponed at President Eisenhower's request, over Democratic opposition. That could bring a rough fight on the always touchy excise tax issue.

All 10 holdover Democrats on the committee were asked whether these cuts should be permitted to take effect next April, or should be postponed again.

Their replies varied — four lined up definitely for letting the reductions take effect, while five appeared undecided and one did not answer.

They generally agreed, however, there would be more support for cutting excise taxes than for letting another scheduled reduction take effect.

Under present law corporation income taxes also are scheduled to drop automatically on April 1 — from 52 per cent to 47 per cent, a revenue reduction of about $1,200,000,000 a year.

The corporation cut, too, was scheduled last April 1 but was postponed for one year, presenting another tax problem for the new Congress. Corporation taxes can be changed retroactively, however, while excise taxes must be dealt with before April 1.

Several members suggested the corporate rate might be compromised at 50 per cent, while others lined up about equally in favor of the scheduled cut, against it, or were noncommittal.

Rep. Boggs (D-La) said both issues might be decided by the need for revenue. And right now, he added, the fiscal outlook is not bright.

She referred to her father-in-law in the southern army, who chanced to be in close proximity to Stonewall Jackson when he was shot, "accidentally" as it was termed at the time. $325,000 Job On Bank Here To Start Tuesday

Work on the $325,000 remodeling of the Central Savings Bank and Trust Company at 300 DeSiard street here is scheduled to get underway Tuesday, J. S. Washburn, vice-president of the trust office of the bank, announced Saturday.

Contract for the work has been given to the Bank Building and Equipment Corp. of St. Louis, Mo., Washburn said, but most of the actual work will be done by local contractors, since more than a dozen sub-contracts have been let for the job.

Plans for remodeling the bank include taking over the old Ruth Shop building next to the bank and incorporating it into the bank building. The work will begin Tuesday in the Ruth Shop building, Washburn said.

"They will work in the Ruth Shop building until that phase of the job is completed," Washburn said, "and the bank will continue to operate as usual. When work there is completed, the bank will operate in that building alone until the work inside what is now the bank, is done."

He said the contractors hoped to have the entire remodeling job completed by the first of next August.

When it is completed, Washburn said, the two buildings will serve as the whole bank building, and the bank will be easily accessible from both sides.

He said plans include building another large safety deposit vault which will carry 3000 safety deposit boxes. Twenty-two cages with tellers will handle the regular business of the bank, he said.

"We are building for a period of 25 or 30 years," Washburn said, "and we are planning not to lose a single day while the work is being done."

Negro Juvenile Gang Riots Bring Police Action

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 13 (AP) — Recent teen-age gang violence today forced jittery police and juvenile authorities to crack down on all youngsters aimlessly roaming the streets in groups.

Police Commissioner Thomas J. Gibbons, fearful that the screaming, fist-swinging mobs of Negro youngsters that erupted in two sections of Philadelphia this week might result in bloodshed if not curtailed, clamped down on congregating teen-agers.

"This doesn't mean mass arrests," Gibbons said. "It merely means that we want to make sure no disorders are afoot."

Police said the rioting Wednesday night and yesterday afternoon was a flare-up of gang rivalry, among both boys and girls. Two boy gangs were involved Wednesday when 500 milling, defiant teenagers assembled in West Philadelphia. Seven gun shots were heard but no one was reported hurt.

Boys told juvenile aid detectives the disorderly crowd of 200 yesterday had gathered in expectation of seeing an after-school fight between two girl gangs.

Police said all 800 youths involved in the two outbreaks were Negroes. A total of 58 boys were arrested.

Patrolmen who walk the beat and police who man radio patrol cars had orders today to round up any large groups of boys and girls—whenever they congregate.

Specifically, police were cautioned to be on the alert for teen-age groups after nightfall and on weekends.

Gibbons clamped down on the juvenile gangs under emergency police powers, but he urged city council to enact a citywide curfew that would keep all unescorted boys and girls off the streets after 11 p.m.

Telephone Girl Slain By Lover, Who Kills Self

NEW ALBANY, Miss., Nov. 13 (AP) —A lovers' quarrel erupted into a murder-suicide in the telephone exchange when a 25-year-old man shot down his fiancee as he chased her from the switchboard to the ladies' rest room.

Union County Sheriff Luther Hamilton today identified the dead as Miss Evelyn West, 21, a telephone operator and Wilburn Goode, a farmer, both of nearby Hickory Flat community.

He said witnesses told him the couple had quarreled and shortly before 10 o'clock last night, Goode strode into the telephone exchange, a .32 caliber pistol in hand, and snapped a shot at Miss West as she sat at her switchboard.

Blood streaming from an arm wound, Miss West tore off her headset and dashed for the rest room and apparent safety.

Goode followed, shooting as he ran, and Miss West collapsed mortally wounded. Then, standing near his dying fiancee, Goode turned the pistol on himself and fired three times, the sheriff said.

Both were taken next door to the hospital where they died soon after, Hamilton said.

Details of the lovers' quarrel were not revealed.

Way Is Paved For Early Beginning On Power Project

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 (AP) — The Republican-controlled Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee gave President Eisenhower an immediate go-ahead for the controversial Dixon-Yates contract today.

Democratic opponents promptly served notice they will continue their fight against the private power project.

By a 10-8 vote along straight party lines, the committee decided to waive a requirement that the contract lie before it for 30 days while both houses are in session—or until next February.

Democratic congressmen, who have fought vigorously since June against the proposal to bring new private power into the Tennessee Valley Authority System, had sought to postpone the contract until the next Congress comes under their control.

Today's vote, climaxing 10 days of sometimes stormy committee review, amounts to an official okay for the Dixon-Yates group to begin concrete plans for a new 107-million-dollar power plant at West Memphis, Ark. The law does not provide for the contract's submission to any other congressional group besides the joint committee.

Opponents say they will move to block the proposal in the next Congress by other means — perhaps by trying to withhold funds for the contract, even if it has gone into effect, or by directing that it be canceled.

Some noncongressional steps remain before the contract can become effective. The Securities and Exchange Commission must hold hearings on the utilities group's proposed bond issue and possibly some secondary contracts must be completed.

The committee also voted 10-6 today to stop further hearings on

Police Chief Is Kidnaped, Freed By Ex-Convict

TULLAHOMA, Tenn., Nv. 13 (AP) —Tullahoma police chief Frazier McEwen was kidnaped by an ex-convict today, but the officer was freed about an hour later. The chief was unharmed.

State highway parol dispatcher Lloyd Baker at Chattanooga, about 80 miles southeast of here, said "it has been pretty definitely established" that the officer was kidnaped by James Edward Bowlin, 39, who had been sought since Wednesday in the shooting of a Chattanooga policeman.

W. E. Warnack, a former Bedford County deputy sheriff, said McEwen, about 50, was kidnaped as he tried to arrest Bowlin. Warnack said he knew Bowlin, who lived at nearby Shelbyville.

McEwen was reported freed by Bowlin in a rural area after McEwen's police cruiser ran out of gas.

Details of the incident were not immediately available, but state, federal and local authorities were reported closing in on Bowlin who fled on foot after freeing the chief and abandoning the automobile.

Baker said bloodhounds were being rushed to the area, a wooded section near Fairfield, Tenn., and would be used in the search for Bowlin.

"He took the chief's pistol," Baker said, "so we're taking all precautions."

In 1941, Bowlin plead guilty to charges of kidnaping, grand larceny and attempt to commit a felony. He was sentenced to 7-25 years, and was paroled in November 1952.

Sailor Convicted Of Slaying Sweetheart

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 13—UP — Francesco Espitia, 26-year-old Fort Worth sailor was convicted of murder Saturday in the fatal stabbing of his former sweetheart.

The jury which found Espitia guilty of the slaying of Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Warren, 26, last July, recommended a 30-year prison term.

Espitia had pleaded self-defense. The state charged that he killed Mrs. Warren in a fit of jealousy because she dated other men.

Crazy Mixed-Up Heifer In Illinois Sewer Pipe Thwarts Rescue Efforts

DECATUR, Ill., Nov. 13 (AP) — Jewel, the crazy mixed-up heifer who's behaving like a mole, was snug and well provisioned in her underground sewer pipe today—cut off from the tribulations of the surface world until Monday.

Work on a Decatur city construction project has been held up since Thursday when the 600-pound red-polled heifer tumbled down an uncovered hole into a 500-foot-long sewer pipe.

Thwarting all rescue efforts to date, she bowled over three workmen who tried to capture her yesterday, and today she routed two men who tried to entice her back to the opening.

"She's safe down there for the weekend and there's plenty of food and water if she wants it," philosophied farmer-owner Ernest Florian as he pitched a supply of hay through the hole into the pipe.

For some reason, Jewel, has disdained the shaft of bright daylight that stabs through the manhole opening into the four-foot wide round sewer pipe. She prefers the inky blackness some 200 feet downpipe.

Florian's son, Gary, 30, a Decatur city athletic director, and Jerry Schniepp, a reporter for the Decatur Herald-Review, ventured into the sewer today.

They climbed down another hole behind the heifer with the intention of prodding her forward to the big hole.

"Mawww—Jewel," Florian called out soothingly as they advanced with flashlights.

Jewel moved ahead slowly, heading for the shaft of light.

But within 30 feet of the large opening, Jewel, like any female, changed her mind and her direction.

Despite the tight fit, she slithered around and started toward her would-be rescuers, who in turn scampered back to their manhole exit.

The construction crew plans to meet Jewel head-on Monday with stout barricades—to force her to the big manhole where she can be hoisted out with a derrick.

Negro Bandit In New Orleans Is Slain By Police

NEW ORLEANS —UP— A hold-up man was killed in a wild gun battle with police Saturday minutes after he had robbed a finance company of $500.

The gunman, Napoleon Davis, about 40, Negro, was shot down by police who chased him on foot and by car for several blocks and then cornered him in front of a big building.

The bandit, who turned and fired three shots at his pursuers stumbled into a barber shop in the building after he was hit and then fell dead.

Davis, who was employed at the Camellia Grill, was cornered in front of the building at Orleans and Robertson.

Negro Shot By Officer Again Is Gun Target

Jasper Holland, Rayville Negro, wounded by a Monroe police captain here last month in an incident which has since stirred the ire of a Negro citizens' commitee, was named in police reports again Saturday, this time after allegedly being shot at by another Negro.

Holland, address listed as route 3, box 180-A, Rayville, was uninjured, but the Negro who allegedly fired the shot, Willie Wilson, 20, 1704 Short Washington, was booked at the city jail on a charge of attempted murder.

According to police reports, the latest incident occurred shortly before midnight Friday at Ross LaDart's Bar on DeSiard avenue after Holland and Wilson allegedly became involved in an argument over Wilson's wife.

Police said Wilson admitted firing a single shot after, police said he said, he saw Holland reach toward his pocket. Officers said Wilson told them he thought Holland was going to draw a pistol.

Wilson was arrested on Washington street a few minutes after the shooting, police said.

Holland, on October 9, was shot in the foot by Police Capt. Allen Corbin while Corbin was attempting to arrest him on a simple battery charge and Holland attempted to attack him, Corbin said at the time.

Wednesday a delegation from a Negro citizens' committee, made up of members of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and various Negro veterans and civic organizations, called on Police Chief M. L. Peters to protest the shooting.

S. L. Pierce, a Negro pastor and chairman of the citizens' committee, said the delegation asked Peters "for some sort of instructions to be given the officers to prevent them from such action." He called the shooting "unprovoked."

Police, who made an oral investigation at the time, immediately began taking formal statements from witnesses and Peters said he would inform the committee in writing of the police department's attitude in the case after the investigation is completed. He said Saturday some witnesses still had not been reached.

Holland, charged with simple battery and using profane language in connection with the Corbin incident, is free on bond.

One Man Killed By Debris As 15 Trapped Below

Little Hope Held For West Virginia Maintenance Crew

FARMINGTON, W. Va., Nov. 13 —UP—A terrific explosion, followed by fire, rocked the big Jamison Coal & Coke Co., mine Saturday and 16 men were believed killed.

One man working outside the mine entrance was killed by falling debris. Fifteen maintenance workers were trapped deep inside the mine by the blast.

District Director Clyde Riley of the United Mine Workers health and welfare fund said: "We assume that all 15 men still inside the mine were killed in the explosion."

The blast sent a huge mushroom-like cloud of black smoke belching up from the 545-foot deep main shaft, destroyed a large steel ventilating fan house and a newly-constructed mine portal, and severely damaged other outside buildings.

The cause of the explosion was not determined immediately.

The first known victim was Howard Jenkins, 38, father of four children employed as a lamp man. He was standing in the fan house when it was crumpled by the blast, and was killed by falling debris.

"It was just like a big push, and everything blew out," said assistant mine foreman Ed Capet, one of five men in another portion of the fan house.

The men trapped an estimated 1¼ miles inside the mine were members of a maintenance crew. The last regular shift of about 200 men left at 11 p. m. Friday. About 400 men are employed at the operation.

Heavy smoke billowed out of the ventilating shaft about 300 yards above the portal hours after the explosion which occurred at 1:45 p.m. It indicated a major fire raged inside the mine.

The dense smoke kept rescue teams from entering the main portal for 2½ hours. The rescue operations were being directed by William Berry, northern district inspector-at-large for the state mines department.

The mine is located in the heart

Coroner's Jury Rules Shooting Was Accidental

BLAIRSVILLE, Ga., Nov. 13 (AP) — A coroner's jury ruled today that the fatal shooting of a Union County farmer by a 50-year-old Baptist minister on a hunting trip was accidental.

The Rev. Carl Brewer, who serves four rural churches near Blairsville, read his Bible in jail meanwhile, as he awaited further developments in the case.

Brewer is being held on a murder warrant. He told police he shot Alvin Towe, father of eight, after the two had been separated while hunting eight days ago. He said he fired at a squirrel and then found Towe dead of buckshot wounds.

The minister did not admit the shooting until six days after it occurred. In the meantime he had conducted Towe's funeral.

He said afterwards that he had wanted to comfort Towe's family and get the funeral over before telling of what had happened.

The minister's attorney, Jack Tarpley, was seeking today to obtain a justice of the peace ruling that there is insufficient evidence to take the matter before a superior court.

The coroner's jury which held

Negro Juvenile Gang Riots Bring Police Action

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 13 (AP) — Recent teen-age gang violence today forced jittery police and juvenile authorities to crack down on all youngsters aimlessly roaming the streets in groups.

Police Commissioner Thomas J. Gibbons, fearful that the screaming, fist-swinging mobs of Negro youngsters that erupted in two sections of Philadelphia this week might result in bloodshed if not curtailed, clamped down on congregating teen-agers.

"This doesn't mean mass arrests," Gibbons said. "It merely means that we want to make sure no disorders are afoot."

Police said the rioting Wednesday night and yesterday afternoon was a flare-up of gang rivalry, among both boys and girls. Two boy gangs were involved Wednesday when 500 milling, defiant teenagers assembled in West Philadelphia. Seven gun shots were heard but no one was reported hurt.

Boys told juvenile aid detectives the disorderly crowd of 200 yesterday had gathered in expectation of seeing an after-school fight between two girl gangs.

Police said all 800 youths involved in the two outbreaks were Negroes. A total of 58 boys were arrested.

Patrolmen who walk the beat and police who man radio patrol cars had orders today to round up any large groups of boys and girls—whenever they congregate.

Specifically, police were cautioned to be on the alert for teen-age groups after nightfall and on weekends.

Gibbons clamped down on the juvenile gangs under emergency police powers, but he urged city council to enact a citywide curfew that would keep all unescorted boys and girls off the streets after 11 p.m.

Telephone Girl Slain By Lover, Who Kills Self

NEW ALBANY, Miss., Nov. 13 (AP) —A lovers' quarrel erupted into a murder-suicide in the telephone exchange when a 25-year-old man shot down his fiancee as he chased her from the switchboard to the ladies' rest room.

Union County Sheriff Luther Hamilton today identified the dead as Miss Evelyn West, 21, a telephone operator and Wilburn Goode, a farmer, both of nearby Hickory Flat community.

He said witnesses told him the couple had quarreled and shortly before 10 o'clock last night, Goode strode into the telephone exchange, a .32 caliber pistol in hand, and snapped a shot at Miss West as she sat at her switchboard.

Blood streaming from an arm wound, Miss West tore off her headset and dashed for the rest room and apparent safety.

Goode followed, shooting as he ran, and Miss West collapsed mortally wounded. Then, standing near his dying fiancee, Goode turned the pistol on himself and fired three times, the sheriff said.

Both were taken next door to the hospital where they died soon after, Hamilton said.

$325,000 Job On Bank Here To Start Tuesday

Work on the $325,000 remodeling of the Central Savings Bank and Trust Company at 300 DeSiard street here is scheduled to get underway Tuesday, J. S. Washburn, vice-president of the trust office of the bank, announced Saturday.

Contract for the work has been given to the Bank Building and Equipment Corp. of St. Louis, Mo., Washburn said, but most of the actual work will be done by local contractors, since more than a dozen sub-contracts have been let for the job.

Plans for remodeling the bank include taking over the old Ruth Shop building next to the bank and incorporating it into the bank building. The work will begin Tuesday in the Ruth Shop building, Washburn said.

"They will work in the Ruth Shop building until that phase of the job is completed," Washburn said, "and the bank will continue to operate as usual. When work there is completed, the bank will operate in that building alone until the work inside what is now the bank, is done."

He said the contractors hoped to have the entire remodeling job completed by the first of next August.

When it is completed, Washburn said, the two buildings will serve as the whole bank building, and the bank will be easily accessible from both sides.

He said plans include building another large safety deposit vault which will carry 3000 safety deposit boxes. Twenty-two cages with tellers will handle the regular business of the bank, he said.

"We are building for a period of 25 or 30 years," Washburn said, "and we are planning not to lose a single day while the work is being done."

Way Is Paved For Early Beginning On Power Project

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 (AP) — The Republican-controlled Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee gave President Eisenhower an immediate go-ahead for the controversial Dixon-Yates contract today.

Democratic opponents promptly served notice they will continue their fight against the private power project.

By a 10-8 vote along straight party lines, the committee decided to waive a requirement that the contract lie before it for 30 days while both houses are in session—or until next February.

Democratic congressmen, who have fought vigorously since June against the proposal to bring new private power into the Tennessee Valley Authority System, had sought to postpone the contract until the next Congress comes under their control.

Today's vote, climaxing 10 days of sometimes stormy committee review, amounts to an official okay for the Dixon-Yates group to begin concrete plans for a new 107-million-dollar power plant at West Memphis, Ark. The law does not provide for the contract's submission to any other congressional group besides the joint committee.

Opponents say they will move to block the proposal in the next Congress by other means — perhaps by trying to withhold funds for the contract, even if it has gone into effect, or by directing that it be canceled.

Some noncongressional steps remain before the contract can become effective. The Securities and Exchange Commission must hold hearings on the utilities group's proposed bond issue and possibly some secondary contracts must be completed.

The committee also voted 10-6 today to stop further hearings on

Police Chief Is Kidnaped, Freed By Ex-Convict

TULLAHOMA, Tenn., Nv. 13 (AP) —Tullahoma police chief Frazier McEwen was kidnaped by an ex-convict today, but the officer was freed about an hour later. The chief was unharmed.

State highway parol dispatcher Lloyd Baker at Chattanooga, about 80 miles southeast of here, said "it has been pretty definitely established" that the officer was kidnaped by James Edward Bowlin, 39, who had been sought since Wednesday in the shooting of a Chattanooga policeman.

W. E. Warnack, a former Bedford County deputy sheriff, said McEwen, about 50, was kidnaped as he tried to arrest Bowlin. Warnack said he knew Bowlin, who lived at nearby Shelbyville.

McEwen was reported freed by Bowlin in a rural area after McEwen's police cruiser ran out of gas.

Details of the incident were not immediately available, but state, federal and local authorities were reported closing in on Bowlin who fled on foot after freeing the chief and abandoning the automobile.

Baker said bloodhounds were being rushed to the area, a wooded section near Fairfield, Tenn., and would be used in the search for Bowlin.

"He took the chief's pistol," Baker said, "so we're taking all precautions."

In 1941, Bowlin plead guilty to charges of kidnaping, grand larc_ny and attempt to commit a felony. He was sentenced to 7-25 years, and was paroled in November 1952.

Sailor Convicted Of Slaying Sweetheart

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 13—UP — Francisco Espitia, 26-year-old Fort Worth sailor was convicted of murder Saturday in the fatal stabbing of his former sweetheart.

The jury which found Espitia guilty of the slaying of Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Warren, 26, last July, recommended a 30-year prison term.

Espitia had pleaded self-defense. The state charged that he killed Mrs. Warren in a fit of jealousy because she dated other men.

Crazy Mixed-Up Heifer In Illinois Sewer Pipe Thwarts Rescue Efforts

DECATUR, Ill., Nov. 13 (AP) — Jewel, the crazy mixed-up heifer who's behaving like a mole, was snug and well provisioned in her underground sewer pipe today—cut off from the tribulations of the surface world until Monday.

Work on a Decatur city construction project has been held up since Thursday when the 600-pound red-polled heifer tumbled down an uncovered hole into a 500-foot-long sewer pipe.

Thwarting all rescue efforts to date, she bowled over three workmen who tried to capture her yesterday, and today she routed two men who tried to entice her back to the opening.

"She's safe down there for the weekend and there's plenty of food and water if she wants it," philosophied farmer-owner Ernest Florian as he pitched a supply of hay through the hole into the pipe.

For some reason, Jewel, has disdained the shaft of bright daylight that stabs through the manhole opening into the four-foot wide round sewer pipe. She prefers the inky blackness some 200 feet down-pipe.

Florian's son, Gary, 30, a Decatur city athletic director, and Jerry Schniepp, a reporter for the Decatur Herald-Review, ventured into the sewer today.

They climbed down another hole behind the heifer with the intention of prodding her forward to the big hole.

"Mawww—Jewel," Florian called out soothingly as they advanced with flashlights.

Jewel moved ahead slowly, heading for the shaft of light.

But within 30 feet of the large opening, Jewel, like any female, changed her mind and her direction.

Despite the tight fit, she slithered around and started toward her would-be rescuers, who in turn scampered back to their manhole exit.

The construction crew plans to meet Jewel head-on Monday with stout barricades—to force her to the big manhole where she can be hoisted out with a derrick.

Negro Bandit In New Orleans Is Slain By Police

NEW ORLEANS —UP— A hold-up man was killed in a wild gun battle with police Saturday minutes after he had robbed a finance company of $500.

The gunman, Napoleon Davis, about 40, Negro, was shot down by police who chased him on foot and by car for several blocks and then cornered him in front of a big building.

The bandit, who turned and fired three shots at his pursuers stumbled into a barber shop in the building after he was hit and then fell dead.

Davis, who was employed at the Camellia Grill, was cornered in front of the building at Orleans and Robertson.

Negro Shot By Officer Again Is Gun Target

Jasper Holland, Rayville Negro, wounded by a Monroe police captain here last month in an incident which has since stirred the ire of a Negro citizens' commitee, was named in police reports again Saturday, this time after allegedly being shot at by another Negro.

Holland, address listed as route 3, box 180-A, Rayville, was uninjured, but the Negro who allegedly fired the shot, Willie Wilson, 20, 1704 Short Washington, was booked at the city jail on a charge of attempted murder.

According to police reports, the latest incident occurred shortly before midnight Friday at Ross LaDart's Bar on DeSiard avenue after Holland and Wilson allegedly became involved in an argument over Wilson's wife.

Police said Wilson admitted firing a single shot after, police said he said, he saw Holland reach toward his pocket. Officers said Wilson told them he thought Holland was going to draw a pistol.

Wilson was arrested on Washington street a few minutes after the shooting, police said.

Holland, on October 9, was shot in the foot by Police Capt. Allen Corbin while Corbin was attempting to arrest him on a simple battery charge and Holland attempted to attack him, Corbin said at the time.

Wednesday a delegation from a Negro citizens' committee, made up of members of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and various Negro veterans and civic organizations, called on Police Chief M. L. Peters to protest the shooting.

S. L. Pierce, a Negro pastor and chairman of the citizens' committee, said the delegation asked Peters "for some sort of instructions to be given the officers to prevent them from such action." He called the shooting "unprovoked."

Police, who made an oral investigation at the time, immediately began taking formal statements from witnesses and Peters said he would inform the committee in writing of the police department's attitude in the case after the investigation is completed. He said Saturday some witnesses still had not been reached.

Holland, charged with simple battery and using profane language in connection with the Corbin incident, is free on bond.

One Man Killed By Debris As 15 Trapped Below

Little Hope Held For West Virginia Maintenance Crew

FARMINGTON, W. Va., Nov. 13 —UP—A terrific explosion, followed by fire, rocked the big Jamison Coal & Coke Co., mine Saturday and 16 men were believed killed.

One man working outside the mine entrance was killed by falling debris. Fifteen maintenance workers were trapped deep inside the mine by the blast.

District Director Clyde Riley of the United Mine Workers health and welfare fund said: "We assume that all 15 men still inside the mine were killed in the explosion."

The blast sent a huge mushroom-like cloud of black smoke belching up from the 545-foot deep main shaft, destroyed a large steel ventilating fan house and a newly-constructed mine portal, and severely damaged other outside buildings.

The cause of the explosion was not determined immediately.

The first known victim was Howard Jenkins, 38, father of four children employed as a lamp man. He was standing in the fan house when it was crumpled by the blast, and was killed by falling debris.

"It was just like a big push, and everything blew out," said assistant mine foreman Ed Capet, one of five men in another portion of the fan house.

The men trapped an estimated 1¼ miles inside the mine were members of a maintenance crew. The last regular shift of about 200 men left at 11 p. m. Friday. About 400 men are employed at the operation.

Heavy smoke billowed out of the ventilating shaft about 300 yards above the portal hours after the explosion which occurred at 1:45 p.m. It indicated a major fire raged inside the mine.

The dense smoke kept rescue teams from entering the main portal for 2½ hours. The rescue operations were being directed by William Berry, northern district inspector-at-large for the state mines department.

The mine is located in the heart

Coroner's Jury Rules Shooting Was Accidental

BLAIRSVILLE, Ga., Nov. 13 (AP) — A coroner's jury ruled today that the fatal shooting of a Union County farmer by a 50-year-old Baptist minister on a hunting trip was accidental.

The Rev. Carl Brewer, who serves four rural churches near Blairsville, read his Bible in jail meanwhile, as he awaited further developments in the case.

Brewer is being held on a murder warrant. He told police he shot Alvin Towe, father of eight, after the two had been separated while hunting eight days ago. He said he fired at a squirrel and then found Towe dead of buckshot wounds.

The minister did not admit the shooting until six days after it occurred. In the meantime he had conducted Towe's funeral.

He said afterwards that he had wanted to comfort Towe's family and get the funeral over before telling of what had happened.

The minister's attorney, Jack Tarpley, was seeking today to obtain a justice of the peace ruling that there is insufficient evidence to take the matter before a superior court.

The coroner's jury which held

Gunshots Damage Telephone Cable In Ferriday Area

FERRIDAY, Nov. 13 (Special)—Gunshots from a .22 calibre rifle and a shotgun doing damage to a telephone cable caused temporary disruption of long distance calls Wednesday afternoon in the vicinity of Jonesville, Ferriday, Sicily Island, St. Joseph, Ferriday and Vidalia according to A. B. Kessler, group manager of the Winnsboro area of the Southern Bell Telephone Co.

This is the seventh time that service has been interfered with on the same cable resulting from gunshots. Kessler went on to state that persons undoubtedly fail to realize the damage done when long distance calls are disrupted. The citizen who is trying to place a call maybe in a life or death situation could be very well put in a pecarious position resulting from carelesness on the part of some hunters and then those who would maliciously fire shots at the cable.

Kessler in accordance with his statement about the damage being done to the cable said the company has reasons to believe this was a deliberate act upon somebody's part to shoot the wire.

Parish officials have been called upon to aid in preventing similar occurrences with action being promised by the sheriff and parish officers as well as by state troopers and others in the area.

The exact location of the occurrence was one mile north of Pat's Drive-Inn Theatre on the Ferriday-Vidalia highway.

Retarded Child Needs Discussion Slated By Group

The needs of a class of mentally under developed children at the Milsaps School, will be among topics discussed at a meeting of the Northeast Louisiana Association for Retarded Children, to be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the West Monroe Agriculture Building, according to association president, Ike Hamilton.

Another feature of the meeting will be a report on a recent meeting of the board of directors of the Louisiana Association for Retarded Children, which was held in Alexandria. Making the report will be Mrs. A. T. Givens, vice-president of the northeast group, and a director on the state board.

The special class at the Milsaps School has been in operation for six weeks, Hamilton said. It had six students at the outset, but now has nine.

A general discussion of the needs of the underdeveloped children in the area will also be on the evening's program, Hamilton said.

suggested different items might be handled separately. For example, they said, if the automobile industry is lagging next year, a cut could be permitted in that field while other items are held to present levels.

Several members predicted an especially strong drive to lower the tax on automobiles, now 10 per cent. It goes to 7 per cent under the automatic cut now scheduled for April 1.

Other scheduled reductions:

Liquor, from $10.50 to $9 a gallon.

Cigarettes, from 8 to 7 cents per standard pack.

Gasoline, from 2 to 1½ cents per gallon. This issue could be influenced by what happens to President Eisenhower's plea for a big new highway construction program.

Wine, by varying rates according to alcoholic content. The cuts would range from 2 cents a gallon at less than 14 per cent alcohol, to $1.50 a gallon at above 24 per cent alcohol.

Trucks and buses, from 8 per cent to 5 per cent.

Atomic Energy

the hotly debated 500-million-dollar contract. Rep. Holifield (D-Calif), had sought to continue hearings and to call up the utility heads and more government officials including some opposed to the contract.

The votes of three Republican and two Democratic members of the committee were counted through proxy, except on the question of continuing the hearings in which absent Sens. Russell (D-Ga) and Pastore (D-RI) were recorded as not voting. Other absentees were Sen. Millikin (R-Colo), Cordon (R-Ore) and Patterson (R-Conn), who were recorded with the majority on each vote.

The 25-to-45-year contract provides that the Atomic Energy Commission pay about 20 million dollars a year for power from the West Memphis plant to be built by the Dixon-Yates group. The power would be sent into TVA lines in return for some of the electricity TVA now supplies AEC.

Commenting on the contract, which was revised on several counts last week just before being signed, committee Chairman W. Sterling Cole (R-NY) told newsmen:

"Generally, I am fairly satisfied with the contract. It received full and earnest consideration from the Atomic Energy Commission and government officials and was given meticulous scrutiny by the atomic committee."

Holifield countered with a charge that the "lame duck" Republican majority of the committee had "defied the will of the American people."

Holifield said in a statement that, "President Eisenhower intervened personally in the committee deliberation to accomplish this unfortunate result. The President must accept full responsibility for Dixon-Yates."

The President wrote Cole last Wednesday requesting quick approval so that construction could begin soon. Administration spokesmen predict a critical power shortage by 1957 in the TVA area.

Eisenhower told a news conference the same day that he still approved of the power contract as the best way of meeting the power shortage.

Holifield said, however, that the contract even now "will invite further congressional opposition and lawsuits by other parties."

The congressman said he will introduce a resolution in the next Congress to nullify the contract, and he predicted that Democrats on appropriations committees will fight against granting funds to carry it out.

And before the next Congress convenes, it is understood, opposition groups from the Tennessee Valley may go to court to prevent the SEC from giving approval for the proposed methods of financing the new plant.

The committee's action today came after it had heard Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) label the contract as "dishonest" and "fantastic." In an hour-long statement, the Tennessee senator said the contract had "loopholes" which might still permit Dixon-Yates "enormous windfall profits"—a contention which the contract's supporters have denied.

The committee postponed its vote during a 90-minute morning closed door session in order to reopen the hearings for Kefauver's testimony in what was described as a gesture of courtesy to the senator.

Then the group met again in closed session. In half an hour it voted the waiver and killed Holifield's attempt to continue the hearings.

The committee decided to permit all interested persons to file statements for the record up until next Friday. That would clear the way for what probably will be strongly conflicting majority and minority reports on the committee's hearings, which started Nov. 4.

The Dixon-Yates controversy first vaulted into national prominence during the congressional debate last summer over the administration's plan to revise the atomic energy law. It has been involved in the broader public vs. private power dispute and in political charges and countercharges ever since.

In general, supporters say the contract is a fair and economical way to get needed power without overexpanding the TVA. Critics term it a "giveaway" to giant utility interests and say its purpose is to help "cripple" TVA.

that the shooting was accidental included Tarpley's daughter, Mrs. Lillian Lance. The jury ruling and her presence brought this comment from Lt. Woody Wilson of the Georgia Bureau of Investigation: "This is the fastest league I've ever been in."

Wilson, who has been investigating the shooting, said he hoped the justice of the peace hearing would not be held until the state can be represented by an attorney.

Tarpley said that Herschel Towe, brother of the slain man who took out the murder warrant, has changed his mind and does not wish to prosecute. The attorney said the brother "feels there is no basis for prosecution" and feels no animosity towards Brewer.

of the northern West Virginia coal fields—only five miles from Monongah, scene of the nation's worst mine disaster. A total of 360 miners were killed by a coal dust explosion at Monongah on Dec. 6, 1907.

The blast also occurred on the 45th anniversary of the worst mine disaster in Illinois history. On Nov. 13, 1909, 268 miners lost their lives when the St. Paul coal mine at Cherry, Ill., caught fire. Only 20 miners survived.

Debris from the roaring explosion here fell as far away as Idamay, 1½ miles from the mine. The blast was heard for miles.

Within minutes of the Farmington blast, hundreds of persons swarmed to the pit mouth to aid in rescue efforts. Relatives of those reported trapped below waited anxiously for latest reports.

The cause of the explosion was not immediately determined but F. D. Priester, manager of Jamison's supply company here, said it could be heard "for miles."

"The smoke rose out of the portal like an atomic mushroom cloud," Preister said.

Bastrop Escapee Breaks His Back In Suicide Try

BASTROP, La., Nov. 13 (AP) — Sheriff Robert E. Harp said he received word late yesterday from the Napa, Calif., chief of police that a Morehouse Parish jail escapee received a broken back in an attempted suicide "by car."

Harp identified the escapee as Marvin Richard Langston, 30, of Bastrop.

Harp said he had received a telephone call early yesterday from Langston. He said the escapee asked if he still was wanted in Morehouse Parish to serve an unfinished two-year sentence for burglary.

The sheriff said he told Langston he still was wanted and received a promise the man would either turn himself over to the nearest police or catch a train for Bastrop.

Harp said this was Langston's third known suicide attempt. He escaped from Morehouse Parish jail Oct. 13, 1953.

Gravel Hopeful Of Love Feast At Party's Meeting

BATON ROUGE —UP— Louisiana's Democratic national committeeman says he hopes the party will emerge from next month's meeting in New Orleans "united as it never has been before."

Committeeman Camille Gravel of Alexandria spoke Friday night at a meeting of sixth congressional district Democrats. U.S. Sen. Russell Long and Neil Roach, representing national chairman Stephen Mitchell, also addressed the group.

All agreed the Dec. 3-4 meeting in New Orleans of the national committee will help unify the party.

"New Orleans was chosen for a definite purpose," Gravel said. "We want to see if we can't get the Democratic party united as it never has been before, away from the heat of a political campaign."

Sen. Long added, "We want to work it out so every Democrat is proud to stay in his party so we won't have these party-splitting fights on the floor."

Roach said, "This is the first time in history that the national committee will meet in the South to elect officers. It signifies the rebirth of unity and understanding."

About 75 Democrats attended the meeting. Each pledged to buy three tickets to the $100 a plate fund-raising banquet Dec. 4 at which Adlai Stevenson will speak.

Noted Criminal To Be Returned To Mississippi

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP) — Forrest County authorities said today Nick Montos, listed by the FBI as one of the nation's ten most wanted criminals prior to his recent arrest in Chicago, would be returned here where he jumped $10,000 bond in 1951.

Sheriff W. A. Payne and District Attorney Lawrence Arrington said they had received a telephone call from a United States attorney in Chicago informing them that Montos pleaded guilty yesterday in federal district court to a charge of conspiracy. Montos was charged with transporting stolen goods across a state line.

The federal judge sentenced Montos to seven years, but said these could be served concurrently with a seven-year sentence Montos faces at the Mississippi Penitentiary.

Montos will be transferred to the state prison farm at Parchman after he is returned here, Payne said.

Montos and Curtis (Bull) Whitley were caught in the act of burglarizing a feed and grocery company here in March, 1951. Both posted appeal bonds and vanished before the State Supreme Court confirmed the Circuit Court decision.

Whitley was apprehended later in Mississippi and is now serving his sentence at Parchman.

Gunshots Damage Telephone Cable In Ferriday Area

FERRIDAY, Nov. 13 (Special)—Gunshots from a .22 calibre rifle and a shotgun doing damage to a telephone cable caused temporary disruption of long distance calls Wednesday afternoon in the vicinity of Jonesville, Ferriday, Sicily Island, St. Joseph, Ferriday and Vidalia according to A. B. Kessler, group manager of the Winnsboro area of the Southern Bell Telephone Co.

This is the seventh time that service has been interfered with on the same cable resulting from gunshots. Kessler went on to state that persons undoubtedly fail to realize the damage done when long distance calls are disrupted. The citizen who is trying to place a call maybe in a life or death situation could be very well put in a pecarious position resulting from carelessness on the part of some hunters and then those who would maliciously fire shots at the cable.

Kessler in accordance with his statement about the damage being done to the cable said the company has reasons to believe this was a deliberate act upon somebody's part to shoot the wire.

Parish officials have been called upon to aid in preventing similar occurrences with action being promised by the sheriff and parish officers as well as by state troopers and others in the area.

The exact location of the occurrence was one mile north of Pat's Drive-Inn Theatre on the Ferriday-Vidalia highway.

Retarded Child Needs Discussion Slated By Group

The needs of a class of mentally under developed children at the Milsaps School, will be among topics discussed at a meeting of the Northeast Louisiana Association for Retarded Children, to be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the West Monroe Agriculture Building, according to association president, Ike Hamilton.

Another feature of the meeting will be a report on a recent meeting of the board of directors of the Louisiana Association for Retarded Children, which was held in Alexandria. Making the report will be Mrs. A. T. Givens, vice-president of the northeast group, and a director on the state board.

The special class at the Milsaps School has been in operation for six weeks, Hamilton said. It had six students at the outset, but now has nine.

A general discussion of the needs of the underdeveloped children in the area will also be on the evening's program, Hamilton said.

suggested different items might be handled separately. For example, they said, if the automobile industry is lagging next year, a cut could be permitted in that field while other items are held to present levels.

Several members predicted an especially strong drive to lower the tax on automobiles, now 10 per cent. It goes to 7 per cent under the automatic cut now scheduled for April 1.

Other scheduled reductions:

Liquor, from $10.50 to $9 a gallon.

Cigarettes, from 8 to 7 cents per standard pack.

Gasoline, from 2 to 1½ cents per gallon. This issue could be influenced by what happens to President Eisenhower's plea for a big new highway construction program.

Wine, by varying rates according to alcoholic content. The cuts would range from 2 cents a gallon at less than 14 per cent alcohol, to $1.50 a gallon at above 24 per cent alcohol.

Trucks and buses, from 8 per cent to 5 per cent.

the hotly debated 500-million-dollar contract. Rep. Holifield (D-Calif) had sought to continue hearings and to call up the utility heads and more government officials including some opposed to the contract.

The votes of three Republican and two Democratic members of the committee were counted through proxy, except on the question of continuing the hearings in which absent Sens. Russell (D-Ga) and Pastore (D-RI) were recorded with the majority on voting. Other absentees were Sen. Millikin (R-Colo), Cordon (R-Ore) and Patterson (R-Conn), who were recorded with the majority on each vote.

The 25-to-45-year contract provides that the Atomic Energy Commission pay about 20 million dollars a year for power from the West Memphis plant to be built by the Dixon-Yates group. The power would be sent into TVA lines in return for some of the electricity TVA now supplies AEC.

Commenting on the contract, which was revised on several counts last week just before being signed, committee Chairman W. Sterling Cole (R-NY) told newsmen:

"Generally, I am fairly satisfied with the contract. It received full and earnest consideration from the Atomic Energy Commission and government officials and was given meticulous scrutiny by the atomic committee."

Holifield countered with a charge that the "lame duck" Republican majority of the committee had "defied the will of the American people."

Holifield said in a statement that, "President Eisenhower intervened personally in the committee deliberation to accomplish this unfortunate result. The President must accept full responsibility for Dixon-Yates."

The President wrote Cole last Wednesday requesting quick approval so that construction could begin soon. Administration spokesmen predict a critical power shortage by 1957 in the TVA area.

Eisenhower told a news conference the same day that he still approved of the power contract as the best way of meeting the power shortage.

Holifield said, however, that the contract even now "will invite further congressional opposition and lawsuits by other parties."

The congressman said he will introduce a resolution in the next Congress to nullify the contract, and he predicted that Democrats on appropriations committees will fight against granting funds to carry it out.

And before the next Congress convenes, it is understood, opposition groups from the Tennessee Valley may go to court to prevent the SEC from giving approval for the proposed methods of financing the new plant.

The committee's action today came after it had heard Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) label the contract as "dishonest" and "fantastic." In an hour-long statement, the Tennessee senator said the contract had "loopholes" which might still permit Dixon-Yates "enormous windfall profits"—a contention which the contract's supporters have denied.

The committee postponed its vote during a 90-minute morning closed door session in order to reopen the hearings for Kefauver's testimony in what was described as a gesture of courtesy to the senator.

Then the group met again in closed session. In half an hour it voted the waiver and killed Holifield's attempt to continue the hearings.

The committee decided to permit all interested persons to file statements for the record up until next Friday. That would clear the way for what probably will be strongly conflicting majority and minority reports on the committee's hearings, which started Nov. 4.

The Dixon-Yates controversy first burst into national prominence during the congressional debate last summer over the administration's plan to revise the atomic energy law. It has been involved in the broader public vs. private power dispute and in political charges and countercharges ever since.

In general, supporters say the contract is a fair and economical way to get needed power without overexpanding the TVA. Critics term it a "giveaway" to giant utility interests and say its purpose is to help "cripple" TVA.

that the shooting was accidental included Tarpley's daughter, Mrs. Lillian Lance. The jury ruling and their presence brought this comment from Lt. Woody Wilson of the Georgia Bureau of Investigation: "This is the fastest league I've ever been in."

Wilson, who has been investigating the shooting, said he hoped the justice of the peace hearing would not be held until the state can be represented by an attorney.

Tarpley said that Herschel Towe, brother of the slain man who took out the murder warrant, has changed his mind and does not wish to prosecute. The attorney said the brother "feels there is no basis for prosecution" and feels no animosity towards Brewer.

of the northern West Virginia coal fields—only five miles from Monongah, scene of the nation's worst mine disaster. A total of 360 miners were killed by a coal dust explosion at Monongah on Dec. 6, 1907.

The blast also occurred on the 45th anniversary of the worst mine disaster in Illinois history. On Nov. 13, 1909, 268 miners lost their lives in the St. Paul coal mine at Cherry, Ill., caught fire. Only 20 miners survived.

Debris from the roaring explosion here fell as far away as Idamay, 1½ miles from the mine. The blast was heard for miles.

Within minutes of the Farmington blast, hundreds of persons swarmed to the pit mouth to aid in rescue efforts. Relatives of those reported trapped below waited anxiously for latest reports.

The cause of the explosion was not immediately determined but F. D. Priester, manager of Jamison's supply company here, said it could be heard "for miles."

"The smoke rose out of the portal like an atomic mushroom cloud," Preister said.

Bastrop Escapee Breaks His Back In Suicide Try

BASTROP, La., Nov. 13 (AP) — Sheriff Robert E. Harp said he received word late yesterday from the Napa, Calif., chief of police that a Morehouse Parish jail escapee received a broken back in an attempted suicide "by car."

Harp identified the escapee as Marvin Richard Langston, 30, of Bastrop.

Harp said he had received a telephone call early yesterday from Langston. He said the escapee asked if he still was wanted in Morehouse Parish to serve an unfinished two-year sentence for burglary.

The sheriff said he told Langston he still was wanted and received a promise the man would either turn himself over to the nearest police or catch a train for Bastrop.

Harp said this was Langston's third known suicide attempt. He escaped from Morehouse Parish jail Oct. 13, 1953.

Gravel Hopeful Of Love Feast At Party's Meeting

BATON ROUGE —UP— Louisiana's Democratic national committeeman says he hopes the party will emerge from next month's meeting in New Orleans "united as it never has been before."

Committeeman Camille Gravel of Alexandria spoke Friday night at a meeting of sixth congressional district Democrats. U.S. Sen. Russell Long and Neil Roach, representing national chairman Stephen Mitchell, also addressed the group.

All agreed the Dec. 3-4 meeting in New Orleans of the national committee will help unify the party.

"New Orleans was chosen for a definite purpose," Gravel said. "We want to see if we can't get the Democratic party united as it never has been before, away from the heat of a political campaign."

Sen. Long added, "We want to work it out so every Democrat is proud to stay in his party so we won't have these party-splitting fights on the floor."

Roach said, "This is the first time in history that the national committee will meet in the South to elect officers. It signifies the rebirth of unity and understanding."

About 75 Democrats attended the meeting. Each pledged to buy three tickets to the $100 a plate fund-raising banquet Dec. 4 at which Adlai Stevenson will speak.

Benefit Turkey Dinner Planned At Bond's On Sunday

Plans are underway by members of the local Altrusa Club for raising funds to further the social service work of the club for the remainder of the year. Composed of women executives in the business world, Altrusa realizes the value of helping the handicapped and giving service to those unfortunate ones who cannot help themselves.

In April, 1953 Altrusa Club organized the United Cerebral Palsy Association of Northeast Louisiana and sponsored the association during that year. In November, 1953 the first school in Ouachita Parish was established for cerebral palsied children through the cooperation of the school authorities, parents of children with C. P., business men and women and the Altrusa Club.

Altrusa Club has taken the Cerebral Palsy School under their wing and are having a benefit turkey dinner on Sunday, November 21 from 11 to 2 p.m. The entire proceeds of this benefit affair will go toward buying much needed equipment for the school. Mrs. Thelma Bond of Bond's Bakery has generously offered the services of her bakery at Catalpa and Harrison for this annual affair.

How much of the equipment for the Cerebral Palsy School located at Selman Field can be bought dehends upon how well the people of the Twin Cities support the dinner. This is a project which will take many years to develop in its entirety and one in which the citizens of north Louisiana will benefit from.

Battlegrounds Of Egypt Ripe For Oil Exploration

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Nov. 13 (AP)—Several American companies hope to find oil beneath such famous North African battlegrounds as El Alamein, Sidi Barani and Mersa Matruh.

Exploration activities are under way on a 75,000 square mile concession recently received by Conorada Petroleum Corp. from the Republic of Egypt.

The concession comorises a desert area a bit larger than the state of Oklahoma. From Alexandria it extends 200 miles to the south and 350 miles west to the Libyan border.

Many geologists believe the subsurface structure of the rectangular area falls within an extention of the Persian Gulf area, one of the world's richest oil producing regions.

Conorada's contract also authorizes explorations in Egypt's Mediterranean tidelands.

The Egyptian government, in granting the concession, also was alert to possibilities other than oil —water and archaeological discoveries.

Any such discoveries beneath the dry, desert land would become property of the government.

The operator and manager of the concession is Egyptian-American Oil Co. a subsidiary of Continental Oil Co. of Houston, The concession soon will be assigned to subsidiaries of Continental, Ohio Oil Co., Cities Service Co., and Richfield Oil Corp.

Policy Is Outlined By Water Commissioners

A statement of policies and intentions of the commissioners of the Western Ouachita water district, formed Wednesday by the Ouachita parish police jury, was issued yesterday by the commissioners.

The newly-formed water district comprises Splane, McGuire, Sunshine Heights, and Mauldin tract additions, just outside the city limits of West Monroe.

Commissioners for the district include Jack Dew, Elton H. Busbice, and Sam Orchard, named by the police jury, and W. A. Lolley and Milton Childers, who were recommended for appointment by Gov. Robert F. Kennon. Such appointments are usually automatic.

According to the statement, the five commissioners will begin immediately to work toward getting a supply of water for the district, which now uses water from the city of West Monroe.

The city council of West Monroe has announced its intention of stopping the supply of water to the areas about the middle of next year, and the commissioners are faced with the task of setting up some kind of water supply before then, although they are hopeful the city may give them more time.

"We, the commissioners, and all the residents of the district cannot believe that the city of West Monroe will willfully subject our citizens to hardships and privations by discontinuing water service before we have available a separate source of supply," the statement read.

The idea of forming the water district was brought up in an effort to balk plans of West Monroe to bring the additions into the city limits and the district is now mandatory — with the city's proposed cutoff — if the areas do not join West Monroe.

The city council has already banned any additional water taps in the areas, and the water district commissioners are asking that the ban be lifted.

"We hope that the city can see its way clear to lift the ban on water taps at this time, as water pressure is adequate during the winter and spring months," the statement read. "The cost of new water taps in the area is borne entirely by the property owners and would be no financial burden on the city of West Monroe. As the water district will assume the responsibility of furnishing water service the present ban on taps is stopping development in the area and is damaging the economy of the city and subdivisions as a whole.

The commissioners, who say present plans call for a complete water system for domestic and commercial use and fire protection, also ask the city council to stop plans for annexation until residents of the area have had a chance to vote on a bond issue for the water district.

In making the statement, the commissioners paid tribute to the "untiring efforts made by the citizens' committee in bringing about the creation of the water district."

Benefit Turkey Dinner Planned At Bond's On Sunday

Plans are underway by members of the local Altrusa Club for raising funds to further the social service work of the club for the remainder of the year. Composed of women executives in the business world, Altrusa realizes the value of helping the handicapped and giving service to those unfortunate ones who cannot help themselves.

In April, 1953 Altrusa Club organized the United Cerebral Palsy Association of Northeast Louisiana and sponsored the association during that year. In November, 1953 the first school in Ouachita Parish was established for cerebral palsied children through the cooperation of the school authorities, parents of children with C. P., business men and women and the Altrusa Club.

Altrusa Club has taken the Cerebral Palsy School under their wing and are having a benefit turkey dinner on Sunday, November 21 from 11 to 2 p.m. The entire proceeds of this benefit affair will go toward buying much needed equipment for the school. Mrs. Thelma Bond of Bond's Bakery has generously offered the services of her bakery at Catalpa and Harrison for this annual affair.

How much of the equipment for the Cerebral Palsy School located at Selman Field can be bought dehends upon how well the people of the Twin Cities support the dinner. This is a project which will take many years to develop in its entirety and one in which the citizens of north Louisiana will benefit from.

GODS! CAN A ROMAN SENATE LONG DEBATE WHICH OF THE TWO TO CHOOSE, SLAVERY OR DEATH!

(CATO ACT II, Sc 1—Joseph Addinson)

The dusty pages of history have been renovated, the dust removed and the shining alabaster columns of ancient Rome are once again in splendor. The debates of a once great Republic, a nation conceived in liberty for men are being revived this week in yet another forum.

The history of the Senate of Rome sets a startling precedent for the events which have transpired this week in the city of Washington, United States of America, formerly a sovereign Republic.

Aptly called by the head ringmaster (a modern Flavius if ever there was one), Arthur Watkins, "a court," the United States Senate may this week be reenacting events long forgotten through the years which mark the separation of the destinies of one great nation and another.

Indeed, history records that once there was another great forum of lawmakers which brought a weak confederation of pastoral people into the realm of a world power, a breathtaking and splendorous power. History also records the same Senate debating itself into degeneration before the great Caesar who wanted only "power for the people." The same history records the eventual degeneration of that Senate and its final doom. With the end of the Roman Senate, came the end of Rome and the beginning of the dark ages.

Nearly two thousand years of suffering and madness have transpired since those days of great Rome.

Even today, humans being humans, the madness has not ceased.

On the same dusty pages of history, there are two shining points in the evolution of mankind which may be the two points of salvation. The first and primary consideration in the long flight out of evil was the forced signature of the great charter of England where a mad, power-crazed monarch was made to render unto his knights and people some of his personal power.

The second was the signing of the American Declaration of Independence and the formation of the Constitution.

It is recorded that thirteen separate, quarreling and independent states bound themselves together for mutual security in the face of a storm from old Europe which in the last stages of degradation, was even then in the process of murder and pillage on a scale never before seen on the earth.

Think of it!

Thirteen helpless and war-ravaged states attempting to do what had been tried but what had not succeeded since early Rome—to form a nation or a confederation of nations through a forum—the Senate.

What chance has character when character is destroyed by mediocrity and idiocy?

In the face of a claim so often heard "reaction"—it is necessary to record again the human pattern which has not yet changed. Caesars, Napoleons, Bismarcks, Disraelis, Washingtons, Jeffersons—humans all, may come and go, but human nature remains.

Thus, the pattern of history remains unchanged.

Empires start, flourish, prosper, become great, forget themselves and become as they were at the start, dust, mere flecks of dust—fit subjects for the archeologist pick of some future time. The men of yesteryear had the same hopes, the same dreams, the same hates, the same loves as do men today.

Their's was a splendor no less great, perhaps even greater than today. Their thoughts of liberty and justice have evolved to form the cornerstones of that which transpired not too many years ago in the hearts of other men, Americans, who formed this Republic.

No less great were the laws, the statutes, the processes of order and life than they are today. Modernism has no monopoly on greatness. Who are modernists to state otherwise when history records that there were modernists in other years?

Where are the Caesars of today who, weak men with a vanity for power, were told by other supporters that their's was a divine destiny. That their God-given passages through the flight of life were set—ordained—ordained as "leaders" of a wretched people.

Where are the smiling, laughing Caesars, the "people's leaders" who thought that it was their divine right to act as sole administrators, sole arbitrators of right and wrong against yet another Senate?

Does history fail to repeat itself?

Is there not a modern Brutus, friend of Caesar, friend who tried to lead him to the altar of free men, of constitutional processes? Is there not another Brutus who realizing the impossibility of the task, has put his life on the same forum, the same stone and alabaster steps to plead his cause with the people?

Was Brutus' act recorded as treachery? Or perhaps the act of a man, desperate, who saw the destruction of his nation in the stars; in the lines of Caesars' laughing countenance?

"Nor that I loved Caesar less, but that I loved Rome more." Is there a modern Mark Anthony to herald "This was the noblest Roman of them all."

Is it reaction to again go back a few years, a second in the amount of geological time, to the words of Shakespeare?

"Cowards die many times before their deaths; the valiant never taste of death but once. Of all the wonders that I have yet heard, it seems to me strange that men should fear; seeing that death, a necessary end, will come when it will come."

So, the records of history repeat themselves. Is this week in the U. S. Senate a herald of things to come?

Is a once great form of laws at a final end in the face of a new Caesar whose weapons are not the staff of the Centurian, not the shield of the Roman Legionnaire, not the blue steel of Britain, not the wreath of Roman office, but the smile of contentment—the laugh of responsibility of which there is no knowledge, the carelessness of ill advice and yet, perhaps the ides of some future March?

Is this week past a herald of the coming decline of power to a new administrator who may yet some day, assume the title of emperor of all domains?

The great Roman Senate has left a pattern.

Yet they loved Caesar, they nonetheless destroyed him. In his destruction, came the end of the Senate and the end of Rome. Is the balance of United States governmental power to be compared with ancient Rome?

The immutable cycles of human history have failed to not repeat themselves.

"That lowliness is young ambition's ladder, whereto the climber upward turns his face; but when he once attains the upmost round, he then unto the ladder turns his back;

Looks into the clouds, scorning the base degrees,
by which he did ascend."

Thanks, Governor Kennon—Congratulations—Jack Rogers

Last week Governor Robert Kennon made two significant moves which will be of great interest to this area as well as other areas in Louisiana. The moves were in regard to the present Louisiana Highway setup and the future of the entire state network of roads and highways.

The first was the authorizing of a commission to control the future of all toll roads which may or may not be built. Of local interest were two points as regards this consideration. One, the fact emerged that there may be a "trunk" highway of a four-lane, toll type from Vicksburg, Miss., to the Texas border. In effect, it would mean a toll U. S. 80 "expressway."

The second was the very excellent choice of commissioners for the authority, one of which was S. J. (Jack) Rogers, well known local businessman.

Jack Rogers will make a very fine commissioner.

He has long realized the great necessity for a new and improved highway system in Louisiana basing his ideas on the need for greater safety through such an improved system and the alleviation of future traffic difficulties as the number of autos increase each year.

Mr. Rogers has long concerned himself with the problems of the highways and highway safety in Louisiana. Past President of the state safety association, he also attended the President's conference on Highway safety and has acted as an advisor to the governor on matters of that order. His advice concerning toll road matters will come from experience, not political expediency. Indeed, all of the commissioners would seem to be of the same caliber.

In direct connection with this setting up of a toll road authority, the governor has also authorized another commission to improve the appearance of the present highways and to keep check on all those soon to be built.

Now, there are numerous ways in which the roads can be "improved" in appearance and some of the best are the organizations of "parkway authorities" which not only control the roads, but set a pattern of decor and beauty for them.

As many local travelers who have ever driven over a parkway in the Eastern states well know, the entire beauty is not artificial, it is natural. Even the service stations along the parkways must be built to conform to rustic, natural lines with only the gas pumps and one sign designating the type products sold.

There is no, absolutely no, advertising of a billboard nature permitted. It has been proven that such billboards are impediments to natural beauty and also, safety.

Those who throw wastepaper out of their autos onto the highways are apprehended and receive fines and sentences. The roadsides are kept as parks and the centers are in many cases flowering sections of natural beauty. Such highways could exist in this state in the future.

The Governor has once again proved to his supporters (and to the chagrin of his opponents) that he is a far-sighted individual. The authorizing of these two commissions is a great step forward in Louisiana Highway progress.

Thanks Governor, you won't be sorry.

Suffer Little Children No Longer

This week is scheduled as "Retarded Children's Week" all over the United States.

In the past, the people who were the parents of or the guardians of retarded children attempted to hide these unfortunate youngsters or to shunt them aside as complete misfits.

Today, there are no longer such attempts and instead, the good people of this great nation are attempting to help these youngsters to attain some kind of a place in what has been sometimes called "modern society." As a matter of fact, the parents of the youngsters have allied themselves into an organization devoted to helping the youngsters. The organization publishes a most encouraging and excellent publication entitled "Children Limited" in which news releases and information notes are printed.

Parents all over the nation will open the week with a fund raising and public information program which is designed to help educate the public as to the problems of retarded youngsters.

Two fine local citizens in the national organization came to this newspaper on Wednesday and told a most inspiring story to the staff of how their plans were progressing and how the children were even now being aided right here in the Twin Cities.

Far from attempting to hide these kids, they stated that "everywhere we go, they go."

In the week to come the Morning World and the News-Star will publish articles concerning the efforts of both the local and the national organizations and their excellent work. It is gratifying to see such fine Americans attempting not only to help their own youngsters, but to ally themselves and their talents towards helping others wherever they might be.

More power to you and here's hoping for a great success in your coming endeavor.

'Thank You' Week

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

I have heard and read so much about praise and talk about segregation, how our congressmen are doing in Washington, about gripes, about what kind of job our President and Vice - President and all are doing to run our country till it's a bit, not boring, but just tiresome.

Also, we set aside days and weeks such as Fire Prevention Week, Hire the Physical Handicapped Week, ather's Day, Mother's Day and so many more.

But, have you good people who are reading this ever thought of the thousands of people working in stores, service stations, garages, cafes, etc., who ought to be publicly praised for the work they do? Why not have a "Thank You" week knowing the people who wait on you every day of the year. You, who appreciate the services you receive from employees in stores like Piggly Wiggly, Capitol, Firestone, Goodyear, A & P, Penney's, Sears, Montgomery Ward, to mention a few and hundreds of others, should not only tell employees themselves "thanks" for their services to you but tell or write the managers of the stores, telling them. When you tell them, it pleases them highly but it would please them more for the manager of the stores to receive a letter or phone call telling of a pleasing service that certain employee has done for them. This would increase a more pleasant atmosphere in the store you trade in and at the same time give the employe and employer a boost too. You would never know how much.

Of course, this writer cannot designate a "Thank You" week for this purpose — no matter how much he wants to. But, I can ask all you folks in Monroe and West Monroe to at least 'make believe' that the week of November 15 to 20, 1954, is that week and make up your own minds what to do about this matter. Thanks in advance for reading this and giving it your consideration.

Alien Ideologies

Dallas, Texas

Editor, Morning World:

We have no clear-cut foreign policy, so we use Britain's, and our domestic policies—neo-socio—Communistic though they be—are subordinated to it. Ancient Eurasian rivalries, brewed in a devil's cauldron of suspicion and distrust, seasoned with hate and served with vengeance are the dishes on which our political leaders feed. Minority pressure groups among us, clinging to foreign ideologies alien to the principles of the United States Constitution, are heard in high political councils while the unheard or unheeded American majority stand aghast.

Our economic policies put a premium on idleness. Confiscatory taxes impoverish our nation to underwrite socialistic schemes abroad. Monetary manipulations have debauched our currency. Our 'foreign trade' policies are geared to international machinations which would sacrifice American youth for monies. Our staggering public debt is tantamount to national bankruptcy. Foreign 'aid' is black-mail—a tribute paid to communism.

High officials say our possession of the A-bomb saved Europe from enslavement to the Communist dictatorship, yet we are urged to 'BAN' our weapons. The one certain assurance that Communists are stopped. We are urged to 'pool' our atomic resources with nations that have nothing to 'pool'.

We allow Communists to abuse their immunity on our own soil, shoot down our planes with frightful regularity, insult the wives of our diplomats, imprison and torture American citizens and kill our men. Our government declares to the world we recognize Communist as conspirators intent upon destroying the U. S. Government by violent force, yet we continue to bargain with them as if we were cringing cowards.

From whence stems this fantastically weird confusion? Our utter lack of straight-forward, decisive action?—Our childish refusal to face facts?—our blind, insistant unrealism? From that Trojan Horse, that insidious monstrosity: U. N.!

Big-Hearted People

West Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

I take this method of thanking the many generous, big hearted people (men, women and children) of the Twin Cities, for their donations which were so willingly given, to the family of ten (mother, father and eight children).

Mattresses, blankets, spreads, dishes, glassware, cooking utensils, four grocery stores ($50 worth of lovely food), a Bakery — rolls, bread and cakes, two barbers offered to cut the hair of five boys free, which was so very badly needed. A sweet young lady offered to pay for a permanent for the fifteen year old girl (eldest child in the family) and a sweet Christian beauty operator gave her services free. One big-hearted lovely young lady out-fitted the girl completely with summer and winter clothes and the little things so dear to the heart of a young girl were not forgotten. She was also sent to the hospital for a "check-up" as she is considerably overweight.

Clothes, shoes, etc for every member of the family from the father to the year old baby was donated.

Now don't give me the thanks for I felt it my Christian duty to help my fellowman in need. God's Word teaches it and to each one I say "I trust you received the joy in giving that I did".

Have just finished reading your editorial in the Nov. 6th Morning World and I think that editorial was one of the best that you have ever written and published in the paper for you told the truth all the way through. It took you a long time to wake up to the fact that the Eisenhower Administration had made a great failure. You said they had failed in your editorial and you told the truth. Everyone regardless as to his or her education should know this by now. If they haven't learned this, they will learn it more fully in the next two years. Yes, I will agree Mr. Eisenhower has not done what he promised the people he would do. He never tried to do it. He will not do it in the future. You start off in your editorial by saying we are bewildered—we are confused—we are frustrated then you say we need a President which means we haven't got one now—in name only.

The Democrats won control in both houses of Congress and the Republicans feel bad over this situation. They wanted to stay in control of the government for at least sixteen or twenty years. Now they see they can't do it. In 1956, they will be thrown out completely and they can now see that. This government belongs to the people—the government is all the people and when all the people speak they talk in a hard tone of voice. It is a mighty power that all of us must respect. We Knew Ike As A Soldier And A Man

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

I agree and disagree with this man from Dallas, Tex., who was heard in last Sunday's editorials. The public should be informed of all these things. True, I think that President Eisenhower was influenced. By whom? A Republican Congress.

As far as the lowering of taxes—which makes a deficit budget, how about these government enterprises that we read and hear about? What does our government do with the profits from these? Don't get the idea that I'm not for taxes. I am for them. I have a large family, am a World War II veteran. Because of my large family and low salary, I've never had to pay income taxes. If my salary was high enough I would be glad to pay income taxes. I realize that our government needs the money. Particularly for our Army, Navy, defense, etc.

I noted that the editor of the New York Sunday News, some few weeks ago, stated that there were more people between the ages of twenty-five and thirty-eight voted Republican in the last Presidential Election than has ever been known.

I wish to inform that editor that I am sure that had Mr. Eisenhower been running on the Democratic ticket that he would have gone into office with the greatest landslide in the history of the United States. Why? Because not only would he have had the regular Democrat votes, but also those between the ages of twenty-five and thirty-eight. These are the ones who, like myself, were under his command in World War II. We knew him as both a soldier and a man.

I still maintain that he would have done, and still would do more for our people if he had not had a Congress (Republican) that thought they should let the Democrats know that they were running the show and try and change everything to their liking in preference to the way it would help our country.

GODS! CAN A ROMAN SENATE LONG DEBATE WHICH OF THE TWO TO CHOOSE, SLAVERY OR DEATH!
(CATO ACT II, Sc 1—Joseph Addinson)

The dusty pages of history have been renovated, the dust removed and the shining alabaster columns of ancient Rome are once again in splendor. The debates of a once great Republic, a nation conceived in liberty for men are being revived this week in yet another forum.

The history of the Senate of Rome sets a startling precedent for the events which have transpired this week in the city of Washington, United States of America, formerly a sovereign Republic.

Aptly called by the head ringmaster (a modern Flavius if ever there was one), Arthur Watkins, "a court," the United States Senate may this week be reenacting events long forgotten through the years which mark the separation of the destinies of one great nation and another.

Indeed, history records that once there was another great forum of lawmakers which brought a weak confederation of pastoral people into the realm of a world power, a breathtaking and splendorous power. History also records the same Senate debating itself into degeneration before the great Caesar who wanted only "power for the people." The same history records the eventual degeneration of that Senate and its final doom. With the end of the Roman Senate, came the end of Rome and the beginning of the dark ages.

Nearly two thousand years of suffering and madness have transpired since those days of great Rome.

Even today, humans being humans, the madness has not ceased.

On the same dusty pages of history, there are two shining points in the evolution of mankind which may be the two points of salvation. The first and primary consideration in the long flight out of evil was the forced signature of the great charter of England where a mad, power-crazed monarch was made to render unto his knights and people some of his personal power.

The second was the signing of the American Declaration of Independence and the formation of the Constitution.

It is recorded that thirteen separate, quarreling and independent states bound themselves together for mutual security in the face of a storm from old Europe which in the last stages of degradation, was even then in the process of murder and pillage on a scale never before seen on the earth.

Think of it!

Thirteen helpless and war-ravaged states attempting to do what had been tried but what had not succeeded since early Rome—to form a nation or a confederation of nations through a forum—the Senate.

What chance has character when character is destroyed by mediocrity and idiocy?

In the face of a claim so often heard "reaction"—it is necessary to record again the human pattern which has not yet changed. Caesars, Napoleons, Bismarcks, Disraelis, Washingtons, Jeffersons—humans all, may come and go, but human nature remains.

Thus, the pattern of history remains unchanged.

Empires start, flourish, prosper, become great, forget themselves and become as they were at the start, dust, mere flecks of dust—fit subjects for the archeologist pick of some future time. The men of yesteryear had the same hopes, the same dreams, the same hates, the same loves as do men today.

Their's was a splendor no less great, perhaps even greater than today. Their thoughts of liberty and justice have evolved to form the cornerstones of that which transpired not too many years ago in the hearts of other men, Americans, who formed this Republic.

No less great were the laws, the statutes, the processes of order and life than they are today. Modernism has no monopoly on greatness. Who are modernists to state otherwise when history records that there were modernists in other years?

Where are the Caesars of today who, weak men with a vanity for power, were told by other supporters that their's was a divine destiny. That their God-given passages through the flight of life were set—ordained—ordained as "leaders" of a wretched people.

Where are the smiling, laughing Caesars, the "people's leaders" who thought that it was their divine right to act as sole administrators, sole arbitrators of right and wrong against yet another Senate?

Does history fail to repeat itself?

Is there not a modern Brutus, friend of Caesar, friend who tried to lead him to the altar of free men, of constitutional processes? Is there not another Brutus who realizing the impossibility of the task, has put his life on the same forum, the same stone and alabaster steps to plead his cause with the people?

Was Brutus' act recorded as treachery? Or perhaps the act of a man, desperate, who saw the destruction of his nation in the stars; in the lines of Caesars' laughing countenance?

"Nor that I loved Caesar less, but that I loved Rome more." Is there a modern Mark Anthony to herald "This was the noblest Roman of them all."

Is it reaction to again go back a few years, a second in the amount of geological time, to the words of Shakespeare?

"Cowards die many times before their deaths; the valiant never taste of death but once. Of all the wonders that I have yet heard, it seems to me strange that men should fear; seeing that death, a necessary end, will come when it will come."

So, the records of history repeat themselves. Is this week in the U. S. Senate a herald of things to come?

Is a once great form of laws at a final end in the face of a new Caesar whose weapons are not the staff of the Centurian, not the shield of the Roman Legionnaire, not the blue steel of Britain, not the wreath of Roman office, but the smile of contentment—the laugh of responsibility of which there is no knowledge, the carelessness of ill advice and yet, perhaps the ides of some future March?

Is this week past a herald of the coming decline of power to a new administrator who may yet some day, assume the title of emperor of all domains?

The great Roman Senate has left a pattern.

Yet they loved Caesar, they nonetheless destroyed him. In his destruction, came the end of the Senate and the end of Rome. Is the balance of United States governmental power to be compared with ancient Rome?

The immutable cycles of human history have failed to not repeat themselves.

"That lowliness is young ambition's ladder, whereto the climber upward turns his face; but when he once attains the upmost round, he then unto the ladder turns his back;
Looks into the clouds, scorning the base degrees,
by which he did ascend."

Thanks, Governor Kennon—Congratulations—Jack Rogers

Last week Governor Robert Kennon made two significant moves which will be of great interest to this area as well as other areas in Louisiana. The moves were in regard to the present Louisiana Highway setup and the future of the entire state network of roads and highways.

The first was the authorizing of a commission to control the future of all toll roads which may or may not be built. Of local interest were two points as regards this consideration. One, the fact emerged that there may be a "trunk" highway of a four-lane, toll type from Vicksburg, Miss., to the Texas border. In effect, it would mean a toll U. S. 80 "expressway."

The second was the very excellent choice of commissioners for the authority, one of which was S. J. (Jack) Rogers, well known local businessman.

Jack Rogers will make a very fine commissioner.

He has long realized the great necessity for a new and improved highway system in Louisiana basing his ideas on the need for greater safety through such an improved system and the alleviation of future traffic difficulties as the number of autos increase each year.

Mr. Rogers has long concerned himself with the problems of the highways and highway safety in Louisiana. Past President of the state safety association, he also attended the President's conference on Highway safety and has acted as an advisor to the governor on matters of that order. His advice concerning toll road matters will come from experience, not political expediency. Indeed, all of the commissioners would seem to be of the same caliber.

In direct connection with this setting up of a toll road authority, the governor has also authorized another commission to improve the appearance of the present highways and to keep check on all those soon to be built.

Now, there are numerous ways in which the roads can be "improved" in appearance and some of the best are the organizations of "parkway authorities" which not only control the roads, but set a pattern of decor and beauty for them.

As many local travelers who have ever driven over a parkway in the Eastern states well know, the entire beauty is not artificial, it is natural. Even the service stations along the parkways must be built to conform to rustic, natural lines with only the gas pumps and one sign designating the type products sold.

There is no, absolutely no, advertising of a billboard nature permitted. It has been proven that such billboards are impediments to natural beauty and also, safety.

Those who throw wastepaper out of their autos onto the highways are apprehended and receive fines and sentences. The roadsides are kept as parks and the centers are in many cases flowering sections of natural beauty. Such highways could exist in this state in the future.

The Governor has once again proved to his supporters (and to the chagrin of his opponents) that he is a far-sighted individual. The authorizing of these two commissions is a great step forward in Louisiana Highway progress.

Thanks Governor, you won't be sorry.

Suffer Little Children No Longer

This week is scheduled as "Retarded Children's Week" all over the United States.

In the past, the people who were the parents of or the guardians of retarded children attempted to hide these unfortunate youngsters or to shunt them aside as complete misfits.

Today, there are no longer such attempts and instead, the good people of this great nation are attempting to help these youngsters to attain some kind of a place in what has been sometimes called "modern society." As a matter of fact, the parents of the youngsters have allied themselves into an organization devoted to helping the youngsters. The organization publishes a most encouraging and excellent publication entitled "Children Limited" in which news releases and information notes are printed.

Parents all over the nation will open the week with a fund raising and public information program which is designed to help educate the public as to the problems of retarded youngsters.

Two fine local citizens in the national organization came to this newspaper on Wednesday and told a most inspiring story to the staff of how their plans were progressing and how the children were even now being aided right here in the Twin Cities.

Far from attempting to hide these kids, they stated that "everywhere we go, they go."

In the week to come the Morning World and the News-Star will publish articles concerning the efforts of both the local and the national organizations and their excellent work. It is gratifying to see such fine Americans attempting not only to help their own youngsters, but to ally themselves and their talents towards helping others wherever they might be.

More power to you and here's hoping for a great success in your coming endeavor.

'Thank You' Week

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

I have heard and read so much about praise and talk about segregation, how our congressmen are doing in Washington, about gripes, about what kind of job our President and Vice - President and all are doing to run our country till it's a bit, not boring, but just tiresome.

Also, we set aside days and weeks such as Fire Prevention Week, Hire the Physical Handicapped Week, ather's Day, Mother's Day and so many more.

But, have you good people who are reading this ever thought of the thousands of people working in stores, service stations, garages, cafes, etc., who ought to be publicly praised for the work they do? Why not have a "Thank You" week knowing the people who wait on you every day of the year. You, who appreciate the services you receive from employees in stores like Piggly Wiggly, Capitol, Firestone, Goodyear, A & P, Penney's, Sears, Montgomery Ward, to mention a few and hundreds of others, should not only tell employees themselves "thanks" for their services to you but tell or write the managers of the stores, telling them. When you tell them, it pleases them highly but it would please them more for the manager of the stores to receive a letter or phone call telling of a pleasing service that certain employee has done for them. This would increase a more pleasant atmosphere in the store you trade in and at the same time give the employe and employer a boost too. You would never know how much.

Of course, this writer cannot designate a "Thank You" week for this purpose — no matter how much he wants to. But, I can ask all you folks in Monroe and West Monroe to at least 'make believe' that the week of November 15 to 20, 1954, is that week and make up your own minds what to do about this matter. Thanks in advance for reading this and giving it your consideration.

Alien Ideologies

Dallas, Texas

Editor, Morning World:

We have no clear-cut foreign policy, so we use Britain's, and our domestic policies—neo-socio—Communistic though they be—are subordinated to it. Ancient Eurasian rivalries, brewed in a devil's cauldron of suspicion and distrust, seasoned with hate and served with vengeance are the dishes on which our political leaders feed. Minority pressure groups among us, clinging to foreign ideologies alien to the principles of the United States Constitution, are heard in high political councils while the unheard or unheeded American majority stand aghast.

Our economic policies put a premium on idleness. Confiscatory taxes impoverish our nation to underwrite socialistic schemes abroad. Monetary manipulations have debauched our currency. Our 'foreign trade' policies are geared to international machinations which would sacrifice American youth for monies. Our staggering public debt is tantamount to national bankruptcy. Foreign 'aid' is black-mail—a tribute paid to communism.

High officials say our possession of the A-bomb saved Europe from enslavement to the Communist dictatorship, yet we are urged to 'BAN' our weapons. The one certain assurance that Communists are stopped. We are urged to 'pool' our atomic resources with nations that have nothing to 'pool'.

We allow Communists to abuse their immunity on our own soil, shoot down our planes with frightful regularity, insult the wives of our diplomats, imprison and torture American citizens and kill our men. Our government declares to the world we recognize Communist as conspirators intent upon destroying the U. S. Government by violent force, yet we continue to bargain with them as if we were cringing cowards.

From whence stems this fantastically weird confusion? Our utter lack of straight-forward, decisive action?—Our childish refusal to face facts?—our blind, insistant unrealism? From that Trojan Horse, that insidious monstrosity: U. N.!

Big-Hearted People

West Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

I take this method of thanking the many generous, big hearted people (men, women and children) of the Twin Cities, for their donations which were so willingly given, to the family of ten (mother, father and eight children).

Mattresses, blankets, spreads, dishes, glassware, cooking utensils, four grocery stores ($50 worth of lovely food), a Bakery — rolls, bread and cakes, two barbers offered to cut the hair of five boys free, which was so very badly needed. A sweet young lady offered to pay for a permanent for the fifteen year old girl (eldest child in the family) and a sweet Christian beauty operator gave her services free. One big-hearted lovely young lady out-fitted the girl completely with summer and winter clothes and the little things so dear to the heart of a young girl were not forgotten. She was also sent to the hospital for a "check-up" as she is considerably overweight.

Clothes, shoes, etc for every member of the family from the father to the year old baby was donated.

Now don't give me the thanks for I felt it my Christian duty to help my fellowman in need. God's Word teaches it and to each one I say "I trust you received the joy in giving that I did".

4 Men Charged In Death Listed As 'Accidental'

DONALDSONVILLE, La. —UP — A father who refused to believe his son was killed in a traffic accident last spring filed manslaughter charges against four men he said beat up the youth before the auto crash.

The action reopened the investigation into the death of Leroy David, 23, who has been officially listed as a traffic fatality since his car piled into a telephone pole and overturned on the Pierre Part road April 26.

Wilbert David of Port Allen, father of the victim, filed the charges with a justice of the peace here. Dist. Atty. A. L. Talbot accepted them and said the case would be presented to the next session of the grand jury.

Named in the complaints were Wilbert Blanchard, Wilbert Landry and Howard and Andrew Maitrejean, all of Pierre Part. They were arrested and released on $1,000 bond each.

David said he was never satisfied with the official report of his son's death and hired a private detective agency last spring to investigate the incident.

In a few days, David said he learned that his son and Emerson Altazan of Port Allen had "fought like Tigers" with four men in Blanchard's place, a Pierre Part tavern, just before the wreck.

After the "terrible" fight, David said, the car Altazan was driving smashed into the telephone post about two miles from the tavern. David's complaint alleges his son did not die of injuries suffered in the wreck but from wounds inflicted in the fight at the saloon.

Teachers Tour Industry Of Twin City Area

Teachers and administrative personnel from the two local school systems yesterday were conducted on guided tours of the community's major business firms in the second annual Business-Education day, while school children enjoyed an extra day off from school.

Sponsored by the Monroe-West Monroe Chamber of Commerce, the B-E day activities got underway at 9:30 a.m. with a general assembly in the Neville auditorium. L. L. Hale, chairman of the C. of C. education committee, presided.

Teachers, already having been assigned to their host firms, were then escorted by executives of Twin City businesses to buses in front of the school, and were conveyed to the various establishments throughout the Twin Cities.

After the sessions of small groups spread throughout Ouachita parish, another general assembly was held at the American Legion home, where the local Chamber of Commerce hosted executives and teachers alike to a barbecue.

Lectures and tours of the various enterprises gave the teachers ammunition to fire at their pupils for many days to come, one executive and teacher said in a joint report on the effectiveness of the program.

Business-Education day was initiated in an effort to get teachers to understand the intricacies of the business world, and to convey their impressions to their pupils about the true facts on American business.

4 Negro Youths Facing Trial For $300,000 Blaze

BATON ROUGE —UP— Four Negro youths accused of setting a spectacular fire that burned down a government warehouse and caused $300,000 damages go into court next week to face possible juvenile charges.

District Judge Charles A. Holcombe Friday held a hearing for the boys and continued the case until next week. Charges of malicious arson could be filed against the boys, who range in age from nine to 15.

Two of the boys, according to the sheriff's office, have signed confessions naming the 15-year-old as the one who tossed a match into a gas-soaked bale of clothing.

The blaze leveled the warehouse next to the National Guard armory Sept. 12, destroying the surplus goods stored inside. One of the boys said he "liked to see big fires burn," deputies said.

Only about one person in seven over 65 years old is disabled.

Medical Technology School Here Lauded

The Medical Technology School at the St. Francis Hospital, Monroe, has "an excellent program," commented Dr. Arthur N. Springhill, the American Medical Association's assistant director of Division of Hospitals and Education in a letter to the hospital. A grade of 97 was made when it was recently rated by the American Medical Association's Council on Medical Education.

The technology school is under the direction of Dr. N. Klam, the pathologist. The instructors are registered technicians having at least three years experience with Mr. Dean McBride as the chief technologist and instructor.

There are six students enrolled who are Robert Hardin, Monroe; Gloria Grant, Archibald; Calvin Whittington, Jena; Charles Matthews, Newellton; Harleen Golson, Fairbanks, and Henry Boyd, Monroe.

It is required by the American Medical Association's Council on Medical Education that one instructor be provided for every two students.

The school is affiliated with Northeast Louisiana State College, Monroe. When the student has completed the prescribed number of hours at Northeast State he may enter a 12-consecutive - month-internship at the St. Francis Hospital. This program consists of a 44-hour-week schedule of lectures and laboratory practice.

The student spends 12 weeks in the St. Francis laboratories studying microbiology, learning to identify the bacteria or parasites responsible for the infection. The results of such tests enable the doctor to prescribe the medicine best suited to treat the infection such as penicillin, aureomycin and streptomycin.

Twelve weeks are spent in teaching the student how to perform hematology and urinalysis tests. Hematology includes the red blood count and the white blood count while the urine test may reveal kidney disturbances.

The field of chemistry requires another 12 weeks of studying and learning to run chemistry examinations of all body fluids which will help the doctor diagnose and treat the disease.

In the histology department the student learns to prepare tissue specimen which have been removed at the time of operation. These specimen are carefully examined by the pathologist to detect the disease or confirm the surgeon's diagnosis.

Four weeks are spent in the blood bank learning to type, cross match and preserve blood.

The student spends the last four weeks of his time in reviewing all the techniques he has studied.

Weekly written and practice tests are given. The grades are sent to Northeast State every nine weeks in keeping with the plan of other departments in the college. When all the assigned courses are completed at the college and the hospital, the student becomes a candidate for a bachelor of science degree in medical technology from Northeast State.

The Board of Registry of Medical Technologists of the American Society of Clinical Pathologists investigates and certifies the competency of the technologist.

Numerous tests are made by the medical technologist in the laboratory at St. Francis. Their reports are meaningless to the average patient but to the doctor they may hold the key to determining the procedure to use in battling the disease.

"The opportunities in the field of medical technology are limitless," said McBride. "There is an acute shortage of medical technologists in hospitals and doctor's offices. The Unite States Public Heatlh and the armed services also need qualified technologists."

Distribution And Marketing Heart Of Farm Problem

SPOKANE, Wash., Nov. 13—UP—"Distribution and marketing difficulties" were described as "the very heart of the farm problem" here saturday by Irving A. Duffy, general manager of the Ford Motor Co. tractor and implement division.

Duffy told the 88th convention of the National Grange, "the varied needs of a civilian economy cannot be met by sheer volume alone in a free enterprise economy."

He added, "the market is there in the under-developed and food importing nations of the world. The problem is, of course, one of distribution through the badly clogged channels of international trade—a problem for which farmers and businessmen alike must diligently seek a solution."

Duffy also urged the farmers to increase their acceptance of the use of modern science and technology "to help increase efficiency, lower costs and take the backache out of farm labor. Maybe the push button farm isn't just around the corner," he said, "but improved tools and techniques are making it possible for the farmer to emancipate himself from long hours of exhausting physical labor."

Many Students In High School Will Hear Band

Large numbers of high school students throughout Northeast Louisiana are coming to the matinee performances of the United States Navy Band tomorrow afternoon at 1:00 and 2:20 in the auditorium of Northeast State. The world famed band is being presented tomorrow in three concerts by the college as a public service. Tickets are available for all performances.

The afternoon performances are designed especially for young people, and high schools of the Monroe area are planning to bring large groups of their students, according to Dr. Harry Lemert, head of the Northeast State fine arts department who is in charge of arrangements. Some of the schools who have bought blocks of tickets are Delhi, Columbia, Mangham, Gibsland, Lake Providence, Linville, Winnsboro, Crowville, and Oak Grove.

There has been a very heavy sale of tickets to the matinees, according to Dr. Lemert, but there are still some seats available for Monroe and West Monroe young people who want to attend. Teachers bringing groups of students should advise the Fine Arts department at the college in advance so that provisions can be made for them.

A small number of adult tickets are available for the 1:00 and 2:20 matinees, but should be bought in advance to assure a seat.

The evening concert will be designed primarily for adults by the Navy Band. Tickets for this performance at 8:15 p.m. may be purchased from Dew's, 346 DeSiard St., Hewitt's, 316 Grammont St., the Northeast State bookstore, or the box office in Brown auditorium beginning at 7 p.m. tomorrow evening.

The Navy Band is recognized everywhere as one of the world's finest military and concert organizations. Conducted by Commander Charles Brendler, the highest ranking musician in Navy history, it is composed of some of America's top musicians — men who have trained under superb teachers.

Highlight of the Navy Band performances are its solos. Every musician selected for the touring band must be a soloist on one or more instruments.

The repertoire of the band includes a very wide selection of music, everything from military marches to intricate symphony. Ben Mitchell Morris is the vocalist.

Boys Set Fires, Shoot Rabbits

The Monroe fire department during the first six days of last week answered a total of 41 grass fires, 16 of them Friday, firemen said yesterday.

Firemen released the figures to point up the dangers of the fall grass fire season, pointing out that dead grass around buildings makes extremely hazardous conditions in several places in the city.

Another hazardous situation was created last week by youths who set fire to grass in order to drive out small game. Firemen said the youths were firing .22 caliber bullets around a fire outside Monroe on U. S. 80 while they were attempting to put it out.

"They could very easily have killed one of us or one of themselves," the firemen said.

Ross Barnett To Run For Governor In Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 13 (AP) — Ross Barnett, Jackson attorney, today announced he will be a candidate for governor in 1955.

In a prepared statement, Barnett expressed support of a proposed constitutional amendment empowering the Legislature to abolish public schools and pledged a "positive platform of progress" for Mississippi.

A native of Leake County, Barnett ran for Governor in the 1951 race and polled 82,000 votes but lost to Fielding Wright, another candidate in the 1955 race.

In his announcement, Barnett said: "At the proper time I shall issue a formal statement and will announce a positive platform for the continued progress of Mississippi and the happiness of its people."

On the segregation question, he said he would be the last to advocate abolition of public schools and would do "everything in my power to maintain segregation in this state."

He said maintenance of segregated public schools "is for the best interest of all the people and of all the children . . . Passage of this amendment at least will serve notice on those outsiders who would undertake to dictate to us and destroy our way of life in Mississippi that we do not intend to permit . . . (outsiders) to control our local affairs and trample under foot those things dear to our hearts."

Governors Dodge Showdown Stand On Segregation

BOCA RATON, Fla., Nov. 13—UP—The Southern Governor's Conference refused Saturday to get involved officially in the explosive segregation issue.

The annual conference was adjourned without taking action on a proposal by acting Florida Gov. Charley E. Jones suggesting an amendment to the U.S. Constitution guaranteeing states the right to preserve segregation.

Eight governors, however, signed an unofficial joint statement pledging they would "exercise every proper prerogative to preserve the basic principles of our constitutional government."

MIS-DATED GIFT—Smiling broadly at the ovation of more than 3,000 well-wishers gathered in Washington, Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.) holds aloft a plaque—mis-dated—which was presented to him at the meeting staged to protest his attempted censure. The plaque honored the Wisconsin senator for his "fearless persistence" in battling enemies of America. (AP Wirephoto)

FFA Committee Named To Make Set Of Bylaws

FERRIDAY, Nov. 13 (Special)—The Ferriday Future Farmers of America met Friday to discuss plans and projects for the month. In the meeting the members discussed and set dates for invitation of greenhands. The chairman also appointed a new committee to make the bylaws for the club, and those named were: Tooter Massey, Wayne Wade, and Stanley Crawford.

A vote of thanks was given to Roy Walker and Bobby Wall, two members who have worked so earnestly to offer recreation for the club. The members voted that the club buy a basketball for the FFA chapter.

It was also voted that the club elect a Star Chapter Farmer. The club will feature a hayride Tuesday, November 23. A committee was appointed by chairman Charles Webb, including Freddie Tyson, Wayne Wade and Aubry Britt. Members of the club attended a leadership training conference held recently. The club officers who attended were Freddie Tyson, Tooter Massey, Charles Webb, Bobby Wall, Ernest Frazier, and Talmadge Saxon.

Admits Burning His Stepfather's Barns

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 13 (AP)—A 27-year-old man was charged today with arson in the burning of two barns on his stepfather's farm north of here.

Hinds County Sheriff Carroll Robinson identified him as Robert L. Kennebrew of Pocahontas and said he admitted firing the barns yesterday which resulted in the death of two mules and the destruction of 3,500 bushels of corn and 3,200 bales of hay.

Robinson said Kennebrew claimed the first burning was accidental but after that he "just went ahead and burned the other."

Medical Technology School Here Lauded

The Medical Technology School at the St. Francis Hospital, Monroe, has "an excellent program," commented Dr. Arthur N. Springhill, the American Medical Association's assistant director of Division of Hospitals and Education in a letter to the hospital. A grade of 97 was made when it was recently rated by the American Medical Association's Council on Medical Education.

The technology school is under the direction of Dr. N. Klam, the pathologist. The instructors are registered technicians having at least three years experience with Mr. Dean McBride as the chief technologist and instructor.

There are six students enrolled who are Robert Hardin, Monroe; Gloria Grant, Archibald; Calvin Whittington, Jena; Charles Matthews, Newellton; Harleen Golson, Fairbanks, and Henry Boyd, Monroe.

It is required by the American Medical Association's Council on Medical Education that one instructor be provided for every two students.

The school is affiliated with Northeast Louisiana State College, Monroe. When the student has completed the prescribed number of hours at Northeast State he may enter a 12-consecutive - month-internship at the St. Francis Hospital. This program consists of a 44-hour-week schedule of lectures and laboratory practice.

The student spends 12 weeks in the St. Francis laboratories studying microbiology, learning to identify the bacteria or parasites responsible for the infection. The results of such tests enable the doctor to prescribe the medicine best suited to treat the infection such as penicillin, aureomycin and streptomycin.

Twelve weeks are spent in teaching the student how to perform hematology and urinalysis tests. Hematology includes the red blood count and the white blood count while the urine test may reveal kidney disturbances.

The field of chemistry requires another 12 weeks of studying and learning to run chemistry examinations of all body fluids which will help the doctor diagnose and treat the disease.

In the histology department the student learns to prepare tissue specimen which have been removed at the time of operation. These specimen are carefully examined by the pathologist to detect the disease or confirm the surgeon's diagnosis.

Four weeks are spent in the blood bank learning to type, cross match and preserve blood.

The student spends the last four weeks of his time in reviewing all the techniques he has studied.

Weekly written and practice tests are given. The grades are sent to Northeast State every nine weeks in keeping with the plan of other departments in the college. When all the assigned courses are completed at the college and the hospital, the student becomes a candidate for a bachelor of science degree in medical technology from Northeast State.

The Board of Registry of Medical Technologists of the American Society of Clinical Pathologists investigates and certifies the competency of the technologist.

Numerous tests are made by the medical technologist in the laboratory at St. Francis. Their reports are meaningless to the average patient but to the doctor they may hold the key to determining the procedure to use in battling the disease.

"The opportunities in the field of medical technology are limitless," said McBride. "There is an acute shortage of medical technologists in hospitals and doctor's offices. The Unite States Public Heatlh and the armed services also need qualified technologists."

A NAVY BAND FEATURE is the trumpet trio pictured. It is composed of Frank Scimonelli, Harold Wendt and Gordon Finlay, who is also the cornet soloist. This group is one of many solos, duets and trios which will be heard tomorrow in Brown auditorium on the campus of Northeast State. One of the world's finest bands, it can be heard at any one of three performances—1:00 p.m., 2:20 p.m. and 8:15 p.m.

Distribution And Marketing Heart Of Farm Problem

SPOKANE, Wash., Nov. 13—UP—"Distribution and marketing difficulties" were described as "the very heart of the farm problem" here saturday by Irving A. Duffy, general manager of the Ford Motor Co. tractor and implement division.

Duffy told the 88th convention of the National Grange, "the varied needs of a civilian economy cannot be met by sheer volume alone in a free enterprise economy."

He added, "the market is there in the under-developed and food importing nations of the world. The problem is, of course, one of distribution through the badly clogged channels of international trade—a problem for which farmers and businessmen alike must diligently seek a solution."

Duffy also urged the farmers to increase their acceptance of the use of modern science and technology "to help increase efficiency, lower costs and take the backache out of farm labor. Maybe the push button farm isn't just around the corner," he said, "but improved tools and techniques are making it possible for the farmer to emancipate himself from long hours of exhausting physical labor."

Many Students In High School Will Hear Band

Large numbers of high school students throughout Northeast Louisiana are coming to the matinee performances of the United States Navy Band tomorrow afternoon at 1:00 and 2:20 in the auditorium of Northeast State. The world famed band is being presented tomorrow in three concerts by the college as a public service. Tickets are available for all performances.

The afternoon performances are designed especially for young people, and high schools of the Monroe area are planning to bring large groups of their students, according to Dr. Harry Lemert, head of the Northeast State fine arts department who is in charge of arrangements. Some of the schools who have bought blocks of tickets are Delhi, Columbia, Mangham, Gibsland, Lake Providence, Linville, Winnsboro, Crowville, and Oak Grove.

There has been a very heavy sale of tickets to the matinees, according to Dr. Lemert, but there are still some seats available for Monroe and West Monroe young people who want to attend. Teachers bringing groups of students should advise the Fine Arts department at the college in advance so that provisions can be made for them.

A small number of adult tickets are available for the 1:00 and 2:20 matinees, but should be bought in advance to assure a seat.

The evening concert will be designed primarily for adults by the Navy Band. Tickets for this performance at 8:15 p.m. may be purchased from Dew's, 346 DeSiard St., Hewitt's, 316 Grammont St., the Northeast State bookstore, or the box office in Brown auditorium beginning at 7 p.m. tomorrow evening.

The Navy Band is recognized everywhere as one of the world's finest military and concert organizations. Conducted by Commander Charles Brendler, the highest ranking musician in Navy history, it is composed of some of America's top musicians — men who have trained under superb teachers.

Highlight of the Navy Band performances are its solos. Every musician selected for the touring band must be a soloist on one or more instruments.

The repertoire of the band includes a very wide selection of music, everything from military marches to intricate symphony. Ben Mitchell Morris is the vocalist.

Boys Set Fires, Shoot Rabbits

The Monroe fire department during the first six days of last week answered a total of 41 grass fires, 16 of them Friday, firemen said yesterday.

Firemen released the figures to point up the dangers of the fall grass fire season, pointing out that dead grass around buildings makes extremely hazardous conditions in several places in the city.

Another hazardous situation was created last week by youths who set fire to grass in order to drive out small game. Firemen said the youths were firing .22 caliber bullets around a fire outside Monroe on U. S. 80 while they were attempting to put it out.

"They could very easily have killed one of us or one of themselves," the firemen said.

Ross Barnett To Run For Governor In Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 13 (AP) — Ross Barnett, Jackson attorney, today announced he will be a candidate for governor in 1955.

In a prepared statement, Barnett expressed support of a proposed constitutional amendment empowering the Legislature to abolish public schools and pledged a "positive platform of progress" for Mississippi.

A native of Leake County, Barnett ran for Governor in the 1951 race and polled 82,000 votes but lost to Fielding Wright, another candidate in the 1955 race.

In his announcement, Barnett said: "At the proper time I shall issue a formal statement and will announce a positive platform for the continued progress of Mississippi and the happiness of its people."

On the segregation question, he said he would be the last to advocate abolition of public schools and would do "everything in my power to maintain segregation in this state."

He said maintenance of segregated public schools "is for the best interest of all the people and of all the children . . . Passage of this amendment at least will serve notice on those outsiders who would undertake to dictate to us and destroy our way of life in Mississippi that we do not intend to permit . . . (outsiders) to control our local affairs and trample under foot those things dear to our hearts."

Governors Dodge Showdown Stand On Segregation

BOCA RATON, Fla., Nov. 13—UP—The Southern Governor's Conference refused Saturday to get involved officially in the explosive segregation issue.

The annual conference was adjourned without taking action on a proposal by acting Florida Gov. Charley E. Jones suggesting an amendment to the U.S. Constitution guaranteeing states the right to preserve segregation.

Eight governors, however, signed an unofficial joint statement pledging they would "exercise every proper prerogative to preserve the basic principles of our constitutional government."

MIS-DATED GIFT—Smiling broadly at the ovation of more than 3,000 well-wishers gathered in Washington, Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.) holds aloft a plaque—mis-dated—which was presented to him at the meeting staged to protest his attempted censure. The plaque honored the Wisconsin senator for his "fearless persistence" in battling enemies of America. (AP Wirephoto)

TAMPA, Fla., Nov. 13 (AP)—The Associated Press Managing Editors Association meets here next week for its annual review of handling news from all over the world by the newsgathering co-operative.

APME meetings are kind of clinics where editors of member papers of The Associated Press look over the year's operations in news handling, discuss latest developments in news gathering facilities and make suggestions in how to present news.

The annual convention opens Wednesday, continues through Saturday.

Men who make news in the field of sports will be on hand to tell how they would present sports news if they were editors. Top figures in presenting womens news and newspictures also will talk to the editors.

On a sports panel will be Ed (Moose) Krause, athletic director Notre Dame University; Al Lopez, manager of the Cleveland Indians baseball club and Dr. Forrest C. (Phog) Allen, basketball coach at the University of Kansas.

Edward K. Thompson, managing editor of Life magazine, will lead a discussion at a workshop on picture coverage. Miss Mary Margaret McBride, radio commentator and newspaper columnist, will give the woman's slant on news.

Two top AP writers whose bylines are familiar to the editors and followers of news will be on hand to sit in and discuss their situations and learn what newspaper readers expect in the way of foreign news coverage.

They are Robert Eunson, AP chief of bureau in Tokoyo, and William L. Ryan, AP news analyst who mastered the Russian language and has toured the world on special stories.

All year long continuing study committees have been analyzing the AP news report which is supplied by newspaper, radio and television members of the worldwide news cooperative and gathered by the AP staff itself.

These committees have been looking into such segments of news as sports, pictures, foreign and national news, writing, freedom of information. These reports will be given at the convention.

Father Held For Scalding His Son; Let Girl Perish

EBENSBURG, Pa., Nov. 13 —UP— William G. Bell, accused of scalding his son's feet until the skin "peeled off like stockings," pleaded from a jail cell Saturday to attend the funeral of his two-year-old daughter, who died of poisoning after he denied her medical attention.

John B. McHugh, warden at Cambria county jail here, quoted the 27-year-old Korean war veteran as saying, "I want to go to my little girl's funeral today." However, the request was denied because proper court papers were not presented.

Bell, who supplments a $166 monthly service disability pension by peddling junk, was jailed Friday night in lieu of $10,000 bond.

He was charged with assault with intent to kill as the result of brutal attacks on his son, Robert, 3. The attacks included "dunking" the boy feet-first into a pan of scalding water, beating and hitting him with a stick, and hanging him for four hours in an Army duffle bag suspended from a bedroom door.

Bell also was being investigated in connection with the death of his daughter, Ruth Ann, who died Wednesday after eating a slice of bread saturated with rat poison.

It was Ruth Ann's death that exposed the vicious attacks on little Robert.

Bell's wife, Eileen, 28, said Ruth Ann became violently ill after eating a piece of poisoned bread she had picked up from the floor of the couple's ramshackle, three-room shack near here.

Mrs. Bell told state police her husband refused to take the child to a doctor and tried to ease Ruth Ann's pain with a solution of vinegar and milk.

When the home-made remedy failed, Mrs. Bell said she pleaded with her husband to seek medical aid, but he said:

"No. She's going to die, leave her be."

Mrs. Bell, with the help of a neighbor, took the child to a physician's office and later to a hospital, where Ruth Ann died an hour after being admitted.

It was while Mrs. Bell was at the hospital that the alleged attacks on Robert took place. Police investigating the complaint found the boy in bed at home.

"The kid was in pretty bad shape," one officer said. "the skin on his legs peeled off like stockings."

More Nominations For Woman Of Year Sought

Factors to be considered in selecting the "woman of the year" in the Twin Cities were announced Saturday by Mrs. Lillie Mae Carroll, president of the Interclub Council. The group, comprising representative from five clubs, Altrusa, Delta Rho Delta, Junior Charity League, Pilot and Quota, is inaugurating the intercouncil program through the choice of the woman who has made the most valuable contribution to community life.

The Interclub Council of Service Clubs for executive and professional women was organized in April, 1949, with three clubs representing the council, namely Altrusa, Pilot and Quota. Since that time two more service clubs have joined the ranks of the council and there are now five clubs represented.

The purpose of the council is to coordinate the abilities and talents of these trained executive and professional women in a program of service to the needs of the community. These front rank executive and professional women with their talents and energies have worked for the past six years in promoting major projects for our Twin Cities and one of the important functions has been to name the outstanding "Woman of the Year" in the Twin Cities.

Every adult in the Twin Cities has the opportunity to nominate the person whom he or she considers most worthy to receive the honor of "woman of the year."

Recommendations should be sent in letter form to: "Woman of the Year," Post Office Box 232, Monroe, not later than November 20. The nominee and reasons for selection should be given.

Nominations are to be made on the basis of leadership and community participation evidenced by persons being considered for this honor, Mrs. Carroll explained. Factors of leadership designated by the council include work in civic organizations and projects and church development and guidance.

Community participation includes three phases. Altrustic, materialistic and educational. The first considers the unselfish attitude in attempting to improve conditions and people. The second deals with the recognition of material needs in the community and the devotion of time and energy in seeing these things obtained. The educational form of participation includes cultural contribution and interpretation of community needs that require educational measures to fill or provide the means to securing them.

Nominees will be judged by a committee of three outstanding women in the Twin Cities who do not belong to the council. The judges will be drawn from a box of names which have been submitted by the five clubs in the council. Only the president of the council will know the names of the judges until after the decision has been made for selecting the woman of the year. One judge will not know who the other judge is, according to Mrs. Carroll. This will be a fair and impartial democratic way of selecting the judges and also the outstanding "Woman of the Year." Their selection will be announced and an award to the winner will be made at a banquet on the Frances Hotel roof on November 30 at 8 p.m. Other features of the program for the special occasion are to be announced at an early date.

The first president of the Interclub council was Mrs. Taunton Veazey of Quota Club, the second president, Miss Nona Martin of the Pilot Club, the third president Miss Hazel Mitchell of Junior Charity League, the fourth Miss Bernice McCoy of Altrusa Club, the fifth president Mrs. Billy June Holt of Quota and the present president Mrs. Lillie Mae Carroll of Pilot Club.

Clubs and their representatives on the intercouncil comprise: Altrusa—Miss Lillie Glenn, Mrs. Yvonne Herron, Mrs. Erlene Adams and Mrs. Adrienne Carr; Delta Rho Delta—Miss Marguerite Kirkpatrick, Miss Mary Louise Farr, Miss Mary Elizabeth Stringer and Miss Mary Riser; Junior League—Mrs. Marie Cookston, Mrs. Virginia Pierce, Mrs. Sue Abington and Mrs. Maydron Jones; Pilot—Mrs. Lillie Mae Carroll, Mrs. Nona Martin, Mrs. Zera Edwards and Mrs. Hazel Garlington; Quota — Mrs. Helen Agnew, Miss Armandine Renaud, Mrs. Frances Ritter, and Mrs. Ouida McGee.

Bell, who supplments a $166 monthly service disability pension by peddling junk, was jailed Friday night in lieu of $10,000 bond.

He was charged with assault with intent to kill as the result of brutal attacks on his son, Robert, 3. The attacks included "dunking" the boy feet-first into a pan of scalding water, beating and hitting him with a stick, and hanging him for four hours in an Army duffle bag suspended from a bedroom door.

Bell also was being investigated in connection with the death of his daughter, Ruth Ann, who died Wednesday after eating a slice of bread saturated with rat poison.

It was Ruth Ann's death that exposed the vicious attacks on little Robert.

Bell's wife, Eileen, 28, said Ruth Ann became violently ill after eating a piece of poisoned bread she had picked up from the floor of the couple's ramshackle, three-room shack near here.

Mrs. Bell told state police her husband refused to take the child to a doctor and tried to ease Ruth Ann's pain with a solution of vinegar and milk.

When the home-made remedy failed, Mrs. Bell said she pleaded with her husband to seek medical aid, but he said:

"No. She's going to die, leave her be."

Mrs. Bell, with the help of a neighbor, took the child to a physician's office and later to a hospital, where Ruth Ann died an hour after being admitted.

It was while Mrs. Bell was at the hospital that the alleged attacks on Robert took place. Police investigating the complaint found the boy in bed at home.

"The kid was in pretty bad shape," one officer said. "the skin on his legs peeled off like stockings."

More Nominations For Woman Of Year Sought

Factors to be considered in selecting the "woman of the year" in the Twin Cities were announced Saturday by Mrs. Lillie Mae Carroll, president of the Interclub Council. The group, comprising representative from five clubs, Altrusa, Delta Rho Delta, Junior Charity League, Pilot and Quota, is inaugurating the intercouncil program through the choice of the woman who has made the most valuable contribution to community life.

The Interclub Council of Service Clubs for executive and professional women was organized in April, 1949, with three clubs representing the council, namely Altrusa, Pilot and Quota. Since that time two more service clubs have joined the ranks of the council and there are now five clubs represented.

The purpose of the council is to coordinate the abilities and talents of these trained executive and professional women in a program of service to the needs of the community. These front rank executive and professional women with their talents and energies have worked for the past six years in promoting major projects for our Twin Cities and one of the important functions has been to name the outstanding "Woman of the Year" in the Twin Cities.

Every adult in the Twin Cities has the opportunity to nominate the person whom he or she considers most worthy to receive the honor of "woman of the year."

Recommendations should be sent in letter form to: "Woman of the Year," Post Office Box 232, Monroe, not later than November 20. The nominee and reasons for selection should be given.

Nominations are to be made on the basis of leadership and community participation evidenced by persons being considered for this honor, Mrs. Carroll explained. Factors of leadership designated by the council include work in civic organizations and projects and church development and guidance.

Community participation includes three phases. Altrustic, materialistic and educational. The first considers the unselfish attitude in attempting to improve conditions and people. The second deals with the recognition of material needs in the community and the devotion of time and energy in seeing these things obtained. The educational form of participation includes cultural contribution and interpretation of community needs that require educational measures to fill or provide the means to securing them.

Nominees will be judged by a committee of three outstanding women in the Twin Cities who do not belong to the council. The judges will be drawn from a box of names which have been submitted by the five clubs in the council. Only the president of the council will know the names of the judges until after the decision has been made for selecting the woman of the year. One judge will not know who the other judge is, according to Mrs. Carroll. This will be a fair and impartial democratic way of selecting the judges and also the outstanding "Woman of the Year." Their selection will be announced and an award to the winner will be made at a banquet on the Frances Hotel roof on November 30 at 8 p.m. Other features of the program for the special occasion are to be announced at an early date.

The first president of the Interclub council was Mrs. Taunton Veazey of Quota Club, the second president, Miss Nona Martin of the Pilot Club, the third president Miss Hazel Mitchell of Junior Charity League, the fourth Miss Bernice McCoy of Altrusa Club, the fifth president Mrs. Billy June Holt of Quota and the present president Mrs. Lillie Mae Carroll of Pilot Club.

Clubs and their representatives on the intercouncil comprise: Altrusa—Miss Lillie Glenn, Mrs. Yvonne Herron, Mrs. Erlene Adams and Mrs. Adrienne Carr; Delta Rho Delta—Miss Marguerite Kirkpatrick, Miss Mary Louise Farr, Miss Mary Elizabeth Stringer and Miss Mary Riser; Junior League—Mrs. Marie Cookston, Mrs. Virginia Pierce, Mrs. Sue Abington and Mrs. Maydron Jones; Pilot—Mrs. Lillie Mae Carroll, Mrs. Nona Martin, Mrs. Zera Edwards and Mrs. Hazel Garlington; Quota — Mrs. Helen Agnew, Miss Armandine Reneaud, Mrs. Frances Ritter, and Mrs. Ouida McGee.

State Welfare Board Plans Appeal To Mrs. Hobby In Fight To Obtain More Aid For Old-Age Recipients

BATON ROUGE, Nov. 13 (AP) — Louisiana will go directly to cabinet member Mrs. Oveta C. Hobby with its request to allow old age recipients to earn up to $30 a month in outside income without suffering a check reduction.

The federal government, which puts up more than half the old age money, turned down Louisiana on grounds that the law, enacted by the 1954 Legislature, was in violation of social security regulations.

Welfare Commissioner Edward Dameron today asked for and received permission of the Louisiana Board of Public Welfare to appeal the federal decision directly to Mrs. Hobby, secretary of health, welfare and education. The vote was unanimous.

Dameron said that after nearly four months of negotiations, including a conference with social security commissioner Charles I. Shottland, Washington officials found the Louisiana law in conflict with federal rules that all personal resources must be considered in making old age payments.

Shottland, Dameron said, warned that federal matching money would be cut off if Louisiana proceeded without social security approval.

"I don't know if he meant that we'd lose federal money on all our welfare program or just old age," Dameron told reporters. "Just losing it for old age assistance would be enough to bankrupt us." The federal government contributes about five million dollars a month to Louisiana welfare, of which 3.8 million goes to old age assistance.

Present Louisiana welfare laws allow a maximum of $55 a month old age check plus $12 in outside income for a total budget of $67 a month. The new law, which retains and does not increase the $55 maximum grant, allows $30 in outside income for a total monthly budget of $85.

Dameron estimated it would increase welfare costs about $400,000 a month, of which the state would pay $150,000.

He was optimistic about the appeal to Mrs. Hobby but thought it would take several months since a legal brief will be filed with the appeal.

"The status now is this," the commissioner told the board. "We have been denied approval but not stopped completely. We will appeal because our staff feels the decision is wrong and we are in conformity with federal regulations."

Early in the negotiations, Dameron added, social security officials indicated some minor revisions might make the Louisiana law acceptable, but that was before the Washington conference when it was flatly rejected.

Asked by a board member how Gov. Robert Kennon felt about the new law, Dameron replied:

"The governor is in sympathy with the act and wants to see it put into effect."

Final Unofficial Count Show Eight Amendments Lost

BATON ROUGE, Nov. 13 (AP) — Complete but unofficial vote counting showed tonight eight of the 31 constitutional amendments were rejected Nov. 2, including the 50 million dollar highway bond issue and the southwest Louisiana water district.

Secretary of State Wade Martin's office made public its final tabulations after pushing all week to get final results from missing parishes.

The vote will not be official until signed by the governor and published in The Baton Rouge State-Times, official state journal.

Winning amendments have been known for some time, because of heavy favorable votes recorded election night. They include:

Amendment 16, Louisiana's design to get around the Supreme Court ruling calling for an end to public school segregation, passed 217,992 to 46,929.

Amendment 12, a 10 million dollar bond issue to provide bonuses for Korean War veterans, passed 196,540 to 45,250.

Amendment 26, providing for annual sessions of the Legislature, passed 127,901 to 4x,236.

More people voted on amendment 16 than any other, showing a ballot total of 264,921 or about 30 per cent of the estimated 865,000 registered vote.

The vote on the eight amendments rejected:

No. 1, authorize East Baton Rouge Parish to zone outside municipal areas, defeated 105,145 to 75,147.

No. 3, liberalize bail bond procedures, defeated 102,127 to 89,963.

No. 6, provide for improvement of U.S. highway 51 from Mississippi line southward in Louisiana, defeated 102,143 to 86,728.

No. 8, authorize New Orleans aviation board to issue up to three million dollars in bonds, defeated 121,397 to 53,456.

No. 13, create a 12-parish southwest Louisiana water district, with broad taxing power, defeated 92,682 to 89,791.

No. 19, authorize the state or its subdivisions to donate or lease property to federal government, defeated 88,211 to 83,026.

No. 22, a package amendment calling for all future state bond issues to be submitted to the people, and at the same time validating the 50 million dollar highway bond issue and the 42 million dollar institutions bond issue, defeated 101,530 to 77,717.

No. 31, permit 18 year olds subject to call for military duty to register in advance of voting age, but keeping voting age at 21, defeated 95,790 to 79,493.

Because of doubt concerning the fate of some amendments, especially No. 13, the southwest water district, which lost by the narrow margin of 2,891 votes, Martin has been running day by day totals.

Final parishes reporting, in order, were Calcasieu, Concordia, Jefferson, Ouachita and Jefferson Davis.

Noted Pianist Performs For Concert Group

By MISS CLAIRE FRIEBERG

Members of Twin Cities' Concert Association heard one of the most exciting young keyboard artists of our times when Miss Vera Franceschi performed here Saturday evening at Neville auditorium.

Miss Franceschi combined great technical facility with admirable musicianship, exhibiting a musical personality of great individuality. Her brilliancy is acquired from two continents. She said in America she learned that technique is foremost; in Europe the soul comes first—she is a happy combination of both. She has all the registers of expression for performance at her command.

Her personality, which captured the audience from the beginning, showed great simplicity which is the mark of a great artist. Her chief requiste is that she thoroughly enjoys playing the piano. She posseses the inborn qualities of talent, imagination and a deep capacity for emotion.

Those who were fortunate enough to interview her at length were amazed at the determination she displayed from early childhood till she became a woman pianist to equal any man artist. No failure ever broke her spirit. Her final triumph came when Dimitri Mitroupoulas engaged her for the New York Philharmonic Orchestra. Mitroupoulas taught her that piano playing has to sound orchestral.

Among her artist teachers it was Professor Carl Frieberg who taught her touch and tone. Her program included works from Scarlatti, Beethoven, Surinach, Debussy and Chopin. She recreated the music and displayed a deep insight into the art of composition in her arrangement of the "Old Italian Song." Her dynamic personality found an ideal outlet in the third movement of Beethoven's Moonlight Sonata as well as in the Ballads by Chopin. In these numbers she did justice to another of her teachers in creating an orchestral sound at the piano.

Throughout the evening Miss Franceschi showed admirable taste coloring her interpretations with personable warmth and charm and responding with grace to the generous applause with three delightful encores. It was for all who were privileged to hear this fine young artist an unforgetable evening.

SHELBY JACKSON

Shelby Jackson Asked To Speak At Nat'l Meet

BATON ROUGE, Nov. 13 (Special)—The Louisiana State Department of Education announced today that Louisiana's outstanding program of the integration of education and conservation has brought Shelby M. Jackson, state superintendent of education, an invitation to address a national meeting on that subject. Superintendent Jackson will be the banquet speaker at the annual convention of the Soil Conservation Society of America on November 16, 1954, at Jacksonville, Fla. His topic will be "Educational Needs For An Effective Program of Soil and Water Conservation."

Superintendent Jackson has been promoting a total program of education and training in the state; and, as a part of this program, he has been an ardent supporter of the teaching of conservation of the resources of the state, including soil conservation. Conservation education under his direction has received an ever-increasing emphasis in the schools of Louisiana; and Superintendent Jackson states that "a sound program of conservation is based on wise and constructive use of the natural resources, and, through proper use, many resources such as soil, forests, water, and wildlife can be replenished and can serve the people of the state for many years."

The state department has cooperated with the many schools in the state which are assuming more and more responsibility for improving the quality of living in their communities through the provision of materials of instruction to aid in the conservation programs through out the state in order to meet the needs of children, youth, and adults. Such bulletins as "The Value of Soil Conservation," "Soil Conservation A La Louisianne," "Save Our Soil," "Conservation Chats," as well as textbooks on the free textbook list and the library list with reference to natural resources of the state, south, and nation, and a special textbook on Louisiana Natural Resources have been provided for the schools.

In addition, in cooperation with the Louisiana Forestry Commission, a bulletin was issued on all grade levels in the conservation of forestry, which bulletin is entitled "Behind the Curtain of Green." Teachers on all grade levels, as well as teachers of vocational agriculture, Future Farmers of America members, and other youth groups, are doing a good job in training youth and adults on soil conservation and other conservation practices needed to teach the people how to use wisely and conserve the natural resources of the state. Education in Louisiana is playing an important role in the conservation of the state's resources.

Delaware, New Jersey Men Added To Potential List Of Candidates For National Demo Committee Chairman

By D. HAROLD OLIVER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 (AP) — Former Gov. Elbert N. Carvel of Delaware, and Archibald S. Alexander, New Jersey state treasurer, were added today to the list of those being considered for chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

Stephen A. Mitchell, chairman for the last two years, plans to resign Dec. 4 at a meeting of the committee in New Orleans. His successor is expected to be elected then.

Party leaders said today the chairmanship contest is still fluid with 10 or more names being put forward by friends on and off the committee.

Carvel's name was heard in informal discussions of visitors to party headquarters, as was Alexander's.

Carvel, a huge, handsome man, is now Democratic state chairman in Delaware. He was governor for one term from 1948-52 but lost a bid for re-election two years ago to then GOP Rep. J. Caleb Boggs.

Alexander was undersecretary of the Army under President Truman in 1950. He is one of the party's new leaders in New Jersey in recent years, although he lost two tries for the U.S. Senate in 1948 and 1952. He is now national committeeman for his state besides being in Gov. Robert B. Meyner's cabinet.

Party officials said today they did not expect any decision at New Orleans on proposed new rules for the 1956 national convention. This matter will come up Dec. 3 at New Orleans, a day before the new chairman is elected.

A committee which has been studying the questions of how to limit time-consuming polling of state delegations before TV cameras and how to avoid another bitter scrap over the so-called "loyalty oath" of delegates will be ready with a preliminary report and that's all.

The report is expected to be discussed without any effort to agreeing on a recommendation.

Meridian Man Denies Slaying Kentucky Girl

MERIDIAN, Miss., Nov. 13 (AP)—A 49-year-old Meridian man, arrested in connection with the murder of a Prestonsburg, Ky., girl five years ago, waited today in jail for Kentucky officers to question him.

City detective A. W. Creel identified the man as Ernest Brackin, "a painter by trade, an alcoholic and a drifter" who calls Meridian his home.

Creel said Brackin was arrested on a fugitive charge and is held for investigation in the 1949 slaying of a 17-year-old high school girl cheer leader.

Brackin was arrested after Pensacola, Fla., officers notified Meridian officers that a prisoner, Sam Stepp, made a sworn statement that Brackin beat Miss Muriel Baldridge to death with an automobile crank and left her body under a bridge.

Creel described the slaying as a sex crime and said the girl was returning home after a high school party when she was killed.

Creel said Stepp described the murder weapon correctly as an automobile crank, a fact that had not been publicized.

After Brackin was arrested, Creel said, officers had to delay questioning two days until Brackin was sober.

Under questioning, Creel said, Brackin admitted visiting his two brothers-in-law in Paintsville, Ky., 14 miles from Prestonsburg, at the time of the murder.

Brackin denied any part of the killing, the detective said, adding that he said he could not have done it even if he were drunk. He waived extradition.

Creel said Sheriff Gorman Collins and a detective notified him they would arrive in Meridian tomorrow evening to aid in the investigation.

The murder has been called one of Kentucky's most notorious unsolved crimes.

The Meridian detective also wants to bring Stepp and Brackin face to face "to see which pot is blackest. That's the only way to find out who's lying."

Brackin's wife died in 1937, Creel said, but he has several relatives in Meridian. He has been a drifter since 1943, the detective added, saying his last job was cutting tobacco in Kentucky in September.

Belgium Seeks New Terms For Uranium Sales

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 (AP) — Prime Minister Paul Henri Spaak disclosed today that Belgium plans to work out a new agreement with the United States and Great Britain for using uranium from the rich African Congo fields.

He said it would carry provisions under which the United States would lend a hand to Belgium's own atomic industrialization.

The agreement would replace a 1944 pact, since altered in some degree, which has come in for hot political criticism in Belgium.

For one thing, critics of the government have accused it of virtually giving the uranium away without getting help in return for Belgium's nuclear research program. The price has been kept secret.

Spaak talked to reporters today after he and Minister Sir Robert Scott of the British Embassy had conferred for an hour with Undersecretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr.

Spaak said the agreement would cover both the amount and price of uranium to be sold to Britain and America from the Belgium Congo fields.

The Prime Minister also said the agreement would include "United States aid for the atomic industrialization in Belgium." Asked to elaborate, he said this would "start with the erection of an atomic pilot plant."

Spaak obviously hoped such an agreement would offset the criticism which has been raised by a variety of Belgians, ranging from Communists to extreme right wingers.

Many Belgians and newspapers have protested that the U.S. ban on the exchange of atomic information — which was eased by Congress this summer — handicapped Belgian scientists.

Although the price Belgium has been getting for uranium has been a secret, an indication of the financial return can be gained from financial statements of the Belgian uranium producers. One of the big ones declared a $29 dividend last year, as compared with $4 in 1945.

New Publication Is Directed At Young Farmers

A new magazine has been published to help the nation's young farmers solve their problems.

The first issue of "The Young Farmer" containing the analysis and opinions of experts on situations facing the 80,000 young men who start farming each year, has been distributed for use in the nation's schools.

The magazine, which will appear three times a year, is another step in the General Mills program of educational service by industry. It will be distributed without charge to the 12,000 vocational agriculture instructors in the High Schools for use in guiding the boy who is beginning an agricultural career.

Advice on wise use of credit, step-by-step planning toward ownership of property, learning to "speak for yourself John" and keeping in touch with the community newspaper editor is featured in the initial issue.

"Every article is checked by leading authorities and is carefully planned to be useful and appealing," said Clarence Thompson, the editor. Thompson selected a variety of material which even delved into such problems as the need for a cool tractor seat in the hot sun and a cow which is satisfied with only one feeding a day.

"Use it right and borrowed money can pay dividends," is the thought of an opening article which presents the opinions of Dr. William C. Cavert, director of research for the seventh district Farm Credit Administration, and Franklin L. Parsons, director of research for the Minneapolis Federal Reserve Bank. The article advises the young farmer how to start building his credit, analyzes sound rules to follow in using borrowed money and emphasizes how the wise borrower can gain assets and income which dwarf the cost of credit.

The real-life cases of three individuals at different stages of their career are presented to illustrate practical steps toward farm ownership. This account tells the stories of 16-year-old Harold Teerink, a Worthington, Minn., high school senior who has already borrowed money to raise three steers; 30-year-old Jim Fellows, Worthington farmer who is in the process of converting from the role of renter to owner; and 40-year-old Chester Taylor of Austin Minn., who mushroomed his early use of credit to his present successful ownership of a modern 322-acre farm.

The confusion in which "farmers are, farmers aren't, farmers should farmers shouldn't, farmers can, farmers can't" is deplored by Prof. Hadley Reed, University of Illinois extension editor, in an article urging the young farmer to become a spokesman for his lot. Reed says the farmer hasn't done a good enough job of speaking for himself in the past. He sees opportunity for improving public understanding of agriculture's problems if tomorrow's farmer speaks up at civic meetings, on television and radio and in the newspaper.

The latter opportunity is emphasized by Palmer Sondreal, editor of the Amery, Wis., Free Press, who tells how the rural and urban communities can learn to understand each other better through the local newspaper "if the farmer will cooperate."

A regular feature on farm research which will appear in each issue of "The Young Farmer" presents "once-a-day feeding" as a successful answer to the time problem of the busy dairy farmer.

A three-page digest of the outstanding agriculture college bulletins, another regular magazine feature, brings to the young farmer a compiled analysis of such topics as loose housing, planning the farmstead, roadside selling, chemical debarking, trapping as an income sideline, shelterbelts, egg producing and weed killing.

Another department of the magazine lists new inventions and equipment innovations.

State Welfare Board Plans Appeal To Mrs. Hobby In Fight To Obtain More Aid For Old-Age Recipients

BATON ROUGE, Nov. 13 (AP) — Louisiana will go directly to cabinet member Mrs. Oveta C. Hobby with its request to allow old age recipients to earn up to $30 a month in outside income without suffering a check reduction.

The federal government, which puts up more than half the old age money, turned down Louisiana on grounds that the law, enacted by the 1954 Legislature, was in violation of social security regulations.

Welfare Commissioner Edward Dameron today asked for and received permission of the Louisiana Board of Public Welfare to appeal the federal decision directly to Mrs. Hobby, secretary of health, welfare and education. The vote was unanimous.

Dameron said that after nearly four months of negotiations, including a conference with social security commissioner Charles I. Shottland, Washington officials found the Louisiana law in conflict with federal rules that al. personal resources must be considered in making old age payments.

Shottland, Dameron said, warned that federal matching money would be cut off if Louisiana proceeded without social security approval.

"I don't know if he meant that we'd lose federal money on all our welfare program or just old age," Dameron told reporters. "Just losing it for old age assistance would be enough to bankrupt us." The federal government contributes about five million dollars a month to Louisiana welfare, of which 3.8 million goes to old age assistance.

Present Louisiana welfare laws allow a maximum of $55 a month old age check plus $12 in outside income for a total budget of $67 a month. The new law, which retains and does not increase the $55 maximum grant, allows $30 in outside income for a total monthly budget of $85.

Dameron estimated it would increase welfare costs about $400,000 a month, of which the state would pay $150,000.

He was optimistic about the appeal to Mrs. Hobby but thought it would take several months since a legal brief will be filed with the appeal.

"The status now is this," the commissioner told the board. "We have been denied approval but not stopped completely. We will appeal because our staff feels the decision is wrong and we are in conformity with federal regulations."

Early in the negotiations, Dameron added, social security officials indicated some minor revisions might make the Louisiana law acceptable, but that was before the Washngton conference when it was flatly rejected.

Asked by a board member how Gov. Robert Kennon felt about the new law, Dameron replied:

Final Unofficial Count Show Eight Amendments Lost

BATON ROUGE, Nov. 13 (AP) — Complete but unofficial vote counting showed tonight eight of the 31 constitutional amendments were rejected Nov. 2, including the 50 million dollar highway bond issue and the southwest Louisiana water district.

Secretary of State Wade Martin's office made public its final tabulations after pushing all week to get final results from missing parishes.

The vote will not be official until signed by the governor and published in The Baton Rouge State-Times, official state journal.

Winning amendments have been known for some time, because of heavy favorable votes recorded election night. They include:

Amendment 16, Louisiana's design to get around the Supreme Court ruling calling for an end to public school segregation, passed 217,992 to 46,929.

Amendment 12, a 10 million dollar bond issue to provide bonuses for Korean War veterans, passed 196,540 to 45,250.

Amendment 26, providing for annual sessions of the Legislature, passed 127,901 to 4x,236.

More people voted on amendment 16 than any other, showing a ballot total of 264,921 or about 30 per cent of the estimated 865,000 registered vote.

The vote on the eight amendments rejected:

No. 1, authorize East Baton Rouge Parish to zone outside municipal areas, defeated 105,145 to 75,147.

No. 3, liberalize bail bond procedures, defeated 102,127 to 89,963.

No. 6, provide for improvement of U.S. highway 51 from Mississippi line southward in Louisiana, defeated 102,143 to 86,728.

No. 8, authorize New Orleans aviation board to issue up to three million dollars in bonds, defeated 121,397 to 53,456.

No. 13, create a 12-parish southwest Louisiana water district, with broad taxing power, defeated 92,682 to 89,791.

No. 19, authorize the state or its subdivisions to donate or lease property to federal government, defeated 88,211 to 83,026.

No. 22, a package amendment calling for all future state bond issues to be submitted to the people, and at the same time validating the 50 million dollar highway bond issue and the 42 million dollar institutions bond issue, defeated 101,530 to 77,717.

No. 31, permit 18 year olds subject to call for military duty to register in advance of voting age, but keeping voting age at 21, defeated 95,700 to 79,493.

Because of doubt concerning the fate of some amendments, especially No. 13, the southwest water district, which lost by the narrow margin of 2,891 votes, Martin has been running day by day totals.

Final parishes reporting, in order, were Calcasieu, Concordia, Jefferson, Ouachita and Jefferson Davis.

By MISS CLAIRE FRIEBERG

Members of Twin Cities' Concert Association heard one of the most exciting young keyboard artists of our times when Miss Vera Franceschi performed here Saturday evening at Neville auditorium.

Miss Franceschi combined great technical facility with admirable musicianship, exhibting a musical personality of great individuality. Her brilliiancy is acquired from two continents. She said in America she learned that technique is foremost; in Europe the soul comes first—she is a happy combination of both. She has all the registers of expression for performance at her command.

Her personality, which captured the audience from the beginning, showed great simplicity which is the mark of a great artist. Her chief requiste is that she thoroughly enjoys playing the piano. She posseses the inborn qualities of talent, imagination and a deep capacity for emotion.

Those who were fortunate enough to interview her at length were amazed at the determination she displayed from early childhood till she became a woman pianist to equal any man artist. No failure ever broke her spirit. Her final triumph came when Dimitri Mitroupoulas engaged her for the New York Philharmonic Orchestra. Mitroupoulas taught her that piano playing has to sound orchestral.

Among her artist teachers it was Professor Carl Frieberg who taught her touch and tone. Her program included works from Scarlatti, Beethoven, Surinach, Debussy and Chopin. She recreated the music and displayed a deep insight into the art of composition in her arrangement of the "Old Italian Song." Her dynamic personality found an ideal outlet in the third movement of Beethoven's Moonlight Sonata as well as in the Ballads by Chopin. In these numbers she did justice to another of her teachers in creating an orchestral sound at the piano.

Throughout the evening Miss Franceschi showed admirable taste coloring her interpretations with personable warmth and charm and responding with grace to the generous applause with three delightful encores. It was for all who were privileged to hear this fine young artist an unforgetable evening.

SHELBY JACKSON

Shelby Jackson Asked To Speak At Nat'l Meet

BATON ROUGE, Nov. 13 (Special)—The Louisiana State Department of Education announced today that Louisiana's outstanding program of the integration of education and conservation has brought Shelby M. Jackson, state superintendent of education, an invitation to address a national meeting on that subject. Superintendent Jackson will be the banquet speaker at the annual convention of the Soil Conservation Society of America on November 16, 1954, at Jacksonville, Fla. His topic will be "Educational Needs For An Effective Program of Soil and Water Conservation."

Superintendent Jackson has been promoting a total program of education and training in the state; and, as a part of this program, he has been an ardent supporter of the teaching of conservation of the resources of the state, including soil conservation. Conservation education under his direction has received an ever-increasing emphasis in the schools of Louisiana; and Superintendent Jackson states that "a sound program of conservation is based on wise and constructive use of the natural resources, and, through proper use, many resources such as soil, forests, water, and wildlife can be replenished and can serve the people of the state for many years."

The state department has cooperated with the many schools in the state which are assuming more and more responsibility for improving the quality of living in their communities through the provision of materials of instruction to aid in the conservation programs through out the state in order to meet the needs of children, youth, and adults. Such bulletins as "The Value of Soil Conservation," "Soil Conservation A La Louisianne," "Save Our Soil," "Conservation Chats," as well as textbooks on the free textbook list and the library list with reference to natural resources of the state, south, and nation, and a special textbook on Louisiana Natural Resources have been provided for the schools.

In addition, in cooperation with the Louisiana Forestry Commission, a bulletin was issued on all grade levels in the conservation of forestry, which bulletin is entitled "Behind the Curtain of Green." Teachers on all grade levels, as well as teachers of vocational agriculture, Future Farmers of America members, and other youth groups, are doing a good job in training youth and adults on soil conservation and other conservation practices needed to teach the people how to use wisely and conserve the natural resources of the state. Education in Louisiana is playing an important role in the conservation of the state's resources.

Delaware, New Jersey Men Added To Potential List Of Candidates For National Demo Committee Chairman

By D. HAROLD OLIVER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 (AP) — Former Gov. Elbert N. Carvel of Delaware, and Archibald S. Alexander, New Jersey state treasurer, were added today to the list of those being considered for chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

Stephen A. Mitchell, chairman for the last two years, plans to resign Dec. 4 at a meeting of the committee in New Orleans. His successor is expected to be elected then.

Party leaders said today the chairmanship contest is still fluid with 10 or more names being put forward by friends on and off the committee.

Carvel's name was heard in informal discussions of visitors to party headquarters, as was Alexander's.

Carvel, a huge, handsome man, is now Democratic state chairman in Delaware. He was governor for one term from 1948-52 but lost a bid for re-election two years ago to then GOP Rep. J. Caleb Boggs.

Alexander was undersecretary of the Army under President Truman in 1950. He is one of the party's new leaders in New Jersey in recent years, although he lost two tries for the U.S. Senate in 1948 and 1952. He is now national committeeman for his state besides being in Gov. Robert B. Meyner's cabinet.

Party officials said today they did not expect any decision at New Orleans on proposed new rules for the 1956 national convention. This matter will come up Dec. 3 at New Orleans, a day before the new chairman is elected.

A committee which has been studying the questions of how to limit time-consuming polling of state delegations before TV cameras and how to avoid another bitter scrap over the so-called "loyalty oath" of delegates will be ready with a preliminary report and that's all.

The report is expected to be discussed without any effort to agreeing on a recommendation.

Meridian Man Denies Slaying Kentucky Girl

MERIDIAN, Miss., Nov. 13 (AP)—A 49-year-old Meridian man, arrested in connection with the murder of a Prestonsburg, Ky., girl five years ago, waited today in jail for Kentucky officers to question him.

City detective A. W. Creel identified the man as Ernest Brackin, "a painter by trade, an alcoholic and a drifter" who calls Meridian his home.

Creel said Brackin was arrested on a fugitive charge and is held for investigation in the 1949 slaying of a 17-year-old high school girl cheer leader.

Brackin was arrested after Pensacola, Fla., officers notified Meridian officers that a prisoner, Sam Stepp, made a sworn statement that Brackin beat Miss Muriel Baldridge to death with an automobile crank and left her body under a bridge.

Creel described the slaying as a sex crime and said the girl was returning home after a high school party when she was killed.

Creel said Stepp described the murder weapon correctly as an automobile crank, a fact that had not been publicized.

After Brackin was arrested, Creel said, officers had to delay questioning two days until Brackin was sober.

Under questioning, Creel said, Brackin admitted visiting his two brothers-in-law in Paintsville, Ky., 14 miles from Prestonsburg, at the time of the murder.

Brackin denied any part of the killing, the detective said, adding that he said he could not have done it even if he were drunk. He waived extradition.

Creel said Sheriff Gorman Collins and a detective notified him they would arrive in Meridian tomorrow evening to aid in the investigation.

The murder has been called one of Kentucky's most notorious unsolved crimes.

The Meridian detective also wants to bring Stepp and Brackin face to face "to see which pot is blackest. That's the only way to find out who's lying."

Brackin's wife died in 1937, Creel said, but he has several relatives in Meridian. He has been a drifter since 1943, the detective added, saying his last job was cutting tobacco in Kentucky in September.

Belgium Seeks New Terms For Uranium Sales

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 (AP) — Prime Minister Paul Henri Spaak disclosed today that Belgium plans to work out a new agreement with the United States and Great Britain for using uranium from the rich African Congo fields.

He said it would carry provisions under which the United States would lend a hand to Belgium's own atomic industrialization.

The agreement would replace a 1944 pact, since altered in some degree, which has come in for hot political criticism in Belgium.

For one thing, critics of the government have accused it of virtually giving the uranium away without getting help in return for Belgium's nuclear research program. The price has been kept secret.

Spaak talked to reporters today after he and Minister Sir Robert Scott of the British Embassy had conferred for an hour with Undersecretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr.

Spaak said the agreement would cover both the amount and price of uranium to be sold to Britain and America from the Belgium Congo fields.

The Prime Minister also said the agreement would include "United States aid for the atomic industrialization in Belgium." Asked to elaborate, he said this would "start with the erection of an atomic pilot plant."

Spaak obviously hoped such an agreement would offset the criticism which has been raised by a variety of Belgians, ranging from Communists to extreme right wingers.

Many Belgians and newspapers have protested that the U.S. ban on the exchange of atomic information — which was eased by Congress this summer — handicapped Belgian scientists.

Although the price Belgium has been getting for uranium has been a secret, an indication of the financial return can be gained from financial statements of the Belgian uranium producers. One of the big ones declared a $29 dividend last year, as compared with $4 in 1945.

New Publication Is Directed At Young Farmers

A new magazine has been published to help the nation's young farmers solve their problems.

The first issue of "The Young Farmer", containing the analysis and opinions of experts on situations facing the 80,000 young men who start farming each year, has been distributed for use in the nation's schools.

The magazine, which will appear three times a year, is another step in the General Mills program of educational service by industry. It will be distributed without charge to the 12,000 vocational agriculture instructors in the High Schools for use in guiding the boy who is beginning an agricultural career.

Advice on wise use of credit, step-by-step planning toward ownership of property, learning to "speak for yourself John" and keeping in touch with the community newspaper editor is featured in the initial issue.

"Every article is checked by leading authorities and is carefully planned to be useful and appealing," said Clarence Thompson, the editor. Thompson selected a variety of material which even delved into such problems as the need for a cool tractor seat in the hot sun and a cow which is satisfied with only one feeding a day.

"Use it right and borrowed money can pay dividends," is the thought of an opening article which presents the opinions of Dr. William C. Cavert, director of research for the seventh district Farm Credit Administration, and Franklin L. Parsons, director of research for the Minneapolis Federal Reserve Bank. The article advises the young farmer how to start building his credit, analyzes sound rules to follow in using borrowed money and emphasizes how the wise borrower can gain assets and income which dwarf the cost of credit.

The real-life cases of three individuals at different stages of their career are presented to illustrate practical steps toward farm ownership. This account tells the stories of 16-year-old Harold Teerink, a Worthington, Minn., high school senior who has already borrowed money to raise three steers; 30-year-old Jim Fellows, Worthington farmer who is in the process of converting from the role of renter to owner; and 40-year-old Chester Taylor of Austin Minn., who mushroomed his early use of credit to his present successful ownership of a modern 322-acre farm.

The confusion in which "farmers are, farmers aren't, farmers should farmers shouldn't, farmers can, farmers can't" is deplored by Prof. Hadley Reed, University of Illinois extension editor, in an article urging the young farmer to become a spokesman for his lot. Reed says the farmer hasn't done a good enough job of speaking for himself in the past. He sees opportunity for improving public understanding of agriculture's problems if tomorrow's farmer speaks up at civic meetings, on television and radio and in the newspaper.

The latter opportunity is emphasized by Palmer Sondreal, editor of the Amery, Wis., Free Press, who tells how the rural and urban communities can learn to understand each other better through the local newspaper "if the farmer will cooperate."

A regular feature on farm research which will appear in each issue of "The Young Farmer" presents "once-a-day feeding" as a successful answer to the time problem of the busy dairy farmer.

A three-page digest of the outstanding agriculture college bulletins, another regular magazine feature, brings to the young farmer a compiled analysis of such topics as loose housing, planning the farmstead, roadside selling, chemical debarking, trapping as an income sideline, shelterbelts, egg producing and weed killing.

Another department of the magazine lists new inventions and equipment innovations.

Soybeans, Corn Futures Lower

CHICAGO (AP) — Soybeans and corn, the two Midwest crops now nearing completion of their harvest, found the going tough on the Board of Trade this week. Prices of both lost ground while, in contrast, wheat, oats and rye advanced.

Soybeans futures on which 1954 crop grain can be delivered lost 5¾ to 7¼ cents a bushel. However, the distant September delivery, representing the 1955 crop, ended ¼ higher. It is selling at a discount of about 11 cents under the July future.

Re-Enlistment Policy Of Air Force Eased

The U. S. Air Force has eased its re-enlistment policy, T-Sgt. Johnnie L. Black, commander of the Monroe Air Force Recruiting Station, said yesterday.

"Prior servicemen eligible for re-enlistment in grade E-4 and who have seven years previous service are now permitted to re-enlist regardless of the number of dependents," Black said. Formerly eligibility for re-enlistment in Grade E-4 was restricted to men with no more than three dependents.

The new policy, Black explained, will permit many former servicemen, who desire to continue their military career to do so. Additional information may be obtained from Sgt. Black or Sgt. Wilbanks at the Air Force Recruiting Station, 621 Louisville Avenue, Monroe.

Soybeans, Corn Futures Lower

CHICAGO (AP) — Soybeans and corn, the two Midwest crops now nearing completion of their harvest, found the going tough on the Board of Trade this week. Prices of both lost ground while, in contrast, wheat, oats and rye advanced.

Soybeans futures on which 1954 crop grain can be delivered lost 5¾ to 7¼ cents a bushel. However, the distant September delivery, representihg the 1955 crop, ended ¼ higher. It is selling at a discount of about 11 cents under the July future.

Re-Enlistment Policy Of Air Force Eased

The U. S. Air Force has eased its re-enlistment policy, T-Sgt. Johnnie L. Black, commander of the Monroe Air Force Recruiting Station, said yesterday.

"Prior servicemen eligible for reenlistment in grade E-4 and who have seven years previous service are now permitted to re-enlist regardless of the number of dependents," Black said. Formerly eligibility for re-enlistment in Grade E-4 was restricted to men with no more than three dependents.

The new policy, Black explained, will permit many former servicemen, who desire to continue their military career to do so. Additional information may be obtained from Sgt. Black or Sgt. Wilbanks at the Air Force Recruiting Station, 621 Louisville Avenue, Monroe.

Arkansas Falls; Tulane Wins 1st Game

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

With championship playoffs running well into December, the Louisiana high school football season still has a good ways to go. Most schools, however, will have packed their football togs away by the end of next Friday's games, and Basketball will begin to command heavy attention although the small schools that do not field grid machines already are busy on the gymnasium floors.

Tournament fever will surely run high this year throughout the state as basketball gatherings will certainly be slated for every week of the season with several within the same areas, according to the list of approved tournaments already announced by T. H. Waters, commissioner of the Louisiana High School Athletic Association.

Waters announced a total of 112 tournaments had been approved as of November 1, and there may have been a few others since, throughout the state, and we figured about thirty of those within and neighboring the northeast Louisiana area. Quitman High got the jump on other schools in this area with its tourney a week ago won by the Simsboro boys and Weston's girls, and Bienville High was winding up a similar three-day event last night.

Other approved tournament dates for this area are Downsville, Nov. 18-19-20; Marion and Georgetown, Dec. 2-3-4; Sikes girls and Fort Necessity, Dec. 3-4; Baskin, Choudrant, Jena, and Winnfield boys, Dec. 10-11; Farmerville, Dec. 16-17-18; Goldonna, Dec. 17-18; Bolton of Alexandria, Dec. 28; Bonita, Dec. 30-31-Jan. 1; Calhoun and Oak Grove, Jan. 6-7-8; LaSalle of Olla, and Sikes boys, Jan. 7-8; Ouachita Parish High of Monroe, Block of Jonesville and Winnfield girls, Jan. 14-15; Jonesboro-Hodge, Jan. 20-21-22; Neville of Monroe, Central (near Delhi), and Arcadia, Jan. 21-22; Lake Providence, Jan. 27-28-29; Enterprise, Jan. 28-29; North District Tournament at Oak Grove, Feb 18-19; and Linville, Feb. 25-26.

Other tournaments are bound to be scheduled, but schools still planning such events are reminded that written approval must be obtained from the commissioner's office 14 days before the date of the tourney planned.

The football season for the Twin Cities will be wrapped up with two big games next week end—Ouachita vs. Neville in the crosstown high school struggle for the Joseph Guerriero City Championship Trophy, and Louisiana Tech vs. Northeast Louisiana State here Saturday night.

Neville retired the first Guerriero trophy last year with its third straight win over Ouachita. The Monroe attorney has announced he will produce a second trophy this year that will change hands annually until one school again has won three straight. In the past the Ouachita-Neville games have been near toss-ups, but Neville is figured to rule the favorite Friday.

Northeast sees little hope of stopping Louisiana Tech, but the Redskin-Bulldog series that opened with a Tech victory last year promises to become a good one when the rebuilding Tribe works up the strength it wants.

Northeast is just as anxious to get on with the basketball season, and apparently the Tribe expects to be able to hold its own in the Gulf States Conference this year. Coach Arnold Kilpatrick is making no bones about how he feels about his Indian cage squad which has a little more depth in talent this year and expects to come up with its best season.

Fighting Irish Trounce Tar Heels Easily, 42-13

By JERRY LISKA

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 13 (AP)—Notre Dame's once-beaten Irish stunned North Carolina with a 21-point second quarter and then trotted out sophomore Paul Hornung for a one-man show in a 42 to 13 smashing of the Tar Heels today.

Notre Dame, fifth-ranked in the AP's national poll, won its sixth victory of the season by letting the regulars grind out a 21-0 lead in the first 25 minutes of play and then testing reserves with profitable results.

The three-touchdown Irish explosion in the second quarter after an opening TD in the first quarter left North Carolina trailing 28-0 at halftime.

As the Tar Heels went down to their sixth straight defeat by Notre Dame since the series started in 1949, Halfback Joe Heap scored the first two Irish touchdowns and sophomore Jim Morse, starting right half, the third on a short pass from quarterback Ralph Guglielmi.

After that, Irish Coach Terry Brennan tried to show mercy, but the Irish reserves—especially quarterback-fullback Hornung—had different ideas, pusing across three more touchdowns.

North Carolina, trailing 42-0 finally scored on Al Long's 7-yard pass to Larry Parker.

Methodist Spoil Porkers' Record In 21-14 Defeat

By RAY STEPHENS

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Nov. 13 (AP)—Southern Methodists' Mustangs, led by the brilliant Frank Eidom, built up a three-touchdown lead and held on to hand the Arkansas Razorbacks their first defeat of the season 21-14 here today.

The loss stopped Arkansas' winning streak at eight straight games, beginning with the final game of the 1953 season.

In winning, SMU kept alive its hopes of winning the Southwest Conference title, and moved into the lead in the championship race. Arkansas needed no more than a tie to clinch the crown, but the Porkers couldn't stop the vicious Mustang attack.

A crowd of 27,300 turned out for the game, highlight of Arkansas' 33rd Homecoming.

The crowd saw Arkansas' vaunted defense crumble before the Mustangs' onslaught, well-led by Eidom, quarterback Duane Nutt and half-back John Marshall.

Eidom scored all three of SMU's touchdowns—one on a pass from Nutt, one on a two-yard plunge and one on a 28-yard sprint off tackle.

Nutt's touchdown pass was the first aerial score given up by Arkansas this year.

Arkansas' offense couldn't find a loophole in the Mustang defense for three quarters. The Razorbacks finally came to life in the fourth period to score twice, but by then it was too late.

Walt Matthews, a spot pass receiver, set up one Arkansas touchdown by recovering a fumble, and the Razorbacks drove 80 yards for the other.

Sophomore tailback George Walker passed for both Arkansas touchdowns. He hit wingback Joe Thomason from 20 yards out for the first tally and tossed 22 yards to Jerry McFadden for the second.

Another drive, also in the fourth quarter and again set off by the recovery of a fumble by Matthews died on the SMU four.

Even in defeat, Arkansas completed its most successful conference since 1946, when it tied Rice for the title. Arkansas still is very much in the championship picture with a league record of five victories against the lone defeat. SMU, which has three victories and one tie in conference play, still has two more league teams to play—TCU and Baylor.

Cincinnati Falls Upset Victim Of Wichita, 13 To 0

CINCINNATI, Nov. 13 (AP)—Quarterback Jack Conway, 195-pound sophomore, led the Wichita Shockers to an upset 13-0 football victory today over previously unbeaten Cincinnati, which was unable to plow past the Kansans' 26-yard marker.

Conway, elusive and smart, slid four yards around right end for a Wichita touchdown with 45 seconds to go in the third period. And he intercepted a Cincinnati pass to start the march toward the second score.

Cincinnati was primed for its 17th straight victory. The 12th ranked Bearcat had not been shut out in 30 games but their vaunted offense never clicked.

Southern Cal's Trojans Wallop Huskies, 41 To 0

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 13 (AP)—Halfback Aramis Dandoy whipped 95 yards for six points on the opening kickoff and Southern California went on to bombard the helpless Huskies of Washington today with six touchdowns and a 41-0 defeat.

This nightmare in the afternoon for Washington was merely a workout for the Rose Bowl-bound Trojans for their big game next week with U.C.L.A., the nation's top ranking football team.

A crowd of 36,108 included members of the U.C.L.A. squad.

The Trojans varsity scored four touchdowns in the first eight minutes of the game, and then gave way for the remainder of the half to the second, third and fourth string players.

Dandoy contributed a 29-yard dance along the sideline for his second touchdown of the initial scoring burst. Sophomore Jon Arnett capped a 62-yard march with a 15-yard sweep off right end for another, and a blocked punt set up the final score.

End Leon Clarke blocked a punt by Bill Albrecht, picked up the ball and ran 10 to the Washington four. Quarterback Jim Contratto shot through the middle of the line for the score from two yards out.

Greenies Master Vanderbilt, 6-0; Abandon Cellar

By BARNEY BALLARD

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 13 (AP)—Chunky Bob Saia rammed over from the Vanderbilt one for the touchdown which gave Tulane a 6-0 football victory today, its first of the season.

The loss was Vanderbilt's seventh straight for 1954, longest Commodore losing streak in history, and gave the home team undisputed possession of the Southeastern Conference cellar.

The game, a listless contest, was played before approximately 15,000.

The Greenies moved 88 yards in 20 plays for the only touchdown early in the second period. The conversion try was blocked, but the outcome was already decided.

Vanderbilt threatened seriously in the opening period, but lost the ball on downs at the Tulane eleven. Twice more late in the game, the Commodores drove into Greenie territory, but were unable to penetrate within scoring distance.

Featuring the game were the outstanding punting of Tulane's quarterback John Caruso, and the running of Vanderbilt's halfback Charley Horton.

Caruso, who did most of Tulane's punting, booted the ball six times for an average of 45.5 yards.

Horton, who missed two games earlier in the season, because of a leg injury, carried 12 times for 111 yards. The long-legged Vanderbilt halfback piled up 105 yards in the first half alone on 10 carries.

Today's victory was the first for the Greenies in the conference since 1952, when they defeated Vanderbilt here on the same field. They had lost five and tied three before today.

Vanderbilt's last SEC triumph was registered last year against Tulane and the Commodore mark for the season stands at seven losses and no victories.

The Commodores outgained their opponents both on the ground and in the air, piling up 18 first downs to eight. Vanderbilt netted 189 yards on running plays to 121 for Tulane and accumulated 135 yards passing, to 21 for the Greenies.

Engineers Crack Crimson Defense In 20 To 0 Rout

By VERNON BUTLER

ATLANTA, Nov. 13 (AP) — Tiny Jimmy Thompson, smallest man on the field, and his speedy sophomore teamates sliced the nation's leading defense to shreds today and hauled Georgia Tech to a 20-0 football victory over Alabama.

The lightning-fast Tech attack, paced by the 5-foot-6, 150-pound Thompson, consistently bewildered the bigger, slower Alabama defenders. Thompson Paul Rotenberry, George Volkirt and Johnny Menger — all sophomores—treated a sellout crowd of 40,000 and a nationwide television audience to one of the better offensive shows of the season.

Thompson, from Bessemer, Ala., and rubbing it in on his home state for passing him up, scored two touchdowns and twisted and squirmed his way for the major share of Tech's yardage in the one-sided Southeastern Conference victory.

Rotenberry raced 45 yards for Tech's first touchdown with the game scarcely a minute old. He was sprung loose on the "belly play" with the help of brilliant faking by fullback John Hunsinger.

Punt returns of 34 yards by Thompson and 58 by Menger helped keep the Engineers in Alabama territory during almost all of the first half. Thompson set up the second score when he ran a Bobby Luna kick back to the Alabama 27 late in the first period.

He carved out 11 yards a moment later and the scored from the 7, although hit by a beefy Alabama lineman at the 1. Burton Grant converted.

The little man scored Tech's third touchdown in the third quarter, going 5 yards off tackle to climax a 14-play -yard ground drive. Wade Mitchell added the extra point.

Until today, Alabama was the best defensive team in the nation. The husky Crimson Tide had limited eight foes to 33 points. Its pass defense had yielded an average of only 39.3 yards per game, but Tech completed four in the first half for 53 yards. Tech's offensive superiority was so pronounced that the Engineers punted for the first time late in the third quarter.

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

With championship playoffs running well into December, the Louisiana high school football season still has a good ways to go. Most schools, however, will have packed their football togs away by the end of next Friday's games, and Basketball will begin to command heavy attention although the small schools that do not field grid machines already are busy on the gymnasium floors.

Tournament fever will surely run high this year throughout the state as basketball gatherings will certainly be slated for every week of the season with several within the same areas, according to the list of approved tournaments already announced by T. H. Waters, commissioner of the Louisiana High School Athletic Association.

Waters announced a total of 112 tournaments had been approved as of November 1, and there may have been a few others since, throughout the state, and we figured about thirty of those within and neighboring the northeast Louisiana area. Quitman High got the jump on other schools in this area with its tourney a week ago won by the Simsboro boys and Weston's girls, and Bienville High was winding up a similar three-day event last night.

Other approved tournament dates for this area are Downsville, Nov. 18-19-20; Marion and Georgetown, Dec. 2-3-4; Sikes girls and Fort Necessity, Dec. 3-4; Baskin, Choudrant, Jena, and Winnfield boys, Dec. 10-11; Farmerville, Dec. 16-17-18; Goldonna, Dec. 17-18; Bolton of Alexandria, Dec. 28; Bonita, Dec. 30-31-Jan. 1; Calhoun and Oak Grove, Jan. 6-7-8; LaSalle of Olla, and Sikes boys, Jan. 7-8; Ouachita Parish High of Monroe, Block of Jonesville and Winnfield girls, Jan. 14-15; Jonesboro-Hodge, Jan. 20-21-22; Neville of Monroe, Central (near Delhi), and Arcadia, Jan. 21-22; Lake Providence, Jan. 27-28-29; Enterprise, Jan. 28-29; North District Tournament at Oak Grove, Feb 18-19; and Linville, Feb. 25-26.

Other tournaments are bound to be scheduled, but schools still planning such events are reminded that written approval must be obtained from the commissioner's office 14 days before the date of the tourney planned.

The football season for the Twin Cities will be wrapped up with two big games next week end—Ouachita vs. Neville in the crosstown high school struggle for the Joseph Guerriero City Championship Trophy, and Louisiana Tech vs. Northeast Louisiana State here Saturday night.

Neville retired the first Guerriero trophy last year with its third straight win over Ouachita. The Monroe attorney has announced he will produce a second trophy this year that will change hands annually until one school again has won three straight. In the past the Ouachita-Neville games have been near toss-ups, but Neville is figured to rule the favorite Friday.

Northeast sees little hope of stopping Louisiana Tech, but the Redskin-Bulldog series that opened with a Tech victory last year promises to become a good one when the rebuilding Tribe works up the strength it wants.

Northeast is just as anxious to get on with the basketball season, and apparently the Tribe expects to be able to hold its own in the Gulf States Conference this year. Coach Arnold Kilpatrick is making no bones about how he feels about his Indian cage squad which has a little more depth in talent this year and expects to come up with its best season.

Fighting Irish Trounce Tar Heels Easily, 42-13

By JERRY LISKA

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 13 (AP)—Notre Dame's once-beaten Irish stunned North Carolina with a 21-point second quarter and then trotted out sophomore Paul Hornung for a one-man show in a 42 to 13 smashing of the Tar Heels today.

Notre Dame, fifth-ranked in the AP's national poll, won its sixth victory of the season by letting the regulars grind out a 21-0 lead in the first 25 minutes of play and then testing reserves with profitable results.

The three-touchdown Irish explosion in the second quarter after an opening TD in the first quarter left North Carolina trailing 28-0 at halftime.

As the Tar Heels went down to their sixth straight defeat by Notre Dame since the series started in 1949, Halfback Joe Heap scored the first two Irish touchdowns and sophomore Jim Morse, starting right half, the third on a short pass from quarterback Ralph Guglielmi.

After that, Irish Coach Terry Brennan tried to show mercy, but the Irish reserves—especially quarterback-fullback Hornung—had different ideas, pusing across three more touchdowns.

North Carolina, trailing 42-0 finally scored on Al Long's 7-yard pass to Larry Parker.

Arkansas Falls; Tulane Wins Ist Game

By RAY STEPHENS

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Nov. 13 (AP)—Southern Methodists' Mustangs, led by the brilliant Frank Eidom, built up a three-touchdown lead and held on to hand the Arkansas Razorbacks their first defeat of the season 21-14 here today.

The loss stopped Arkansas' winning streak at eight straight games, beginning with the final game of the 1953 season.

In winning, SMU kept alive its hopes of winning the Southwest Conference title, and moved into the lead in the championship race. Arkansas needed no more than a tie to clinch the crown, but the Porkers couldn't stop the vicious Mustang attack.

A crowd of 27,300 turned out for the game, highlight of Arkansas' 33rd Homecoming.

The crowd saw Arkansas' vaunted defense crumble before the Mustangs' onslaught, well-led by Eidom, quarterback Duane Nutt and half-back John Marshall.

Eidom scored all three of SMU's touchdowns—one on a pass from Nutt, one on a two-yard plunge and one on a 28-yard sprint off tackle.

Nutt's touchdown pass was the first aerial score given up by Arkansas this year.

Arkansas' offense couldn't find a loophole in the Mustang defense for three quarters. The Razorbacks finally came to life in the fourth period to score twice, but by then it was too late.

Walt Matthews, a spot pass receiver, set up one Arkansas touchdown by recovering a fumble, and the Razorbacks drove 80 yards for the other.

Sophomore tailback George Walker passed for both Arkansas touchdowns. He hit wingback Joe Thomason from 20 yards out for the first tally and tossed 22 yards to Jerry McFadden for the second.

Another drive, also in the fourth quarter and again set off by the recovery of a fumble by Matthews died on the SMU four.

Even in defeat, Arkansas completed its most successful conference since 1946, when it tied Rice for the title. Arkansas still is very much in the championship picture with a league record of five victories against the lone defeat. SMU, which has three victories and one tie in conference play, still has two more league teams to play—TCU and Baylor.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 13 (AP) — Halfback Aramis Dandoy whipped 95 yards for six points on the opening kickoff and Southern California went on to bombard the helpless Huskies of Washington today with six touchdowns and a 41-0 defeat.

This nightmare in the afternoon for Washington was merely a workout for the Rose Bowl-bound Trojans for their big game next week with U.C.L.A., the nation's top ranking football team.

A crowd of 36,108 included members of the U.C.L.A. squad.

The Trojans varsity scored four touchdowns in the first eight minutes of the game, and then gave way for the remainder of the half to the second, third and fourth string players.

Dandoy contributed a 29-yard dance along the sideline for his second touchdown of the initial scoring burst. Sophomore Jon Arnett capped a 62-yard march with a 15-yard sweep off right end for another, and a blocked punt set up the final score.

End Leon Clarke blocked a punt by Bill Albrecht, picked up the ball and ran 10 to the Washington four. Quarterback Jim Contratto shot through the middle of the line for the score from two yards out.

Greenies Master Vanderbilt, 6-0; Abandon Cellar

By BARNEY BALLARD

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 13 (AP)—Chunky Bob Saia rammed over from the Vanderbilt one for the touchdown which gave Tulane a 6-0 football victory today, its first of the season.

The loss was Vanderbilt's seventh straight for 1954, longest Commodore losing streak in history, and gave the home team undisputed possession of the Southeastern Conference cellar.

The game, a listless contest, was played before approximately 15,000.

The Greenies moved 88 yards in 20 plays for the only touchdown early in the second period. The conversion try was blocked, but the outcome was already decided.

Vanderbilt threatened seriously in the opening period, but lost the ball on downs at the Tulane eleven. Twice more late in the game, the Commodores drove into Greenie territory, but were unable to penetrate within scoring distance.

Featuring the game were the outstanding punting of Tulane's quarterback John Caruso, and the running of Vanderbilt's halfback Charley Horton.

Caruso, who did most of Tulane's punting, booted the ball six times for an average of 45.5 yards.

Horton, who missed two games earlier in the season, because of a leg injury, carried 12 times for 111 yards. The long-legged Vanderbilt halfback piled up 105 yards in the first half alone on 10 carries.

Today's victory was the first for the Greenies in the conference since 1952, when they defeated Vanderbilt here on the same field. They had lost five and tied three before today.

Vanderbilt's last SEC triumph was registered last year against Tulane and the Commodore mark for the season stands at seven losses and no victories.

The Commodores outgained their opponents both on the ground and in the air, piling up 18 first downs to eight. Vanderbilt netted 189 yards on running plays to 121 for Tulane and accumulated 135 yards passing, to 21 for the Greenies.

Engineers Crack Crimson Defense In 20 To 0 Rout

By VERNON BUTLER

ATLANTA, Nov. 13 (AP) — Tiny Jimmy Thompson, smallest man on the field, and hi speedy sophomore teamates siced the nation's leading defene to shreds today and hauled Georgia Tech to a 20-0 football victory over Alabama.

The lightning-fas Tech attack, paced by the 5-foot-6, 150-pound Thompson, consistetly bewildered the bigger, slower Alabama defenders. Thompson Paul Rotenberry, George Volkrt and Johnny Menger — all sophomores—treated a sellout crowd of 40,000 and a nationwide televisin audience to one of the better dfensive shows of the season.

Thompson, from Bessemer, Ala., and rubbing it in onhis home state for passing him u, scored two touchdowns and twisted and squirmed his way or the major share of Tech's yrdage in the one-sided Southeastern Conference victory.

Rotenberry raced 45 yards for Tech's first touchown with the game scarcely a rinute old. He was sprung loose on the "belly play" with the hep of brilliant faking by fullback Jhn Hunsinger.

Punt returns of 34 yards by Thompson and 55 by Menger helped keep the Enineers in Alabama territory durng almost all of the first half. Thmpson set up the second score wen he ran a Bobby Luna kick bck to the Alabama 27 late in the irst period.

He carved out 15 yards a moment later and the scored from the 7, although hit by a beefy Alabama lineman at he 1. Burton Grant converted.

The little man cored Tech's third touchdown in he third quarter, going 5 yardsoff tackle to climax a 14-play)-yard ground drive. Wade Mitche added the extra point.

Until today, Alaama was the best defensive tear in the nation. The husky Crimsoi Tide had limited eight foes to33 points. Its pass defense had yelded an average of only 39.3 yrds per game, but Tech completl four in the first half for 53 yrds. Tech's offensive superiority was so pronounced that the Egineers punted for the first time te in the third quarter.

Northeast Holds Louisiana College To 19-19 Tie

Danny Hoak TD In Final Period Earns Stalemate

PINEVILLE, La., Nov. 13 (Special) — The underdog Northeast Louisiana State Indians gave their morale a big boost tonight by fighting the highly favored Louisiana College Wildcats to a 19-19 standstill in a Gulf States Conference football battle here.

The Redskins grabbed the lead in the first quarter and held on until the passing of Frank Mobley of Monroe fired the Wildcats to two touchdowns in the third period, enabling Louisiana College to take command.

But the battling Redskins came banging back in the final period with Danny Hoak slashing through right tackle for 20 yards and the tying touchdown with five minutes left to play. The Indians had control of the ball for the last four minutes and had hammered to the Wildcat 20 as the game closed.

Quarterback Pete Chambliss, the will-o-the-wisp of the bruising Northeast ground attack, crashed over right tackle for 18 yards and the Tribe's initial touchdown. Then in the second quarter Chambliss fired an 18-yard touchdown pass to Dan Andrews, and it looked like the winless Indians were on the road to victory. Andrews, missing the conversion behind Chambliss' TD, booted good behind his own.

The Wildcats finally got an offensive rolling in the second quarter, driving to the Northeast one from where Tommy Bankston bucked the ball over. Mobley's conversion attempt failed, and the Tribe led 13-6 a the half.

Mobley came back to light a fire under the 'Cats with his passing attack in the third period, and his pitches into the flat sent the Indians reeling. The aerial game sparked the Wildcats to the Indian five to set up a touchdown for Harold Clark on an end sweep. This time Mobley ran for the point, tying the score.

Minutes later, Mobley pitched the 'Cats into striking range again and then crossed up the Tribe at the 15 when Clark served as the tosser with Mobley racing over with the TD pass that put the host machine ahead.

Northeast's ground attack suffered when Chambliss was hurt in the third quarter, but Hoak, his substitute, proved effective in steering the Indians to the tying T. Tommy Leos failed in an attempt to run for the point that would have clinched the game for the invaders.

Devon Payne, the Northeast coach, had coached at Louisiana College last year, and the Indians were anxious to present him with a victory over his old club. But Payne, who celebrates his birthday tomorrow, was awarded a jacket by his players before leaving Monroe for the trip here, and they had promised to hand him the win as well. As it was, they didn't leave him with a defeat.

C. J. Melancon, a guard, and Captain "Red" Yocom, tackle, were standouts in the Indian line that matched the strength of the 'Cats forwards, and Doyle Holstead, third string Indian center, played the entire game as Sammy Moore, No. 1 pivot, was out with an injury, and "Bulldog" Calhoun had left school.

Badgers Tally 20 Points In 4th To Beat Illini, 27-14

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 13 (AP)—Wisconsin, cashing in on a series of recovered fumbles and crucial penalty yardage against Illinois, triphammered three touchdowns in the last quarter today to chill the Illini's homecoming with a 27-14 triumph.

A capacity throng of 71,119, who cheered the 13-point underdog Illini, as quarterback Em Lindbeck and injured J. C. Caroline mustered the team into a 14-7 lead through three periods, sat back in dismay when the collapse came.

Wisconsin, handing Illinois its fifth straight Big Ten defeat, played all but the first five minutes of the game without its star, rushing record holder Alan (The Horse) Ameche. The big fullback, hobbled with a bruised ankle, started the game. He was in for only seven plays, but for the first time in his career, he did not carry the ball.

The Badgers, gaining their fourth conference triumph in six starts, sprung a reserve senior halfback, Bob Gingrass across the goal line three times. He also booted an extra point.

Clarence Bratt, another senior halfback second stringer, scored the final Wisconsin touchdown and also led his team's three touchdown smash in the finale.

Score by quarters:

Wisconsin	0	7	0	20—27
Illinois	0	14	0	0—14

Wisconsin scoring: Touchdowns, Gingrass 3, Bratt. Conversions, Wilson 2, Gingrass.

Illinois scoring: Touchdowns, Woodson, Caroline. Conversions, Wiman 2.

Moegle Stars On Defense As Rice Beats Texas Ags

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Nov. 13 (AP)—A crowd which came to see Dicky Moegle run saw him star on defense instead as Rice bulldogged a wild Texas Aggie team and eked out a 29-19 victory.

Moegle was out of place in a Rice offense which did most of the damage through the air to take the victory after allowing A. and M. to go ahead twice. But he sparked a Rice defense which held the Aggies twice within the Rice 20.

And it was Moegle who smashed over from the Aggie two with seven seconds remaining in the game to give Rice breathing room for the first time in the afternoon.

The predicted duel between Moegle, the leading rusher in the Southwest Conference, and A. and M.'s Elwood Kettler, the total offense leader, failed to come off as Kettler played only half the game and lacked his usual brilliance during that time.

Kettler did score A. and M.'s first touchdown and was the guiding force behind the Aggies' third touchdown drive, but found himself in the shadow of teammates Jack Pardee, Don Kachtik and Don Easley when it came to ground play.

It was a case generally of too much second-half strength by a larger and fresher Rice team that had watched A. and M. come back from 7-0 and 13-7 deficits to tie the game twice in the first half.

The Owls picked up the third period safety and two fourth-period touchdowns to take the game going away.

Score by quarters:

Rice	7	6	2	14—29
Texas A&M	7	6	0	6—19

Rice scoring: Touchdowns, M. Stone, Holland, Hall, Moegle; Conversions, Throckmorton, Hall 2. Safety: Rayburn (blocked punt in third quarter).

A. and M. scoring: Touchdowns, Kettler 2, 4. Robbins; Conversion, Kettler.

Florida Ends Winless Years With Tennessee

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 13 (AP)—Florida broke its long, winless jinx against Tennessee today as substitute quarterback Dick Allen passed for two touchdowns to give the Gators a 14-0 football victory.

The 14 points not only gave Florida its first triumph over Tennessee in 11 games, but also it was the most points the Gators have ever scored on the Vols. The series between the Southeastern Conference rivals date back to 1916.

Allen, 160-pound sophomore from Atlanta, maneuvered the Gators to their first touchdown midway the second period after Ross Winne pounced on fullback Tom Tracy's fumble on the Tennessee 29.

After working the ball down to Tennessee's 9 on four plays, including a 7-yard pass from Allen to halfbacks Don Chandler, Allen hit Chandler on the three and the halfback tepped into the end zone. Allen made the first of two conversions.

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 13 (AP) —Halfback Arthur Davis tonight powered, passed and purloined Mississippi State to a 25-0 football victory over Louisiana State before 20,000 fans.

Third leading ground gainer in the Southeastern Conference, Davis played most of the game, scored all four Mississippi State touchdowns and put on an iron-man exhibition that included setting up most of his own scores.

Davis bucked over a couple of yards for two scores, ran wide six yards for another after putting himself in position by passing 25 yards to Joe Silveri, and finished off an incredible evening by scooting unscathed 34 yards into the end zone with an errant L.S.U. pass.

If L.S.U. was somewhat confused by the audacious Davis, it was completely befuddled and demoralized when quarterback Bobby Collins and Bill Stanton took to the air and gave wing to the vaunted Maroon ground game.

The rugged Mississippi State line, engineered like a massive earth mover by center Hal Easterwood, dug canals in L.S.U.'s lumbering line so Davis and Silveri could come barging through.

The breeze that wafted Mississippi State's passes into the hand of waiting receivers, boded no good for the Tigers as their aerial game never got started.

L.S.U. quarterbacks Al Doggett and Win Turner tried a pass or two when the ground game looked more hopeless than usual, but Mississippi State players twice became unwelcome targets and each time a touchdown was in the making.

Score by quarters:

Mississippi State scoring: Touchdowns, Davis 4. Conversions, Silveri.

All Scoring In 2nd Half As Pitt Defeats Nebraska

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 13 (AP)—Pitt used a dancing 40-yard run by Chuck Cost and a one-handed pass interception and 30-yard return by center Ed Bose today to trim Nebraska 21-7 before 40,000 homecoming fans.

All this was done by the Panthers in the third period—one that ended with Pitt leading 14-7 after Nebraska struck back with a brilliant Willie Greenlaw to Ron Clark pass and run on a scoring play that covered 57 yards.

It was the eighth straight time that Pitt has come to Lincoln and left without tasting defeat. Three of the games were ties.

The downfall of Nebraska began when Pitt plowed a hole in the middle for Cost to slide through. Then Cost coasted goalward, dancing away from three tacklers before being hauled down on the five. Two plays later Bob Grier scored from the three and Ambrose Bagamery converted.

Nebraska went into the air trying to get back into the game for coach Bill Glassford, himself a former Pitt star. But Brose picked off a throw with one hand on the Pitt 40 and went back to the Nebraska 30. Bagamery scored from the three and converted.

Score by quarters:

Pittsburgh	0	0	14	7—21
Nebraska	0	0	7	0— 7

Pitt scoring: Touchdowns: Geier, Bagamery, Ballock. Conversion: Bagamery 3.

Nebraska scoring: Touchdown: Clark. Conversion: Smith.

After working the ball down to Tennessee's 9 on four plays, including a 7-yard pass from Allen to halfback Don Chandler, Allen hit Chandler on the three and the half back stepped into the end zone. Allen made the first of two conversions.

Allen completed four of six passes for 108 yards.

Gophers Defeat Iowa In Hectic Game, 22 To 20

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 13 (AP)—Minnesota turned a goal line Iowa gamble into a game winning safety today in an ironic climax to a 22-20 victory studded with the running heroics of Gopher captain Bob McNamara.

A crowd of 65,429, second highest in Minnesota history watched one of the most gripping struggles in the schools' long and fierce rivalry.

Iowa committed its fatal mistake in the third quarter on the very play which had punctured Minnesota's defense almost without challenge for the first two quarters.

Iowa	7	7	6	0—20

Iowa scoring: Touchdowns, Reichow, Smith, Vincent. Conversions, Freeman 2.

Minnesota scoring: Touchdowns, Bob McNamara 2, Dick McNamara. Conversions, Cappelletti 2. Safety, Vincent (Downed ball in the end zone).

Danny Hoak TD In Final Period Earns Stalemate

PINEVILLE, La., Nov. 13 (Special) — The underdog Northeast Louisiana State Indians gave their morale a big boost tonight by fighting the highly favored Louisiana College Wildcats to a 19-19 standstill in a Gulf States Conference football battle here.

The Redskins grabbed the lead in the first quarter and held on until the passing of Frank Mobley of Monroe fired the Wildcats to two touchdowns in the third period, enabling Louisiana College to take command.

But the battling Redskins came banging back in the final period with Danny Hoak slashing through right tackle for 20 yards and the tying touchdown with five minutes left to play. The Indians had control of the ball for the last four minutes and had hammered to the Wildcat 20 as the game closed.

Quarterback Pete Chambliss, the will-o-the-wisp of the bruising Northeast ground attack, crashed over right tackle for 18 yards and the Tribe's initial touchdown. Then in the second quarter Chambliss fired an 18-yard touchdown pass to Dan Andrews, and it looked like the winless Indians were on the road to victory. Andrews, missing the conversion behind Chambliss' TD, booted good behind his own.

The Wildcats finally got an offensive rolling in the second quarter, driving to the Northeast one from where Tommy Bankston bucked the ball over. Mobley's conversion attempt failed, and the Tribe led 13-6 a the half.

Mobley came back to light a fire under the 'Cats with his passing attack in the third period, and his pitches into the flat sent the Indians reeling. The aerial game sparked the Wildcats to the Indian five to set up a touchdown for Harold Clark on an end sweep. This time Mobley ran for the point, tying the score.

Minutes later, Mobley pitched the 'Cats into striking range again and then crossed up the Tribe at the 15 when Clark served as the tosser with Mobley racing over with the TD pass that put the host machine ahead.

Northeast's ground attack suffered when Chambliss was hurt in the third quarter, but Hoak, his substitute, proved effective in steering the Indians to the tying T. Tommy Leos failed in an attempt to run for the point that would have clinched the game for the invaders.

Devon Payne, the Northeast coach, had coached at Louisiana College last year, and the Indians were anxious to present him with a victory over his old club. But Payne, who celebrates his birthday tomorrow, was awarded a jacket by his players before leaving Monroe for the trip here, and they had promised to hand him the win as well. As it was, they didn't leave him with a defeat.

C. J. Melancon, a guard, and Captain "Red" Yocom, tackle, were standouts in the Indian line that matched the strength of the 'Cats forwards, and Doyle Holstead, third string Indian center, played the entire game as Sammy Moore, No. 1 pivot, was out with an injury, and "Bulldog" Calhoun had left school.

Badgers Tally 20 Points In 4th To Beat Illini, 27-14

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 13 (AP)—Wisconsin, cashing in on a series of recovered fumbles and crucial penalty yardage against Illinois, triphammered three touchdowns in the last quarter today to chill the Illini's homecoming with a 27-14 triumph.

A capacity throng of 71,119, who cheered the 13-point underdog Illini, as quarterback Em Lindbeck and injured J. C. Caroline mustered the team into a 14-7 lead through three periods, sat back in dismay when the collapse came.

Wisconsin, handing Illinois its fifth straight Big Ten defeat, played all but the first five minutes of the game without its star, rushing record holder Alan (The Horse) Ameche. The big fullback, hobbled with a bruised ankle, started the game. He was in for only seven plays, but for the first time in his career, he did not carry the ball.

The Badgers, gaining their fourth conference triumph in six starts, sprung a reserve senior halfback, Bob Gingrass across the goal line three times. He also booted an extra point.

Clarence Bratt, another senior halfback second stringer, scored the final Wisconsin touchdown and also led his team's three touchdown smash in the finale.

Score by quarters:

Wisconsin	0	7	0	20—27
Illinois	0	14	0	0—14

Wisconsin scoring: Touchdowns, Gingrass 3, Bratt. Conversions, Wilson 2, Gingrass.

Illinois scoring: Touchdowns, Woodson, Caroline. Conversions, Wiman 2.

Moegle Stars On Defense As Rice Beats Texas Ags

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Nov. 13 (AP)—A crowd which came to see Dicky Moegle run saw him star on defense instead as Rice bulldogged a wild Texas Aggie team and eked out a 29-19 victory.

Moegle was out of place in a Rice offense which did most of the damage through the air to take the victory after allowing A. and M. to go ahead twice. But he sparked a Rice defense which held the Aggies twice within the Rice 20.

And it was Moegle who smashed over from the Aggie two with seven seconds remaining in the game to give Rice breathing room for the first time in the afternoon.

The predicted duel between Moegle, the leading rusher in the Southwest Conference, and A. and M.'s Elwood Kettler, the total offense leader, failed to come off as Kettler played only half the game and lacked his usual brilliance during that time.

Kettler did score A. and M.'s first touchdown and was the guiding force behind the Aggies' third touchdown drive, but found himself in the shadow of teammates Jack Pardee, Don Kachtik and Don Easley when it came to ground play.

It was a case generally of too much second-half strength by a larger and fresher Rice team that had watched A. and M. come back from 7-0 and 13-7 deficits to tie the game twice in the first half.

The Owls picked up the third period safety and two fourth-period touchdowns to take the game going away.

Score by quarters:

Rice	7	6	2	14—29
Texas A&M	7	6	0	6—19

Rice scoring: Touchdowns, M. Stone, Holland, Hall, Moegle; Conversions, Throckmorton, Hall 2. Safety: Rayburn (blocked punt in third quarter).

A. and M. scoring: Touchdowns, Kettler 2, 4. Robbins; Conversion, Kettler.

Florida Ends Winless Years With Tennessee

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 13 (AP)—Florida broke its long, winless jinx against Tennessee today as substitute quarterback Dick Allen passed for two touchdowns to give the Gators a 14-0 football victory.

The 14 points not only gave Florida its first triumph over Tennessee in 11 games, but also it was the most points the Gators have ever scored on the Vols. The series between the Southeastern Conference rivals date back to 1916.

Allen, 160-pound sophomore from Atlanta, maneuvered the Gators to their first touchdown midway the second period after Ross Winne pounced on fullback Tom Tracy's fumble on the Tennessee 29.

After working the ball down to Tennessee's 9 on four plays, including a 7-yard pass from Allen to halfbacks Don Chandler, Allen hit Chandler on the three and the halfback tepped into the end zone. Allen made the first of two conversions.

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 13 (AP)—Halfback Arthur Davis tonight powered, passed and purloined Mississippi State to a 25-0 football victory over Louisiana State before 20,000 fans.

Third leading ground gainer in the Southeastern Conference, Davis played most of the game, scored all four Mississippi State touchdowns and put on an iron-man exhibition that included setting up most of his own scores.

Davis bucked over a couple of yards for two scores, ran wide six yards for another after putting himself in position by passing 25 yards to Joe Silveri, and finished off an incredible evening by scooting unscathed 34 yards into the end zone with an errant L.S.U. pass.

If L.S.U. was somewhat confused by the audacious Davis, it was completely befuddled and demoralized when quarterback Bobby Collins and Bill Stanton took to the air and gave wing to the vaunted Maroon ground game.

The rugged Mississippi State line, engineered like a massive earth mover by center Hal Easterwood, dug canals in L.S.U.'s lumbering line so Davis and Silveri could come barging through.

The breeze that wafted Mississippi State's passes into the hand of waiting receivers, boded no good for the Tigers as their aerial game never got started.

L.S.U. quarterbacks Al Doggett and Win Turner tried a pass or two when the ground game looked more hopeless than usual, but Mississippi State players twice became unwelcome targets and each time a touchdown was in the making.

Score by quarters:

Mississippi State scoring: Touchdowns, Davis 4. Conversions, Silveri.

All Scoring In 2nd Half As Pitt Defeats Nebraska

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 13 (AP)—Pitt used a dancing 40-yard run by Chuck Cost and a one-handed pass interception and 30-yard return by center Ed Bose today to trim Nebraska 21-7 before 40,000 homecoming fans.

All this was done by the Panthers in the third period—one that ended with Pitt leading 14-7 after Nebraska struck back with a brilliant Willie Greenlaw to Ron Clark pass and run on a scoring play that covered 57 yards.

It was the eighth straight time that Pitt has come to Lincoln and left without tasting defeat. Three of the games were ties.

The downfall of Nebraska began when Pitt plowed a hole in the middle for Cost to slide through. Then Cost coasted goalward, dancing away from three tacklers before being hauled down on the five. Two plays later Bob Grier scored from the three and Ambrose Bagamery converted.

Nebraska went into the air trying to get back into the game for coach Bill Glassford, himself a former Pitt star. But Brose picked off a throw with one hand on the Pitt 40 and went back to the Nebraska 30. Bagamery scored from the three and converted.

Score by quarters:

Pittsburgh	0	0	14	7—21
Nebraska	0	0	7	0—7

Pitt scoring: Touchdowns: Geier, Bagamery, Ballock. Conversion: Bagamery 3.

Nebraska scoring: Touchdown: Clark. Conversion: Smith.

Gophers Defeat Iowa In Hectic Game, 22 To 20

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 13 (AP)—Minnesota turned a goal line Iowa gamble into a game winning safety today in an ironic climax to a 22-20 victory studded with the running heroics of Gopher captain Bob McNamara.

A crowd of 65,429, second highest in Minnesota history watched one of the most gripping struggles in the schools' long and fierce rivalry.

Iowa committed its fatal mistake in the third quarter on the very play which had punctured Minnesota's defense almost without challenge for the first two quarters.

Iowa scoring: Touchdowns, Reichow, Smith, Vincent. Conversions, Freeman 2.

Directors of McGuire Park Golf Club yesterday announced the fourth annual Twin City Open Golf Tournament, scheduled for December 17-18-19 over the West Monroe course, will be presenting some of the nation's finest golfers in addition to the stronger contenders of the past three tournaments.

Already listed as contenders are: Pete Fleming, defending champion from St. Andrews, Ill.; Tommy Bolt, the Houston Tex., hotshot now touring Australian fields; Marty Furgol, Lemont, Ill., with Bolt on the Australia trip; the Hebert brothers, Jay and Lionel, both of Lafayette but playing out of New York; Frank Champ, Louisiana P.G.O. champion of Shreveport; Jimmy McGonagill, Shreveport, recent winner of the Louisiana - Mississippi Open; Harold Williams, Montgomery, Ala. the Alabama P.G.A. champ; Gene Williams, Mississippi's P.G.A. kingpin; Bob Crow, St. Paul Minn.; Pat Abbott, Memphis, Tenn.; Hugh Ardanor, Detroit, Mich; Felix Torza, the national tourney trail contender who went to the finals of the 1953 national P.G.A.; and Johnny Stahl, Vicksburgh, Miss.

A field of at least 100 contenders is expected to vie for the $1,500 in cash awards for professionals, and prizes valued at $500 for amateurs.

For the first time, the tournament committee has set up a special flight for amateurs with a handicap of ten or more to encourage competition of these linksmen.

The McGuire course is in excellent condition and additional improvements should make it even better by tournament time. The greens are considered "the best in the south" at the present, and local players are consistently making the trip in sub par rounds, including such as Johnny Myers, 67; Leonard Warren, 69; Milo Mattinson, 70; Clyde Nash, 71; and Jimmy Green, 72, in the past week.

The tournament committee is composed of Jimmy Green, chairman, Clyde Nash, co-chairman, and Hilton Heard, Ray Buce, Kenneth Holt, Ear' Maxwell, A. C. Williams, E. J. Miller, Ed Pohlman Benny House, John Allen, and L. D. Ritter.

Springhill and Jonesboro-Hodge could upset the rating, however, John McConathy, at Gibsland, is well known for his disregard for rating and although he has an inexperienced team, they might go all the way.

Play in the tourney will begin at 5 p.m. Thursday and run Friday afternoon and night and throughout the day Saturday. M'Mullen May Not See Action In Neville Tilt

The Ouachita Parish High football team, plagued all season by severe injuries to their few returning lettermen, suffered their most severe blow last night when it was revealed that Ike McMullen, star runner and backbone of the Lion offense, will in all probability be unable to see action against Neville High this week.

McMullen was injured late in the second quarter against Bossier City, and removed to a local hospital. Examination late last night disclosed a severe shoulder injury but no break. With his arm in a sling at present, Ike will be unable to practice all week, and should the injury not respond to prescribed heat treatments, his football career for this season is at an end.

Thus McMullen joins the list of the Ouachita injured varsity men, charter members of which are Paul Roye, with a pre-season appendectomy and an injured leg muscle; Dickie Culpepper, with a broken ankle; and J. D. Capps, the latest benched regular, who was out of uniform Friday night with a back injury.

Awesome Auburn Attack Ruins Georgia, 35 To 0

By MERCER BAILEY

COLUMBUS, Ga., Nov. 13 (AP)—An awesome Auburn offense led by Joe Childress and Jim Pyburn crushed Georgia's "Cinderella" team 35-0 today in a crucial Southeastern Conference football game.

The defeat virtually ended Georgia's hopes of winning the SEC title but Auburn emerged from the game as a fine candidate for a New Year's Day bowl trip despite three early season losses.

Auburn scored four of the first five times it got the ball, with Childress, a battering fullback, and speedy halfbacks Dave Middleton and Fob James doing the damage on the ground. Quarterback Bobby Freeman's passes to Pyburn kept Georgia defenses honest.

The Plainsmen built up a 22-0 first half lead and then slacked off.

Pyburn scored two of the Plainsmen touchdowns, one on an 8-yard pass from Freeman and the other on a beautiful 19-yard, end-around play that fooled Georgia completely.

James got two more. He swept 11 yards around end for one and rammed 3 yards through the middle for the other.

The latter was set up by a 30-yard pass from Freeman to Pyburn at the 3.

Childress, who was as valuable as a decoy as a runner, kicked a field goal from the 14 in the final seconds of the first half and booted two conversions.

Late in the fourth quarter, third string fullback Jim Walsh smashed 4 yards for another Auburn touchdown after Jerry Sansom recovered a Charles Harris fumble on the 4.

Georgia's touted "clutch" defense which had served so faithfully all season was unable to contain the power, speed and finesse of this Auburn team which moved almost at will through, around and over the Bulldogs for 300 yards rushing and 99 passing. It was the most yardage Georgia has surrendered this season.

Georgia had only a scoreless tie with Alabama ma[illegible]ng its SEC record prior to this game and had been leading the conference. Now Mississippi can clinch the title by beating Mississippi State Nov. 27.

Auburn's touchdown drives covered 59, 66, 57, 71 and 4 yards.

Auburn	6	16	7	6—35

Auburn scoring: Touchdowns, James 2, Pyburn 2, Walsh. Conversions, Childress 2. Field goal, Childress.

Curtis, Apache Duo Vs. Steddum, Wright Tues.

The pair of fan-favorites, Jack Curtis and Indian Chief Apache, return to Kallio's Arena Tuesday night as a tag team, to take on the villainous team of "Wild Bill" Steddum and Rube Wright, in a feature relay tussle requiring two of three falls to win.

After a parade of various referees over the past few weeks, West Monroe's Bill Barney, whose officiating efficiency is more appreciated when he is absent for a short time, will again take over his familiar duties as third man in the ring.

Curtis and Apache, who won their way into the semi-final and final matches from the wrestle-royal last week, have appeared together previously as a relay team, although Frank Murdock was Wright's partner at that time.

Chief defeated Steddum in the semi-final last Tuesday, and Jack won over Wright in the final but both events were of the highly-exciting type, with the rivalry between Curtis and Steddum continuing full-blast in the "royal."

It was Pat Cronin who sided with Curtis in the last tag wrestle against this villainous pair, and although they won, they were hard-pressed all the way. With the Chief, having a tendency to go berserk against such illegal tactics as Wright and Steddum are noted for, the Curtis team may have even a rougher go of it Tuesday.

Both Steddum and his partner have made themselves immensely unpopular here, not only with their usual hair-pulls and slugs, but with concealed paper rubbing, tape scraping, and gouging, which usually blinds a rival temporarily, enabling the user to apply his pet hold and win the fall.

There should be plenty of excitement this week when they start working on Chief, who doesn't care how he takes his revenge.

Recreation Cage Loops Will Meet Here This Week

The Monroe Recreation department begins planning for the winter basketball campaigns this week with meetings scheduled for five leagues to make arrangements for opening play.

Representatives of the Pee Wee, Midget, and Junior leagues will meet tomorrow night at 6 o'clock at the Monroe Recreation Center to get their business taken care of.

A meeting of the Church League is scheduled for 6:30 o'clock Tuesday night, and a City League meeting will be held Wednesday night at 6:30.

Jack Hesketh, recreation director, said a league for girls will also be organized if enough teams are interested. Three girls' teams already want to play, but at least one more must be secured.

Age limits are: Pee Wees, 12 and under; Midgets, 14 and under; Juniors, 18 and under; other leagues, no age limit.

Longhorn Surge In Last Period Overtakes Frogs

FORT WORTH, Texas., Nov. 13 (AP)—Texas' downtrodden Longhorns fought crippling fumbles and the glittering runs of Ray Taylor and Jim Swink with a second-half comeback that brought them their first victory of the season in the Southwest Conference football race today 35-34 over Texas Christian.

It was an old-fashioned game with five touchdowns being scored on plays of from 56 yards up to 71 as both teams threw defense out of the stadium and concentrated on the home run.

Charley Brewer, the forgotten man of Texas this season as the Longhorns were racked by disciplinary troubles and glaring ineptness, piloted Texas to one of the greatest last-half surges ever seen in the conference.

The winning touchdown came with two minutes and 21 seconds to go and was set up by a T.C.U. fumble. Delano Womack rammed through guard for three yards and the score and ponderous Buck Lansford planted his fifth conversion through the bars—and Texas had finally won one.

Score by quarters:

Texas	0	14	0	21—35
T.C.U.	14	13	0	7—34

Texas scoring: Touchdowns Womack 2, Simcik, Quinn, Brewer Conversions, Lansford 5.

Texas Christian scoring: Touchdowns, Bull, Taylor 2, Swink. Clinkscale. Conversions, Pollard 4.

Ohio State Cops 28-6 Decision Over Purdue

By DALE BURGESS

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Nov. 13 (AP)—Ohio State's Buckeyes nailed down at least a tie for the Big Ten football championship and probably a Rose Bowl trip today in a triumph of brilliant running over Purdue's passing game, 28-6.

The Bucks cut up Purdue with long touchdown runs by halfbacks Bob Watkins and Howard (Hopalong) Cassady and a short plunge by quarterback Dave Leggett before scoring once through the air for variety.

They stopped Purdue three times inside their 11-yard line before allowing the Boilermakers to show on the scoreboard.

Once-beaten Michigan, which plays Ohio State next week, remained in contention for Big Ten honors and the Pasadena trip by beating Michigan State, 33-7.

Watkins scampered 30 yards for Ohio State's first quarter touchdown. Cassady sped 68 yards like a wind-blown, scarlet-and-gray autumn leaf in the second, leaving Purdue tacklers snapping at the turf like frustrated kittens. Thurlow Weed kicked for extra points.

Leggett, a converted fullback, plunged inches for the third Buckeye touchdown in the third quarter at the end of a 75-yard drive. He passed 12 yards to co-capt. Dick Brubaker in the end zone in the final period after Purdue made its only score late in the third. Bill Murakowski got the Boilermaker touchdown on a 9-yard run.

The motoramic Chevrolet for '55

It's the valve-in-head V8 as only the valve-in-head leader can build it!

You'd expect Chevrolet to out-V8 the field—and it has! Chevrolet's new "Turbo-Fire V8" puts a brand-new kind of excitement under your foot. The excitement of 162 horsepower! The excitement of an 8 to 1 ultra-high compression ratio that squeezes more pure fun out of a gallon of gas than you ever dreamed possible! The new "Turbo-Fire V8" is so wonderfully efficient that it requires only four quarts of oil instead of the usual five or more. And it has the shortest piston stroke in the low-price field, for longer engine life. But we can't even begin to give you the whole story here. Come in and let the new "Turbo-Fire V8" speak for itself. You'll like what it has to say!

Two new 6's

With enough new advances to fill a book!

And, like the new "Turbo-Fire V8," both are sparked by a new 12-volt electrical system for finer performance and faster cold-weather starting. All in all, they're the liveliest, smoothest sixes Chevrolet ever put into a passenger car. As you know, that covers a lot of territory. And so will you—with either of these two new sixes!

May's accurate tip-ins and foul shooting accumulated a total of 43 points for the Indians and Floyd took 12 points for second high scorer of the team.

Grayson's boys will play Ogden High at Ogden Tuesday night, and Kelly at Grayson Friday night.

M'Mullen May Not See Action In Neville Tilt

The Ouachita Parish High football team, plagued all season by severe injuries to their few returning lettermen, suffered their most severe blow last night when it was revealed that Ike McMullen, star runner and backbone of the Lion offense, will in all probability be unable to see action against Neville High this week.

McMullen was injured late in the second quarter against Bossier City, and removed to a local hospital. Examination late last night disclosed a severe shoulder injury but no break. With his arm in a sling at present, Ike will be unable to practice all week, and should the injury not respond to prescribed heat treatments, his football career for this season is at an end.

Thus McMullen joins the list of the Ouachita injured varsity men, charter members of which are Paul Roye, with a pre-season appendectomy and an injured leg muscle; Dickie Culpepper, with a broken ankle; and J. D. Capps, the latest benched regular, who was out of uniform Friday night with a back injury.

It's got a "V" in its bonnet—

The motoramic Chevrolet for '55

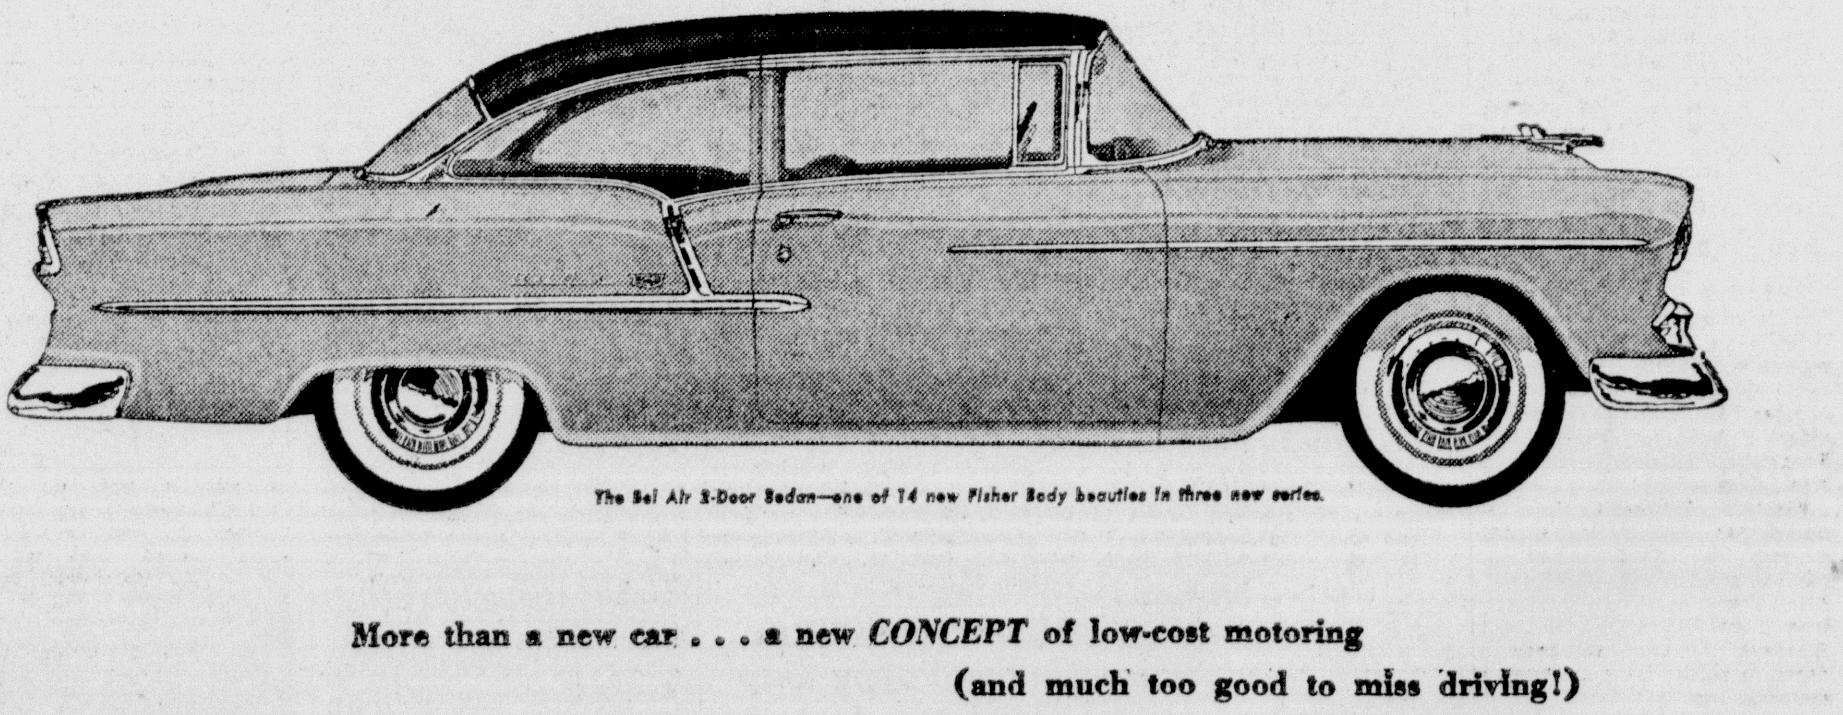
It's the valve-in-head V8 as only the valve-in-head leader can build it!

You'd expect Chevrolet to out-V8 the field—and it has! Chevrolet's new "Turbo-Fire V8" puts a brand-new kind of excitement under your foot. The excitement of 162 horsepower! The excitement of an 8 to 1 ultra-high compression ratio that squeezes more pure fun out of a gallon of gas than you ever dreamed possible! The new "Turbo-Fire V8" is so wonderfully efficient that it requires only four quarts of oil instead of the usual five or more. And it has the shortest piston stroke in the low-price field, for longer engine life. But we can't even begin to give you the whole story here. Come in and let the new "Turbo-Fire V8" speak for itself. You'll like what it has to say!

Two new 6's 6

With enough new advances to fill a book!

Chevrolet offers two new highstepping sixes for 1955! There's the new "Blue-Flame 136" (teamed with Powerglide as an extra-cost option) and the new "Blue-Flame 123." Both bring you new, higher-rated power—the zippy, thrifty high-compression kind. Both have new, more efficient cooling and lubrication systems . . . new engine mounts that result in almost unbelievable smoothness. And, like the new "Turbo-Fire V8," both are sparked by a new 12-volt electrical system for finer performance and faster cold-weather starting. All in all, they're the liveliest, smoothest sixes Chevrolet ever put into a passenger car. As you know, that covers a lot of territory. And so will you—with either of these two new sixes!



The Bel Air 2-Door Sedan—one of 14 new Fisher Body beauties in three new series.

More than a new car . . . a new CONCEPT of low-cost motoring

Attorney Asserts Cities Have Power To Make Probes

BATON ROUGE, Nov. 13 (AP) — New Orleans city attorney Henry Curtis told the Louisiana City Attorneys Association today that courts have held time and again that municipalities can conduct investigations and assume powers of subpoena.

Discussing the recent New Orleans police investigation by a special citizens committee, now subjected to a test suit before the state Supreme Court, Curtis said the case hinges on whether the committee had power to swear in witnesses.

The New Orleans case involves policeman, Clifford Reuther, charged with perjury before the citizens committee.

If the committee did not have power to administer the oath, Curtis said, "then Reuther could not have been guilty of perjury, although he may have testified falsely before the committee."

"The power to legislate," Curtis said, "carries with it the power to investigate matters pertinent to the proposed legislation because it is fundamental that if a council or other municipal legislative body is to legislate wisely, it must have this power of investigation."

He cited decisions where the courts held that cities can delegate investigative power to a special board or committee without infringing on judicial perogatives.

Two Air Force Instructors Die In Plane Crash

COLUMBUS, Miss., Nov. 13 (AP)— A light training plane crashed into a wooded area near Longview and burst into flames, killing the two Air Force instructors from Mississippi State College.

Col. E. B. Barnham, commanding officer of the Columbus Air Force Base, said today the plane crashed about 35 miles west of here in Oktibbeha County yesterday.

He identified the two officers as: Capt. William B. Lassiter, a 1937 graduate of the University of Mississippi and a native of Hattiesburg.

1st Lt. Edwin S. Ellis, 26, a 1950 graduate of Mississippi State College and a native of Lexington.

He said both men were assigned to the 425th Air Force ROTC unit at the college but were temporarily sent to the Columbus base for flying training. Both lived in Starkville.

The colonel said at the time of the crash, Mrs. Ellis was in Memphis, Tenn., recuperating from a recent childbirth.

Norma Fitch Is Baptist Academy Honor Student

According to information received here, Norma Gayle Fitch, 18, whose residence is Bunkie La., has attained honor roll status in her first year at the Baptist Academy in Acadia, La.

Miss Fitch, an eleventh grader, is attending the academy in her efforts to become a foreign missionary. She decided on her work in the mission field just two years ago while a student at Bunkie High School.

Working her during the past summer while staying with her sister, Mrs. Julius E. Gates, of Route 4, Monroe, Miss Fitch acquired quite a few friends in the vicinity.

There are two churches in the area of Bunkie, in one of which she was a very active member, which are aiding Miss Fitch in her endeavors to prepare for the foreign mission work.

Rev. Fletcher of Acadia Academy, chose the young lady for study there, due to her past scholastic record and her desire to continue her life's work in a true Christian atmosphere.

She states that if a preferance is to be had in being sent to a foreign nation, China would be top on the list.

BATON ROUGE, Nov. 13 (AP) — New Orleans city attorney Henry Curtis told the Louisiana City Attorneys Association today that courts have held time and again that municipalities can conduct investigations and assume powers of subpoena.

He cited decisions where the courts held that cities can delegate investigative power to a special board or committee without infringing on judicial perogatives.

She states that if a preferance is to be had in being sent to a foreign nation, China would be top on the list.

Bland-Elizardi Wedding Is Solemnized In Houston

Miss Betty Pace Elizardi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Woods Elizardi, Jr., of Houston, Tex., became the bride of Robert Faulk Bland, son of Mrs. Archie B. Bland and the late Dr. Archie B. Bland of New Orleans, Monday evening, November 8, at eight-thirty o'clock in the Palmer Memorial Episcopal Church in Houston.

The church was beautifully decorated with yellow chrysanthemums, gladiolas and roses interspersed with greenery.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was wearing an original gown of silk taffeta which featured an heirloom rosepoint lace fischu, re-embroidered in seed pearls and irridescent sequins. The long taffeta sleeves ended in points over the hands. Her bouffant skirt of unpressed pleats on each side was worn over hoops and crinolines and swept into a cathedral train. The veil of illusion and heirloom lace fell the length of the train. She carried a cascade bouquet of white orchids, lilies of the valley and stephanotis.

Mrs. Edward Watson Kelley, Jr., sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. Her gown was a maple silk taffeta floor length model worn over crinolines. She wore a fischu around her shoulders and a shell - shaped hat of matching taffeta cord with a nose veil and short white gloves. Her bouquet was a crescent - shaped arrangement of Thanksgiving pink chrysanthemums with green foliage and matching satin ribbons.

Bridesmaids were: Mrs. L. Cletus Brown, Miss Martha McRae, Mrs. James A. Reichert, Mrs. Ralph S. O'Connor; Mrs. Bruce Barnett, Mrs. Archibald H. Rowan, Mrs. John E. Burkhart III, Miss Elizabeth Louise Bland, sister of the bridegroom. Their gowns were fashioned identical to the honor attendant's.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Elizardi chose an original gown of cafe au lait silk chantilly lace over camellia pink Italian silk satin. The sheath dress featured camellia - pink panels in the back which fell into a short train. Her hat was of brown irridescent sequins. She wore long white gloves and a corsage of cymbidium orchids.

Mrs. Bland was becomingly attired in a gown of ice blue slipper satin. The bodice featured diagonal folds of matching material with a fischu forming the neckline. Inverted pleats formed a slight train in the back. Her hat, which matched the dress, was designed as a corded band trimmed in a leaf motif. She also wore a corsage of orchids and long white gloves.

Archie B. Bland, Jr., brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Groomsmen were Charles E. Dunbar III, Herbert W. Van Horn, Jr., John B. Smallpage, Jr., Richard W. Fox, J. Hubert Walker, Richard A. Hackett, John Devlin, all of New Orleans and Dr. Flood Garrett of Monroe.

Rayville Couple Pledge Vows In Church Ceremony

Of wide interest throughout this section was the nuptial ceremony last Saturday evening uniting Miss Bettie Jo Jones, daughter of Mrs. Fred W. Jones, of Rayville, and the late Mr. Jones, and Mr. George Bibb Franklin, Jr., son of Mrs. George B. Franklin Sr. and the late Mr. Franklin. The young couple spoke their vows at the First Baptist Church in Rayville, at seven o'clock in the evening of November 6. Dr. H. R. Herrington, pastor, performed the double ring ceremony.

A program of nuptial selections was rendered by Mr. Raymond Bolton at the organ, who also accompanied Miss Sally Ann Taylor as she sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer," and Mr. Sellers Aycock, Jr., as he sang "O Promise Me."

Forming an impressive background for the bridal scene were steps of banked fern and masses of white chrysanthemums, outlined by a myriad of cathedral tapers in branched floor standards of wrought iron. Pew markers of white gladioli and fern, caught by white satin ribbons, lined the bridal aisle.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Fred W. Jones, Jr., was lovely in a traditional bridal white. Her gown was fashioned with a close-fitting bodice of Chantilly lace with maline yoke and collar of lace edged in seed pearls, which also trimmed the fingertip veil of maline, cascading from a Juliet cap studded with pearls.

Her bridal bouquet was a white orchid surrounded by lilies of the valley.

All the feminine attendants were also gowned in white. Matron-of-honor was Mrs. Fred W. Jones, Jr., whose gown was fashioned with a Chantilly lace bodice and sweetheart neckline. It featured a bouffant skirt of satin and net. Her Juliet cap was outlined in seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of shattered bronze mums with matching streamers.

The bridesmaids were Miss Dorthy Welch, Miss Joyce Golson, Mrs. James Aycock and Miss Joyce Ann Jones, who all wore gowns identical to that of the matron of honor. Each of the bridesmaids carried bouquets of yellow shattered mums.

The flower girls were Paula Buie and Ann Hubbard, who wore floor - length gowns of white maline over hoops with lace bodices. They carried baskets of rosebuds. Seed pearls formed their Juliet caps.

The ring-bearer was Harvis Pullig.

Mr. Warren Hunt, III served the bridegroom as best man, with Mr. W. H. Hubbard, Mr. H. A. Buie, Jr., Mr. William Calhoun, III, and Mr. James C. Sartor serving as groomsmen.

Mr. Hollis Venable and Mr. Fred Huenefield, Jr., were ushers.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlors, where the bridal couple with members of the wedding party and both mothers received guests.

Mrs. Jones chose a becoming formal gown of soft blue silk for her daughter's wedding. She wore an orchid corsage. Mrs. Franklin wore a mauve silk gown, complemented by a specimen orchid at her shoulder.

Centering the room was the reception table, overlaid with a white cut-work cloth. Forming the centerpiece was a graceful arrangement of fern, flanked by candles and silver candelabra, silver trays of confections completed the arrangement.

The three - tiered wedding cake was served from a table overlaid with scalloped damask, and adorned with a beautiful arrangement of white chrysanthemums.

The refreshment table, overlaid with yellow cloth patterned in silver, had a decor of blue flowers. The three-tiered birthday cake was iced in yellow and topped with a colonial doll, whose bouffant skirt was of confectioned design. Warren Harker Talks To Pierian Club House plants were represented to the Pierian Club as having personalities. In a clever talk at the Oak Ridge Community Center on Tuesday, Warren L. Harker of Monroe proved his point by telling varied requirements in light, heat, moisture, food and rest of the favorite house plants.

Mr. Harker assembled a flower and fruit arrangement for a buffet at Thanksgiving. As an appropriate tribute to Mother, he provided a corsage to be worn at the feast. Other bowls of chrysanthemums and dried arrangements beautified the hall.

During the business session, Mrs. J. P. Causey, president, reported the meeting of the Community Council.

Mrs. Edwin Conger led the pledge of allegiance and Mrs. C. G. Rolfe led the club ritual.

Adjustments were made in the chairmen of departments and divisions to fit the General Federation organization. They are departments: Communications, Mrs. A. B. Conger; Community Affairs, Mrs. C. N. McDuffie; Conservation of Natural Resources, Mrs. Elmer McLendon; Education, Mrs. C. E. Sheppard; Fine Arts, Mrs. W. S. White and Mrs. T. L. Smith; Home, Mrs. R. C. Mrs. Swetman read a letter from the Red Cross secretary regarding Christmas packages for men in the service and overseas. The club had voted at a previous meeting to give one box. Mrs. Jim Shamblin volunteered to serve as chairman of this committee.

After the business session, Miss Robbie Binion gave a brief review of parlamentary procedure pertaining to motions which might be made in our club. Then Mrs. Shamblin, gave an interesting program on "Television and Children."

Mrs. Wright Lectures To Garden Clubs

FERRIDAY — Mrs. LaMonte Wright of Ruston gave a demonstration and lecture on Christmas decorations at the Newellton High School in Newellton Friday afternoon. A large crowd from this area attended.

The program was sponsored by the Newellton Garden Club. Mrs. Wright, who is a national accredited flower show judge, and her experience as a judge has been quite full and varied, gave a most interesting lecture and demonstration, showing the advantage of twenty years experience in landscaping, drawing, and executing plans which have included home grounds, public parks, churches schools and federal buildings.

Mrs. Wright has been lecturing and teaching classes in flower arrangements for several years, but she told her listeners that her preference was working with arrangements for the home, the church and holiday decorations, such as she demonstrated to the club here.

Be fussy about your bread box! Occasionally wash it thoroughly with hot sudsy water; rinse with boiling water, dry well with a towel, then if possible air it in the sunshine.

Gardeners To Erect Home In St. Louis, Mo.

ALEXANDRIA, La. — Louisiana Garden Club Federation will have its share in celebrating the 25th anniversary of National Council of State Garden Clubs, Inc.

According to Mrs. Homer H. Harris, state president, the Louisiana federation was among the first to contribute to a permanent home, to be built in St. Louis in commemoration of national council founders. In addition it is expected that members of the 170 federated garden clubs throughout the state will contribute individually.

The memorial building will be constructed on a six - acre, gift plot in Shaw's Botanical Gardens. The structure not only will be a tribute to each garden clubber in America but will be a pledge of faith in future gardeners.

Voluntary Gifts

Mrs. Harris, who recently attended meetings of national officers and state presidents in St. Louis and Denver, said that the building will be erected by voluntary contribution of clubs, unit members and friends from all over America.

Checks may be made payable to Permanent Home Fund, National Council of State Garden Clubs Inc. and sent to Mrs. Zollie Meadows, state chairman of permanent home fund, 500 North Bonner street in Ruston.

Because there is no other organization so dedicated to the principle of home and garden, and because gardeners themselves are homemakers and homeowners, said Mrs. Harris, it is believed that every garden clubber will want to have a real part in financing this home — at least to the extent of a "foundation brick" at the cost of one dollar.

Design of Building

The building will be classic in design, functional in construction and capable of expansion. It has been planned wisely in that its facade will be magnificent, a monument to many generations, and will contain at present offices for work and records, small assembly room, junior workshop, basement for many uses, patio for small and large outdoor assemblies and eventually the finest horticultural library in the nation.

Among other noteworthy projects of the national council during its 25 years history are: preservation of a great redwood forest now dedicated as a national park; $50,000 for "seeds for peace"; $20,000 for garden equipment sent to post-war Europe, and the national network of blue star memorial parks built along highways in honor of World War heroes and as rest and recreational places for travelers.

Two From NLSC At Meeting Of Economics Group

Carol May, president of the Northeast State Home Economics Club, and Miss Robbie Lee Coxe, instructor and sponsor of the group, represented the college at an executive council meeting of the Louisiana Home Economics Club held recently at Louisiana College.

The group planned the program to emphasize the theme, "Around the Betty Lamp," for the state convention to be held March 18-19 at Northwestern State, Natchitoches.

Miss May also represents Northeast as state parliamentarian for the current year.

Phases of the proposed program and the college which will be in charge of each feature include: registration, Northwestern State; display committee, Southwestern; badges, Louisiana Tech; entertainment, McNeese State; group meetings, Northwestern State; songs and relaxers, Northeast State; newsletter, Louisiana State University; evaluation committee, Southeastern.

A committee was appointed by the council to attend the Louisiana Home Economics Association convention in Shreveport. The group comprises: Louisiana Tech, Northwestern State, McNeese State, Louisiana College and Southwestern.

Gardeners To Erect Home In St. Louis, Mo.

ALEXANDRIA, La. — Louisiana Garden Club Federation will have its share in celebrating the 25th anniversary of National Council of State Garden Clubs, Inc.

According to Mrs. Homer H. Harris, state president, the Louisiana federation was among the first to contribute to a permanent home, to be built in St. Louis in commemoration of national council founders. In addition it is expected that members of the 170 federated garden clubs throughout the state will contribute individually.

The memorial building will be constructed on a six - acre, gift plot in Shaw's Botanical Gardens. The structure not only will be a tribute to each garden clubber in America but will be a pledge of faith in future gardeners.

Voluntary Gifts

Mrs. Harris, who recently attended meetings of national officers and state presidents in St. Louis and Denver, said that the building will be erected by voluntary contribution of clubs, unit members and friends from all over America.

Checks may be made payable to Permanent Home Fund, National Council of State Garden Clubs Inc. and sent to Mrs. Zollie Meadows, state chairman of permanent home fund, 500 North Bonner street in Ruston.

Because there is no other organization so dedicated to the principle of home and garden, and because gardeners themselves are homemakers and homeowners, said Mrs. Harris, it is believed that every garden clubber will want to have a real part in financing this home — at least to the extent of a "foundation brick" at the cost of one dollar.

Design of Building

The building will be classic in design, functional in construction and capable of expansion. It has been planned wisely in that its facade will be magnificent, a monument to many generations, and will contain at present offices for work and records, small assembly room, junior workshop, basement for many uses, patio for small and large outdoor assemblies and eventually the finest horticultural library in the nation.

Among other noteworthy projects of the national council during its 25 years history are: preservation of a great redwood forest now dedicated as a national park; $50,000 for "seeds for peace"; $20,000 for garden equipment sent to post-war Europe, and the national network of blue star memorial parks built along highways in honor of World War heroes and as rest and recreational places for travelers.

Cook bacon at low temperatures so fat you pour off will be white and fresh tasting. Use the bacon fat when you are frying chicken, fish or potatoes; it gives fine flavor.

A committee was appointed by the council to attend the Louisiana Home Economics Association convention in Shreveport. The group comprises: Louisiana Tech, Northwestern State, McNeese State, Louisiana College and Southwestern.

Getting Ready For Thanksgiving

Council Meeting, November 20th.

The best club of 1954 will be announced at our next council meeting November 20th. It may be yours, so be here. New officers will be installed—both old and new officers are urged to be present.

Plans for 10 and 25 Year Club Christmas Party

The committee which is to plan the 10 and 25 year Christmas party is asked by the chairman, Mrs. L. J. Bower, to meet at 2:30 p.m., November 19th at the Agricultural Building. Mrs. Bowers urges members of this committee to bring ideas and suggestions to this meeting. Other members of this committee are: Mrs. Neal McHenry, Mrs. Gertie Landrum, Mrs. Will Davis, Mrs. A. T. Stout, Mrs. W. J. Lowe, president of the 25 year club, and Mrs. Eunice Griggs, president of the 10 year club.

Turkey for Thanksgiving

Turkey for Thanksgiving is a tradition for us handed down by our Pilgrim Fathers. But the bird that greeted these Pilgrims is far from the bird which will be on our Thanksgiving dinner tables. Scientific breeding has given us smaller, plumper birds with larger breasts spans or more white meat. Improved processing and marketing, too, have had their parts to play in giving us turkeys of the best qualities. Housewives should become familiar with common marketing terms, as ready-to-cook turkeys and dressed turkeys. Ninety per cent of the holiday turkeys this season will be ready-to-cook turkeys. Ready-to-cook, also, called eviscerated or oven-ready are turkeys which are drawn with all inedible parts removed. Most frozen turkeys are sold this way. A special advantage of the ready-to-cook bird is that it is the only style that can be labeled with government inspection and grade marks.

Dressed turkey, also called New York or market dressed, are cleaned and feathers removed, but the bird is not drawn. They are usually priced lower per pound than ready-to-cook birds but there is greater waste.

Today's market also offers half or quarter of a turkey, answering the needs of smaller families. Turkey specialties are also on the market but prices of these are higher per pound because of labor cost, but there is no waste as specialties have bones removed.

The size or amount to buy is usually determined by the number of servings needed. A reliable estimate is one-half pound raw, ready-to-cook turkey per serving—thus an eight to ten pound turkey will give from sixteen to twenty servings or a small five to six pound turkey would be just right for a family of four with allowance for a second helping—and a little for left overs.

Frozen turkeys should be purchased a few days in advance. Safest method of thawing is to leave the bird in its original wrappings for two or three days in the refrigerator.

When bird is stuffed and trussed, grease it with melted fat. Place it on rack in shallow roasting pan. When roasting a whole turkey, a moderate temperature is recommended to prevent shrinkage and loss of juices. For the eight to ten pound ready-to-cook turkey, have oven temperature 325 degrees and roast from 4 to 4½ hours or until drumstick can be moved easily up and down and the meat of the thickest part of the drumstick is soft to touch. The five to six pound bird will require only 3 to 3¾ hours roasting at 325 degrees. Using a meat thermometer will take the guess out of turkey roasting. Insert the thermometer between the first and second ribs and directed toward the center of the stuffing. Bake until internal temperature registers 165 degrees.

Girl Scout News

What could be nicer during this pretty fall weather than a trip to camp? Girls and adults who went to Pine Wood for the work and play day on the 6th enjoyed just being in the out of doors on such a wonderful day.

Gathered around the flag pole at ten o'clock, the girls participated in a flag ceremony and received directions for the jobs for camp improvement. Mary Martin and Sue Norris of Troop 31 got the coveted job of sweeping pine needles off the roof because last year they had proved sure-footed enough for the task.

Divided into patrols made up of girls from different troops, and with a leader to direct, the girls raked leaves and pine needles from close to the buildings as fire protection, washed windows, wrapped faucets for winter protection, dug a drain from one faucet and filled it with rocks, made a new campfire circle, and scraped rust and painted fence posts with green paint that Mr. Weldon Bates gave for the purpose.

When the signal was given to stop work at noon, the campsite showed that it had had a face lifting.

The girls were ready for the nosebag lunches they had brought from home and enjoyed hot cocoa made by one of the patrols. Before they could eat, many of the girls had to have green freckles wiped off with turpentine, as well as green hands and an occasional lock of hair.

The afternoon was more or less as-you please for the girls. In groups with leaders they walked to the river or tried the grapevine swings that the day campers discovered, or just enjoyed the fun and freedom of being out of doors.

A closing flag ceremony marked the end of the day's activities for 75 girls and adults who took part. Troop 15, Brownie Scouts of St. Pascal's School, were there for the day, in addition to the intermediates who did the camp improvement.

Troop 31, with Mrs. Harry Martin, Mrs. Leo Ragland, and Mrs. Steve Menuet as leaders spent a night at Pine Wood not long ago, during the usual cooking, kapers, and hiking, and enjoying square dancing for their evening's entertainment.

The following girls, some of them fly-ups who had not been camping before, enjoyed the experience: Eileen Ammons, Jocelyn Brady, Mary Sue Barnes, Karen Brady, Virginia Feeback, Harriet Hays, Shirley Jollissaint, Nell Laws, Karen Laws, Carolyn Laws, Eileen Le Blanc, Rosary LeMoine, Ann McCarty, Nancy Martin, Mary Martin, Stevie Menuet, Sue Norris, Sandra Peters, Ann Ragland, Mary Sandlin, and Linda Williams.

Don't forget to see the Loretta Young show tonight. It's a Girl Scout story.

Riverside Hospital Leased For Use As Convalescent Home

The Riverside General Hospital, closed here for about three months, will re-open December 1 as a licensed convalescent home, it was learned Saturday.

A. C. Houston, supervisor of the convalescent home, said it will operate under the name of Riverside Convalescent Home, and will be able to take about 70 patients at the beginning.

Houston said the home would care for the handicapped and aged and trained nurses would be on duty at all times. Reservations for the home are already being taken, he said.

The hospital was leased on Nov. 10 from Dr. A. Dent Tisdale for a five-year period, with rent for the building at $400 per month.

Girl Scout News

What could be nicer during this pretty fall weather than a trip to camp? Girls and adults who went to Pine Wood for the work and play day on the 6th enjoyed just being in the out of doors on such a wonderful day.

Gathered around the flag pole at ten o'clock, the girls participated in a flag ceremony and received directions for the jobs for camp improvement. Mary Martin and Sue Norris of Troop 31 got the coveted job of sweeping pine needles off the roof because last year they had proved sure-footed enough for the task.

Divided into patrols made up of girls from different troops, and with a leader to direct, the girls raked leaves and pine needles from close to the buildings as fire protection, washed windows, wrapped faucets for winter protection, dug a drain from one faucet and filled it with rocks, made a new campfire circle, and scraped rust and painted fence posts with green paint that Mr. Weldon Bates gave for the purpose.

When the signal was given to stop work at noon, the campsite showed that it had had a face lifting.

The girls were ready for the nosebag lunches they had brought from home and enjoyed hot cocoa made by one of the patrols. Before they could eat, many of the girls had to have green freckles wiped off with turpentine, as well as green hands and an occasional lock of hair.

The afternoon was more or less as-you please for the girls. In groups with leaders they walked to the river or tried the grapevine swings that the day campers discovered, or just enjoyed the fun and freedom of being out of doors.

A closing flag ceremony marked the end of the day's activities for 75 girls and adults who took part. Troop 15, Brownie Scouts of St. Pascal's School, were there for the day, in addition to the intermediates who did the camp improvement.

Troop 31, with Mrs. Harry Martin, Mrs. Leo Ragland, and Mrs. Steve Menuet as leaders spent a night at Pine Wood not long ago, during the usual cooking, kapers, and hiking, and enjoying square dancing for their evening's entertainment.

The following girls, some of them fly-ups who had not been camping before, enjoyed the experience: Eileen Ammons, Jocelyn Brady, Mary Sue Barnes, Karen Brady, Virginia Feeback, Harriet Hays, Shirley Jolissaint, Nell Laws, Karen Laws, Carolyn Laws, Eileen Le Blanc, Rosary LeMoine, Ann McCarty, Nancy Martin, Mary Martin, Stevie Menuet, Sue Norris, Sandra Peters, Ann Ragland, Mary Sandlin, and Linda Williams.

Don't forget to see the Loretta Young show tonight. It's a Girl Scout story.

REV. W. D. MILTON

Revival Will Be Conducted By Rev. Milton

A series of revival meetings at which Rev. W. D. Milton, pastor of the First Methodist Church in West Monroe, will deliver the sermons, will get under way at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at the Southside Methodist Church, 1623 South Fourth, it was announced by Rev. Lea Joyner, church pastor.

The meetings will be held every evening, Sunday through Friday.

Rev. Milton, who is well known as a result of his work in many parts of the conference, is district director of evangelism.

An invitation to the general public to attend the services has been extended by Rev. Joyner, who is urgng each church member to bring a friend to hear the inspiring sermons.

Parish Family Week To Be In Progress Here

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. J. C. Marsh, V. F., pastor of St. Matthew's Church and dean of the Monroe deanery, announces that a "Parish Family Week" will begin at St. Matthew's Church from November 14th till November 21st inclusive. Services each night will begin at 7:30 p.m. The guest speaker for the occasion will be Father Wilbert, O. F. M., a Franciscan Father from St. Louis Province headquarters.

Father Wilbert's sermons on "Married Happiness" are masterful, effective and dynamic. The purpose of Parish Family Week:

1) The Family Today — Tear away the supernatural and you have left, the unnatural. Hence, divorce, multiple marriages and irreverance.

2) Love and Sex — Confused notions on love result in ill-advised marriages and frequent friction in marriage.

3) Hindrances to Happiness — In outlook and in motive the married partner often has but one viewpoint: his own. This creates misunderstanding and bitterness.

4) It Can't Be Right — Sexual pleasure without its responsibilities shatters God's plan. Such conduct causes anxieties and the loss of God.

5) They're Yours — Too great eagerness of parents to hand over children to others for training is wrong in principle and dangerous in practice.

6) A Modern Need — The child is from God and for God. To miss purpose is conducive to harmful child-training.

7. (God is Forgotten — No high morality and unvarying standards are possible without God. Without religion family life decays.

Topics discussed in Parish Family Week by Father Wilbert are:

1) The Divine Design — As God's work and not man's, marriage must be regarded and reverenced as a sacred calling.

2) Love in Marriage — Conjugal love is human and sacred. It involves not sex only, but two sanctified human persons: flesh and spirit.

3) Your Partner is Different—A better knowledge of the partner's characteristics plus self-sacrifice strengthen married love.

4) It Must Be Right — Marriage symbolizes the union of Christ and His church. Such sacredness is preserved only when marriage is God directed.

5) Parents Are Important—Parents are irreplacable. Other agencies may supplement, but never supplant parental care.

5) Parents Are Teachers — Equipped by nature and grace, parents can provide prudent, moderate and consistent child-braining.

7) Models for All — In the Holy Family God provides the ideal Catholic family, living and exalts the state of matrimony.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. J. C. Marsh, V. F., pastor of St. Matthew's and dean of the Monroe deanery, and the Rev. Father George Martinez, pastor of Our Lady of Fatima Church, wish to thank the public for their part in making this year's bazaar a huge success, which was sponsored by both parishes.

Besides the dinners and suppers, the committees decorated the gymn, with a fish pond, kiddie corner, cold drinks, hamburger and hot dog stands, book stand, Christmas card stand, subscription for the New Alexandria Register, fancy work, home made candy, cake and coffee stand and many games for the children.

The men's choir of the Southside Methodist Church will be heard on radio station KNOE on Sunday evening at 9:30 p.m. They will appear on the program of evening meditation which is conducted by Dr. Ernest Duncan Holloway. Dr. Holloway presents a message of spiritual meditation each Sunday evening at this time and through his effort has given aid and comfort to many.

The Men's choir of the Southside Church officiates at their Sunday evening services and though only a few months old, is rendering a great service in the growth of this new church.

Cen. Baptists To Close Revival Sunday Night

Revival services at the Central Baptist Church will come to a close tonight. During this past week Rev. E. V. Appling, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Haynesville has conducted a successful revival meeting with great interest and a good response. Each night he has delivered soul - stirring gospel messages that have gripped the hearts of the people. On Sunday morning he will speak on the subject, "Things That Abide" and in the closing service on Sunday night he will preach on the subject, "All Dressed Up and Nowhere to Go."

The music program of the revival has also been great. Wayne Buck, music director at College Place Baptist Church has been leading the singing with the support of the combined choirs of the Central Church. Mr. Buck sang a number of vocal solos during the meeting and also rendered several numbers on his saxophone.

Parish Family Week To Be In Progress Here

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. J. C. Marsh, V. F., pastor of St. Matthew's Church and dean of the Monroe deanery, announces that a "Parish Family Week" will begin at St. Matthew's Church from November 14th till November 21st inclusive. Services each night will begin at 7:30 p.m. The guest speaker for the occasion will be Father Wilbert, O. F. M., a Franciscan Father from St. Louis Province headquarters.

Father Wilbert's sermons on "Married Happiness" are masterful, effective and dynamic. The purpose of Parish Family Week:

1) The Family Today — Tear away the supernatural and you have left, the unnatural. Hence, divorce, multiple marriages and irreverance.

2) Love and Sex — Confused notions on love result in ill-advised marriages and frequent friction in marriage.

3) Hindrances to Happiness — In outlook and in motive the married partner often has but one viewpoint: his own. This creates misunderstanding and bitterness.

4) It Can't Be Right — Sexual pleasure without its responsibilities shatters God's plan. Such conduct causes anxieties and the loss of God.

5) They're Yours — Too great eagerness of parents to hand over children to others for training is wrong in principle and dangerous in practice.

6) A Modern Need — The child is from God and for God. To miss purpose is conducive to harmful child-training.

7. (God is Forgotten — No high morality and unvarying standards are possible without God. Without religion family life decays.

Topics discussed in Parish Family Week by Father Wilbert are:

1) The Divine Design — As God's work and not man's, marriage must be regarded and reverenced as a sacred calling.

2) Love in Marriage — Conjugal love is human and sacred. It involves not sex only, but two sanctified human persons: flesh and spirit.

3) Your Partner Is Different—A better knowledge of the partner's characteristics plus self-sacrifice strengthen married love.

4) It Must Be Right — Marriage symbolizes the union of Christ and His church. Such sacredness is preserved only when marriage is God directed.

5) Parents Are Important—Parents are irreplacable. Other agencies may supplement, but never supplant parental care.

5) Parents Are Teachers — Equipped by nature and grace, parents can provide prudent, moderate and consistent child-braining.

7) Models for All — In the Holy Family God provides the ideal Catholic family, living and exalts the state of matrimony.

Many, many thanks go also to the many merchants of the Twin Cities for their generosity in giving donations to these different booths, in order to make money for worthy causes of the two Catholic Churches in Monroe stated Msgr. Marsh.

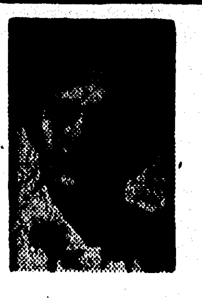
Compost Is Vital In All Plant Life



Does a plant ever out grow its need for humus? No—because humus does so many things for the soil. There are so many "creatures," like the earthworm, (and others not visible) that constantly need to be replenished. Humus has these creatures. That's why we Extension people talk so long and loud about the compost heap and about mulch around plants. Plants use the humus all the time, so there's never a time we can relax on that garden chore. Compost is a better form of humus, especially for poor soils. However, mulches around plants and in the shrubbery beds will decay and that's what humus is, decayed vegetation. In decaying, however, nitrogen is used from the soil. So it is important to add an extra amount of this nitrogen sometime during the growing season. Woods earth is a fine form of humus, but there's so little available.

Once you've decided to have a garden, first turn the soil over where you plan to plant. Loosen the earth well and add your humus. At that time it's a good idea to add one-half cup of 5-10-5 or 8-8-8 to each ten square feet of space. Work this in well. Then wait at least three weeks after several rains before planting. Maybe you've planted but never followed the above recommendations. For general and long time well being of your plants, it's a fine idea to go about the job in the right way.

Landscape Design

Mr. J. Duke Moody, from Memphis, was the speaker at the Monroe Garden Club Monday. I thought you'd like to know some of the fine things he said. I quote in part, "Our gardens today are for use, not just showy flower gardens as in past years. We want a feeling of tranquillity, peace and an atmosphere of relaxation. One basic need of this garden is enclosure. You'd never think of building a house without walls. Just so the garden needs privacy. The garden needs divisions just as the house is separated into different areas. These areas differ with individual families but they usually run thus — living, cooking, play, and service. (He dwelt long on screening off the garbage can, clothes line and necessary debris.)

"The terrace is a necessity since houses are getting smaller and more compact and the walls are not elastic. There needs to be a place close to the living room so living can spill out on to this area. Also the terrace should be close to the kitchen — if this is possible. This living area should be twice the size of the living room. Most home owners construct terraces too small for use.

"The service area should be placed where it is needed. Also, walks need to be placed where walking is done or else you'll have bare places in the lawn. Drive ways and garages no longer need to be placed away from the house at the back of the lot. Place them for convenience.

"Now, after the areas are located, the actual decoration can be decided on. Occult balance is better in landscaping than symmetrical balance. (Symmetrical balance is achieved by putting two plants exactly alike for balance. Occult balance uses maybe a group of small shrubs to balance one large one. Mr. Moody didn't say this in parenthesis. That's a la Swift.)

"There's no need to build a beautiful garden unless you're going to keep it. Labor is a problem now so a labor saving plan is needed. If you use curves make them long and easy like a Strauss waltz—not like boogie woogie. All respectable houses have foundations so there's no need to hide them."

Apologies to Mr. Moody, if I misinterpreted his ideas at any point. Quoting radio, "The opinions broadcast were those of the speaker and not necessarily those of the station." (me).

Another Good Year

For those who like to eat — and who doesn't — there's good news from the economists. 1955 will be another good year with probably record supplies of food and with consumers generally able to spend a considerable part of their income to buy it. Prices are expected to be about the same as in 1954. We'll be eating more eggs at popular prices, more chicken, beef, pork (at lower price) frozen fruits and vegetables, oranges and rice. But—we'll be eating less per person of turkey, potatoes, grapefruit, canned fruits and vegetables and sweet potatoes.

Around Town

Mrs. Louis Milner, Jr., 2764 Point Drive, will give shasta daisies to anybody who'll come by and pick them up. This is a good time to plant them.

The last of the slip cover shows will be given on KNOE-TV Tuesday at 2:30. We'll review all previous steps, show you how to cover the cushion, and we'll see how the finished cover will look. And — we'll take the pinned cover off the chair showing you how we pinned the pieces together and not to the chair.

And — I'd better get out of here before I use all the space—see you next Sunday.

Garden Center Notes

By Mary M. Jardine

Ceramics Display Attracts Many To Center

The ceramics display at the Garden Center attracted many visitors this week. These interesting examples of modern art were created by Mark Harris, Jr., assistant professor of art, Louisiana Tech. Exhibit number one was a distinctive glazed flower pot of yellow-orange and brown, with a design of oxen. A yellow and green croton was planted in the container. As an accessory, a sculptured head of a woman in terra cotta was placed to one side of the container.

Exhibit number two—a modern figurine of a madonna and crib in brown with an overlay of off-white. A branch of purple and red black-haw berries was placed in the background enhancing the effect of the rough textured clay figures.

Exhibit number three was placed against a chartreuse background. A charming green dragon and a very modern lion with a curly mane and an enlongated tail. Accompanying this exhibit was a vertical arrangement of variegated aspidistra and yellow dahlia buds and blooms in a tall brown container. A very pleasing effect in form, texture and color.

Exhibit number five — an elephant and a hippopotamus executed in light brown.

Exhibit number seven — was a beautiful enameled plate. Example of enamel over copper—the background white shading into soft green at the edge, with a red and gold modern design.

Don't forget the lecture tomorrow at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club. The Welcome Garden Club will present Mrs. Hugh Sutherland of Bethany Plantation, Miss. in a demonstration of Christmas and dried arrangements. Small fee. Time, 2:30 p.m.

The date on the Donald Hastings workshop in Shreveport is December 3rd, at the Louisiana State Exhibits Museum. Mr. Donald Hastings will lecture on horticulture at 10 a.m. Mrs. Donald Hastings on Christmas arrangements at 2 p.m. Both attractions are $1 each. We feel sure there will be many from Monroe interested in hearing these talented and experienced speakers.

Just arrived at the Garden Center is the Ben Arthur Davis book, "Daylilies and How to Grow Them." This book covers every detail about growing daylilies, their use as garden flowers and their heretofore overlooked value in flower arrangements. Those who grow daylilies realize that the daylilly offers untold possibilities for the everyday gardener. For the specialist who indulges in hybridizing, daylilies present a field virtually without equal in the plant world. Am sure you will want to read this interesting and informative book.

SOUTHERN GARDENER—

By William Lanier Hunt

Small Gardens Can Be Beautiful

Many people, even those with large properties, are cutting their gardening work down these days by planting a small garden near the house and setting out flowering trees, shrubs and quantities of bulbs around the rest of the place. If the small garden is right near the house, you may wish to start off with a sitting area paved or covered with stone or wooden blocks and perfectly level so that chairs and tables can be used on it. A great many garden minded people have just enlarged this "outdoor living room" into a sort of little garden. Since this is where you will spend more hours than you will anywhere else during the day, this is where you can enjoy your flowers and garden the most.

Even though the rest of your place may be beautiful, you will still want definite sides to a small garden where it begins and ends. The house may be one side, and its architecture will tell you something about the garden. If the house is a formal type, you will hardly lay out a wild garden next to it but will want some shaped evergreens and definite edges to the paths and open parts. A cottage type of house calls for a simple garden, and the beds can be bursting with flowers. No matter what the style, however, you still want definite boundaries. Think of the garden as a room which you are going to furnish. If what you can see from the garden is beautiful, then you can use that for wall paper and plant only a low wainscoting as a boundary. If the surroundings are not beautiful, then plant high walls of green and leave opening for windows at a few places where the view is good.

The center of your out-door room must be left open. Even if you do not use it as a sitting place, leave it open so that you can at least see across it. A small pool, a walk, a vista to the other end of the garden or a low bed of flowers but nothing to hide the other side should occupy the center. Keep the middle open even if the garden is round. Unless you are laying out a long narrow area, you will also wish to see across the garden from side to side at some place. Think about getting around and working in the flowers, and you will not lay the walks and vistas out too narrow. Four feet is as narrow as you can get by with for two people and five or six is better because plants will grow into the walk unless you have a formal edge planted way back from the walk.

Even in a little garden, you must use fairly good sized masses of one or two colors at a time instead of single plants here and there. It just takes more planning than a larger space does. Start out by having the soil especially prepared two feet deep so that you can plant some bulbs deep and then grow perennials and annuals over them. Tulips and daffodils can go down ten inches. Even crocuses like deep planting. In cities where people keep their little tiny gardens in bloom all year, they use potted plants and set them into the beds and around the terrace. After the flowers in pots finish blooming, they bring in some more right in bloom to replace them. They grow many kinds of vines on the walls of houses around their gardens and clip their hedges severely to save space. It is becoming fashionable to train sasanqua camellias and other plants on trellises these days. If these city gardens are flat, they raise the beds and plant the sides like a miniature rock garden. To make it seem cool in hot old New Orleans, they turn on the fountains. Even tiny patios too small for a fountain in the middle may have a wall fountain that drips or sprays. You can show the same originality in laying out a garden as you can with interior decorating.

My Answer

By BILLY GRAHAM

QUESTION: "Can we do evil-deeds now such as stealing, lying and other things and later in life ask for forgiveness from God and receive that forgiveness without making things right with the people we wronged?" H. T.

ANSWER: God's forgiveness is conditioned on true sorrow for sin and a willingness to give up sin by His grace and help. When we are converted, there should be a complete change in our lives. Where we have wronged others we should right the wrong. If we have stolen we should make restitution. If we have lied about others we should ask their forgiveness and try to undo the wrong so far as others are concerned. There are also sins which have not involved other people. These sins should be confessed to Christ and probably to Him only. Remember, God is yearning to forgive our sins if we will only accept and trust in His Son, the Savior. But, there must be sorrow for sin and no willful return to those sins. When we do fall, hurry back to the place where you left Christ — in your Bible study, in your daily prayer life, wherever you began to neglect Him. There you will find His loving forgiveness and there you will find the courage to go out and make things right with your fellow man.

Gray Ladies Have 5th Anniversary Program On Wed.

The fifth anniversary luncheon of the Gray Ladies was held in Redwood Lounge Wednesday noon. The table was in the form of a huge red cross. Five giant "mums" and the word "Years," explained the purpose of the event. As it was a wooden anniversary, blocks of wood were place cards. The committee responsible for the clever planning comprised: Mrs. Weinberh, Mrs. B. E. McWilliams, Mrs. Milton Coverdale and Mrs. Rosemary Allen.

Charter members were introduced by the chairman, Mrs. Robert L. Fuller, and they included past Gray Lady chairmen, Red Cross personnel, guests, chairmen and co-chairmen of homes, proprietors of homes and also she gave a brief outline of the foundation and work of Gray Ladies, W. E. Lamb, for the Red Cross, also talked interestingly of the work accomplished.

Gerald Coron, Red Cross field representative, gave an inspiring talk on the volunteer work in the Far East.

Mrs. W. J. Veazey gave the highlights of a Red Cross meeting which she attended in Atlanta.

Mrs. C. E. Faulk, chairman of the service group presented chevrons to two Gray Ladies after four years of service and bars to 18 who had made the yearly quota of 100 hours.

Certificates were awarded to the April and October 1954 classes by Mr. Lamb. Caps were presented to the new class by Mrs. Veazey and pins were similarly presented to the same persons as new members, by Mrs. B. E. McWilliams.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. False. Drs. Learned and Wood found in 40 colleges that one-third of the freshmen just entering knew more in every field of human knowledge than the more ignorant half of the seniors! A powerful proof that bright boys and girls should start to college at 16, be graduated and begin their life work at 20. Harvey Lehman has shown the greatest work in most fields is done before 35.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. An eminent scientist points out in a letter to me that obesity represents a higher metabolism (ability to utilize food) than non-obesity. When food was scarce — as in much of human history — those with higher fat tendency probably survived, while the string-bean types starved to death. It seems nature at least has always loved the fat man.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. Undoubtedly. Students of the effect of climate on man's behavior believe that the recent Russian outburst of energy has been due largely to a slow rise of three to five degrees in summer temperature. Scientists Raymond Wheeler, Clarence Mills, and Ellsworth Huntington have shown that a few degrees change in average temperature will change a whole civilization.

Compost Is Vital In All Plant Life

Does a plant ever out grow its need for humus? No—because humus does so many things for the soil. There are so many "creatures," like the earthworm, (and others not visible) that constantly need to be replenished. Humus has these creatures. That's why we Extension people talk so long and loud about the compost heap and about mulch around plants. Plants use the humus all the time, so there's never a time we can relax on that garden chore. Compost is a better form of humus, especially for poor soils. However, mulches around plants and in the shrubbery beds will decay and that's what humus is, decayed vegetation. In decaying, however, nitrogen is used from the soil. So it is important to add an extra amount of this nitrogen sometime during the growing season. Woods earth is a fine form of humus, but there's so little available.

Once you've decided to have a garden, first turn the soil over where you plan to plant. Loosen the earth well and add your humus. At that time it's a good idea to add one-half cup of 5-10-5 or 8-8-8 to each ten square feet of space. Work this in well. Then wait at least three weeks after several rains before planting. Maybe you've planted but never followed the above recommendations. For general and long time well being of your plants, it's a fine idea to go about the job in the right way.

Landscape Design

Mr. J. Duke Moody, from Memphis, was the speaker at the Monroe Garden Club Monday. I thought you'd like to know some of the fine things he said. I quote in part, "Our gardens today are for use, not just showy flower gardens as in past years. We want a feeling of tranquility, peace and an atmosphere of relaxation. One basic need of this garden is enclosure. You'd never think of building a house without walls. Just so the garden needs privacy. The garden needs divisions just as the house is separated into different areas. These areas differ with individual families but they usually run thus — living, cooking, play, and service. (He dwelt long on screening off the garbage can, clothes line and necessary debris.)

"The terrace is a necessity since houses are getting smaller and more compact and the walls are not elastic. There needs to be a place close to the living room so living can spill out on to this area. Also the terrace should be close to the kitchen — if this is possible. This living area should be twice the size of the living room. Most home owners construct terraces too small for use.

"The service area should be placed where it is needed. Also, walks need to be placed where walking is done or else you'll have bare places in the lawn. Drive ways and garages no longer need to be placed away from the house at the back of the lot. Place them for convenience.

"Now, after the areas are located, the actual decoration can be decided on. Occult balance is better in landscaping than symmetrical balance. (Symmetrical balance is achieved by putting two plants exactly alike for balance. Occult balance uses maybe a group of small shrubs to balance one large one. Mr. Moody didn't say this in parenthesis. That's a la Swift.)

"There's no need to build a beautiful garden unless you're going to keep it. Labor is a problem now so a labor saving plan is needed. If you use curves make them long and easy like a Strauss waltz —not like boogie woogie. All respectable houses have foundations so there's no need to hide them."

Apologies to Mr. Moody, if I misinterpreted his ideas at any point. Quoting radio, "The opinions broadcast were those of the speaker and not necessarily those of the station." (me).

Another Good Year

For those who like to eat — and who doesn't — there's good news from the economists. 1955 will be another good year with probably record supplies of food and with consumers generally able to spend a considerable part of their income to buy it. Prices are expected to be about the same as in 1954. We'll be eating more eggs at popular prices, more chicken, beef, pork (at lower price) frozen fruits and vegetables, oranges and rice. But —we'll be eating less per person of turkey, potatoes, grapefruit, canned fruits and vegetables and sweet potatoes.

Around Town

Mrs. Louis Milner, Jr., 2764 Point Drive, will give shasta daisies to anybody who'll come by and pick them up. This is a good time to plant them.

The last of the slip cover shows will be given on KNOE-TV Tuesday at 2:30. We'll review all previous steps, show you how to cover the cushion, and we'll see how the finished cover will look. And — we'll take the pinned cover off the chair showing you how we pinned the pieces together and not to the chair.

And — I'd better get out of here before I use all the space—see you next Sunday.

Garden Center Notes

By Mary M. Jardine

Ceramics Display Attracts Many To Center

The ceramics display at the Garden Center attracted many visitors this week. These interesting examples of modern art were created by Mark Harris, Jr., assistant professor of art, Louisiana Tech. Exhibit number one was a distinctive glazed flower pot of yellow-orange and brown, with a design of oxen. A yellow and green croton was planted in the container. As an accessory, a sculptured head of a woman in terra cotta was placed to one side of the container.

Exhibit number two—a modern figurine of a madonna and crib in brown with an overlay of off-white. A branch of purple and red blackhaw berries was placed in the background enhancing the effect of the rough textured clay figures.

Exhibit number three was placed against a chartreuse background. A charming green dragon and a very modern lion with a curly mane and an enlongated tail. Accompanying this exhibit was a vertical arrangement of variegated aspidistra and yellow dahlia buds and blooms in a tall brown container. A very pleasing effect in form, texture and color.

Exhibit number four. A primitive sculpture in a texture that resembles black lava and an African dish in orange, black and white.

Exhibit number five — an elephant and a hippopotamus executed in light brown.

Exhibit number six — was a small white pottery bowl in blue and white and a vase in white with a design of red around the border. For a background, a vertical design of the grey-green leaves of the century plant was used, lending a Spanish or Mexican air to this exhibit.

Exhibit number seven — was a beautiful enameled plate. Example of enamel over copper—the background white shading into soft green at the edge, with a red and gold modern design.

Don't forget the lecture tomorrow at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club. The Welcome Garden Club will present Mrs. Hugh Sutherland of Bethany Plantation, Miss. in a demonstration of Christmas and dried arrangements. Small fee. Time, 2:30 p.m.

The date on the Donald Hastings workshop in Shreveport is December 3rd, at the Louisiana State Exhibits Museum. Mr. Donald Hastings will lecture on horticulture at 10 a.m. Mrs. Donald Hastings on Christmas arrangements at 2 p.m. Both attractions are $1 each. We feel sure there will be many from Monroe interested in hearing these talented and experienced speakers.

Just arrived at the Garden Center is the Ben Arthur Davis book, "Daylilies and How to Grow Them." This book covers every detail about growing daylilies, their use as garden flowers and their heretofore overlooked value in flower arrangements. Those who grow daylilies realize that the daylily offers untold possibilities for the everyday gardener. For the specialist who indulges in hybridizing, daylilies present a field virtually without equal in the plant world. Am sure you will want to read this interesting and informative book.

SOUTHERN GARDENER—

By William Lanier Hunt

Small Gardens Can Be Beautiful

Many people, even those with large properties, are cutting their gardening work down these days by planting a small garden near the house and setting out flowering trees, shrubs and quantities of bulbs around the rest of the place. If the small garden is right near the house, you may wish to start off with a sitting area paved or covered with stone or wooden blocks and perfectly level so that chairs and tables can be used on it. A great many garden minded people have just enlarged this "outdoor living room" into a sort of little garden. Since this is where you will spend more hours than you will anywhere else during the day, this is where you can enjoy your flowers and garden the most.

Even though the rest of your place may be beautiful, you will still want definite sides to a small garden where it begins and ends. The house may be one side, and its architecture will tell you something about the garden. If the house is a formal type, you will hardly lay out a wild garden next to it but will want some shaped evergreens and definite edges to the paths and open parts. A cottage type of house calls for a simple garden, and the beds can be bursting with flowers. No matter what the style, however, you still want definite boundaries. Think of the garden as a room which you are going to furnish. If what you can see from the garden is beautiful, then you can use that for wall paper and plant only a low wainscoting as a boundary. If the surroundings are not beautiful, then plant high walls of green and leave opening for windows at a few places where the view is good.

The center of your out-door room must be left open. Even if you do not use it as a sitting place, leave it open so that you can at least see across it. A small pool, a walk, a vista to the other end of the garden or a low bed of flowers but nothing to hide the other side should occupy the center. Keep the middle open even if the garden is round. Unless you are laying out a long narrow area, you will also wish to see across the garden from side to side at some place. Think about getting around and working in the flowers, and you will not lay the walks and vistas out too narrow. Four feet is as narrow as you can get by with for two people and five or six is better because plants will grow into the walk unless you have a formal edge planted way back from the walk.

Even in a little garden, you must use fairly good sized masses of one or two colors at a time instead of single plants here and there. It just takes more planning than a larger space does. It is becoming fashionable to train sasanqua camellias and other plants on trellises these days. If these city gardens are flat, they raise the beds and plant the sides like a miniature rock garden. To make it seem cool in hot old New Orleans, they turn on the fountains. Even tiny patios too small for a fountain in the middle may have a wall fountain that drips or sprays. DRAMATIC DECOLLETAGE... LATE-DAY FASHION BY CABANA

A CABANA ORIGINAL
by Isabel Dobson

PROMINENT DESIGNER—What happens to a woman's shoulders in Paris, in America after five o'clock? Often they disappear—beautifully—under a stunning fashion. Here, American designer Isabel Dobson does it with a little covering at the shoulders to frame a very daring decolletage. Her dark jewel of a late-day dress is a disarming, deceptively simple sheath (completely devastating to every male for miles around)! Notice the Empire bodice, smoothly seamed under the bosom to give a young, high-curved look. A long zipper down the back cinches the wisp-of-a-waist. Sewing? No complications. Fabric? Miss Dobson's original for Cabana is a sultry black chiffon broadcloth, but you might make your copy in faille or shimmering satin. The slim lines of A870 are perfectly suited to almost any fabric.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

Striving For Perfection May Create Tensions

It happens that two letters from readers with the same thought have just passed through my hands. Both of them asked that I write a column about those women who ruin life for themselves and for everyone else by being perfectionists.

One letter says, "So many women today are ruining themselves by trying to attain perfection. They will settle for none less than perfection. The price; fatigue, illness, glandular imbalance, nervous tension. Will you please write something about ruining one's health in trying to have a perfect home, perfect children, etc."

The second letter; "My sister sets up such a high level of perfection for herself that she is always exhausted. Her doctor says there is nothing organically wrong with her, that it is emotional. She drove her child back and forth to school until he was 16, and twice as big as she, because she feared something might happen to him. No speck of dust is allowed in her house.

"Please write something about being a perfectionist and a too conscientious mother. She reads your articles and this one might help her to relax."

They Are Exhausted

Nothing is more laudable than to be a conscientious and devoted mother or to create a charming home atmosphere, but many women set such standards of perfection for themselves that they are exhausted and make life uncomfortable for their families children and their friends.

There is more to a charming home atmosphere than attractively arranged furniture, spotless curtains and dustless rugs. There is warmth and gaiety, understanding and time for companionship. The woman who is a perfectionist does not have time for these. She is too busy with material things, and fatigue does not breed either gaiety or understanding.

Psychologists tell us that one of the main reasons for frustration is striving for goals out of our reach. Take, for example, the man or woman who tries for a career for which he or she does not have the talent, only the desire. This individual lives in a perpetual state of frustration whereas he could have done a swell job in another career and felt happy and successful.

The woman who strives for perfection in home running or children is doomed from the start. If the home is perfect it is not lived in with happiness and abandon. I myself never had the opportunity to know a perfectly trained or groomed child intimately, thank heavens. I think that would be gruesome!

At our house we have three palatable, nutritious meals a day and an attractive physical atmosphere, but I must admit the latter shows spots of living. When I entertain our friends, they have to take it or leave it, because I always plan it so that I can enjoy my guests. If the dust settles once in a while I would not exchange lack of it for the fun I have had. I am just not the type for a nervous breakdown because of trying to be a perfectionist. I know I can't be, and it would bore me because of what I would be missing.

Your Problems

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Mrs. Landers: I was married when I was 21; my wife was 17. We were married for eight years when, out of the blue, my wife asked for a divorce, giving no reason execept that she wanted to be "single." Neither of us ever cheated on the other; I know there was no other man.

Just before our divorce was final my wife asked me to come back to her but I refused, as I didn't like being hurt again. We now have been divorced for two years and she has been married to another man for one year. I love her and she says that she loves me. Her husband is a nice guy and I do not want to cause trouble but she says she has never loved him. What am I going to do?—Real Mixed-Up

Since you and your child-bride have taken the long, hard way around and now, after needlessly involving a third innocent victim, you have come to the conclusion that you were "meant for one another, after all," there is nothing to do but to sacrifice her present husband on your altar of love and remarry. Hope you have both learned your lessons.

Dear Ann Landers: We have been married for four years and have two children. My husband, whom I love and who loves me, admits that if it were not for the fact that we lived with my parents for the last four years, we could never have managed financially. Yet, now, when we are on our own and renting a basement flat from my parents, my husband is not even civil to them.

He has never called them "Mom and Dad" and now he doesn't even speak to them. He says he is too tired to talk; he is holding two jobs. The situation is making me sick; I cry myself to sleep. Please help me.—Heartbroken.

Why should you get all fussed up and cry: It is your husband who is making a fool of himself and gaining a reputation for being a first-class boor. Just tell him that if his holding two jobs is making him so inhuman that he cannot be civil to people, particularly your parents, to whom he owes so much, he'd better drop one; it's not worth it. Don't apologize for him. Just ignore his behavior. There will come a day when he will again need your parents' help — then watch him talk to them!

Confidentially: The Joneses — "Jennie Jones and Mary."

DRAMATIC DECOLLETAGE... LATE-DAY FASHION BY CABANA

PATTERN A870
A CABANA ORIGINAL
by Isabel Dobson

PROMINENT DESIGNER—What happens to a woman's shoulders in Paris, in America after five o'clock? Often they disappear—beautifully—under a stunning fashion. Here, American designer Isabel Dobson does it with a little covering at the shoulders to frame a very daring decolletage. Her dark jewel of a late-day dress is a disarming, deceptively simple sheath (completely devastating to every male for miles around)! Notice the Empire bodice, smoothly seamed under the bosom to give a young, high-curved look. A long zipper down the back cinches the wisp-of-a-waist. Sewing? No complications. Fabric? Miss Dobson's original for Cabana is a sultry black chiffon broadcloth, but you might make your copy in faille or shimmering satin. The slim lines of A870 are perfectly suited to almost any fabric.

Pattern A870 is available in Misses' Sizes 10, 12, 14, 16 and 18. See pattern for required yardages.

James Stewart Tops Big Cast In 'Rear Window'

The man who can take an everyday situation and turn it into a sinister episode of dread and suspense is at it again. The man, of course, is famed motion picture producer-director, Alfred Hitchcock and his latest venture into chill-filled celluloid is Paramount's Technicolor mystery thriller, "Rear Window," which is due to open today at the Paramount Theatre.

Starring James Stewart and co-starring Grace Kelly, Wendell Corey, and Thelma Ritter with Raymond Burr, the film is reportedly the best Hitchcock ever. Set against a background of New York's famed Greenwich Village, "Rear Window," starts off placidly enough by introducing the audience to Mr. Stewart, a world-renowned news photographer who is confined to a wheelchair with a broken leg which he suffered during the performance of his dangerous duties.

Jimmy has nothing in the world to do but wile away his time in his Village apartment until his leg heals. He is visited by the insurance company nurse, Thelma Ritter, and by his beautiful career-minded girl friend, Grace Kelly. Between these visitations Mr. Stewart idly gazes out of his window at his neighbors.

One dark night he sees what he believes to be a murder. It is then that the suspense mounts, with teeth-chattering terror fashioned in the inimitable Hitchcock manner. It reaches a crescendo pitch that rivals anything that has ever been flashed on a motion picture screen.

The heart - stopping adventure that is served up in "Rear Window" has been met by advance audiences with all of the superlatives in the book. The Hitchcock-inspired acting of the principals and the dynamic flow of excitement and humor that the master of suspense has so artfully placed in the film has also been roundly applauded.

Written for the screen by John Michael Hayes, "Rear Window" emerges as a spine-tingling film that affords the utmost in motion picture suspense entertainment. It is eagerly awaited film-fare.

Best-Selling Novel Is Popular On Screen

By TAB HUNTER (Guest Columnist)

HOLLYWOOD, November 13 — The exciting adaptation of "Battle Cry" proves again the value of a best-selling novel as popular screen fare.

Filmed in CinemaScope and WarnerColor, it follows closely Leon Uris' book dealing with the romances, the training and the battles of a group of Marines during World War II.

The man who knew the most about the story—Mr. Uris, himself—was assigned to write the screenplay. As a Marine private who saw duty at Guadalcanal, Tarawa and Saipan, Uris' novel and screenplay are based on personal experiences. The author was driving a news truck for the San Francisco Call-Bulletin at the time he began writing the book.

Director Raoul Walsh spent months in selecting actors and actresses who would be perfectly suited for the characters they were to portray.

For the Marine roles he wanted men who combined fine acting talent with a good military record. He figured that military experience was a prerequisite for a performance which would do justice to the Marines who fought so courageously for the islands of the Pacific.

A rundown of the cast members indicates how successful Walsh was in lining up a fighting paltoon. Van Heflin, the Major Huxley of the story, was an air force lieutenant in the European Theatre of war. Aldo Ray (Andy) and James Whitmore (Mac), as a member of a navy underwater demolition team and a machine gun officer, respectively, participated in the Saipan invasion depicted in "Battle Cry." I, playing Danny was too young for World War II, but at the age of sixteen I served a year in the Coast Guard.

For the women in the lives of the marines, Walsh selected a bevy of beauties any marine would love to come home to. Mona Freeman as Kathy, Nancy Olson as Pat, Dorothy Malone as Elaine and Anne Francis as Rae.

Within censorship regulations Walsh depicted the emotions and passions of war-time love as described in the novel. As a result the romantic sequences will rank among the most torrid love scenes in cinema history.

The battle scenes, which figure in the final portions of the picture, were filmed on the little Caribbean Island of Vieques, Puerto Rico. Here with the full cooperation of the navy and marine corps, Walsh was able to photograph the spectacular battle and landing exercises conducted by the marines.

Since "Battle Cry" was filmed in CinemaScope the Marines could not supply any combat footage shot during World War II. With his leading actors Walsh had to recreate the invasions of Guadalcanal, Tarawa and Saipan.

The film invasions were as precisely timed and carefully planned as an actual landing. With four CinemaScope cameras trained on the action, director of cinematography Sid Hickox was able to obtain some of the most exciting battle footage ever seen.

While working on Vieques the actors lived under strict Marino regulations. They bunked four in a tent at the marine camp, made their own beds, stood in the chow lines with tin trays and were shuttled back and forth on the rough roads in open trucks. They were really Marines both in front of and away from the CinemaScope cameras.

The boot camp and other training sequences before the men are shipped overseas were photographed at naval and marine installations in San Diego and at the marine base at Camp Pendleton.

"Battle Cry," which tells a thrilling story entertainingly, is a graphic example of why producers carefully consider all popular novels as possible screen hits.

James Stewart Tops Big Cast In 'Rear Window'

The man who can take an every-day situation and turn it into a sinister episode of dread and suspense is at it again. The man, of course, is famed motion picture producer-director, Alfred Hitchcock and his latest venture into chill-filled celluloid is Paramount's Technicolor mystery thriller, "Rear Window," which is due to open today at the Paramount Theatre.

Starring James Stewart and co-starring Grace Kelly, Wendell Corey, and Thelma Ritter with Raymond Burr, the film is reportedly the best Hitchcock ever. Set against a background of New York's famed Greenwich Village, "Rear Window," starts off placidly enough by introducing the audience to Mr. Stewart, a world-renowned news photographer who is confined to a wheelchair with a broken leg which he suffered during the performance of his dangerous duties.

Jimmy has nothing in the world to do but wile away his time in his Village apartment until his leg heals. He is visited by the insurance company nurse, Thelma Ritter, and by his beautiful career-minded girl friend, Grace Kelly. Between these visitations Mr. Stewart idly gazes out of his window at his neighbors.

One dark night he sees what he believes to be a murder. It is then that the suspense mounts, with teeth-chattering terror fashioned in the inimitable Hitchcock manner. It reaches a crescendo pitch that rivals anything that has ever been flashed on a motion picture screen.

The heart - stopping adventure that is served up in "Rear Window" has been met by advance audiences with all of the superlatives in the book. The Hitchcock-inspired acting of the principals and the dynamic flow of excitement and humor that the master of suspense has so artfully placed in the film has also been roundly applauded.

Written for the screen by John Michael Hayes, "Rear Window" emerges as a spine-tingling film that affords the utmost in motion picture suspense entertainment. It is eagerly awaited film-fare.

The author was driving a news truck for the San Francisco Call-Bulletin at the time he began writing the book.

Director Raoul Walsh spent months in selecting actors and actresses who would be perfectly suited for the characters they were to portray.

For the Marine roles he wanted men who combined fine acting talent with a good military record. He figured that military experience was a prerequisite for a performance which would do justice to the Marines who fought so courageously for the islands of the Pacific.

A rundown of the cast members indicates how successful Walsh was in lining up a fighting paltoon. Van Heflin, the Major Huxley of the story, was an air force lieutenant in the European Theatre of war. Aldo Ray (Andy) and James Whitmore (Mac), as a member of a navy underwater demolition team and a machine gun officer, respectively, participated in the Saipan invasion depicted in "Battle Cry." I, playing Danny was too young for World War II, but at the age of sixteen I served a year in the Coast Guard.

For the women in the lives of the marines, Walsh selected a bevy of beauties any marine would love to come home to. Mona Freeman as Kathy, Nancy Olson as Pat, Dorothy Malone as Elaine and Anne Francis as Rae.

Within censorship regulations Walsh depicted the emotions and passions of war-time love as described in the novel. As a result the romantic sequences will rank among the most torrid love scenes in cinema history.

The battle scenes, which figure in the final portions of the picture, were filmed on the little Caribbean Island of Vieques, Puerto Rico. Here with the full cooperation of the navy and marine corps, Walsh was able to photograph the spectacular battle and landing exercises conducted by the marines.

Since "Battle Cry" was filmed in CinemaScope the Marines could not supply any combat footage shot during World War II. With his leading actors Walsh had to recreate the invasions of Guadalcanal, Tarawa and Saipan.

The film invasions were as precisely timed and carefully planned as an actual landing. With four CinemaScope cameras trained on the action, director of cinematography Sid Hickox was able to obtain some of the most exciting battle footage ever seen.

While working on Vieques the actors lived under strict Marino regulations. They bunked four in a tent at the marine camp, made their own beds, stood in the chow lines with tin trays and were shuttled back and forth on the rough roads in open trucks. They were really Marines both in front of and away from the CinemaScope cameras.

The boot camp and other training sequences before the men are shipped overseas were photographed at naval and marine installations in San Diego and at the marine base at Camp Pendleton.

"Battle Cry," which tells a thrilling story entertainingly, is a graphic example of why producers carefully consider all popular novels as possible screen hits.
